Toll free service - yes or no?

The directors' meeting of the Madoc Chamber of Commerce held on August 16th, at the Madoc Hotel, saw the chamber making plans for the remainder of the year and assessing some of the programs that had taken place this year.

It was decided that this year's Santa Claus Parade would be held on December 1st at 2 p.m. The theme of the parade will be the Year of the Child and cartoon characters with Harry McGuire as chairman and David Copperthwaite as his assistant. The Chamber of Commerce will be entering a float built by Mr. Copperthwaite.

The Mystery Bus Tours were also discussed and it was decided that they would continue next year because, those that were not rained out this year, were very successful.

The Chamber of Commerce also paid for the ice cream sold at Kids' Weekend for 5 cents a cone.

The major topic of discussion was toll free telephone service between Madoc and Belleville. The main problem seems to be whether the residents of the village want this service or not. It would not mean a major increase in the telephone bills but, to get this service, 80 percent of the village must support the proposal. If organizations in the area are interested in this service, they should write to Bell Telephone indicating their desire for toll free service and, if there appears to be enough support, a survey would be carried out at which time 80 percent of the village would be required to support the program before we would receive the service. The chamber will need the support of the clubs and organizations in the area, to say nothing of the people of the village, if they hope to get this service.

At the regular membership meeting held after the directors' meeting, the Chamber of Commerce had asked for "mind bending ideas" and did they get a honey! One man suggested that the Village of Madoc be enclosed with a huge dome. Well, at least our parades and ball tournaments wouldn't have to worry about weather (which should please the organizers of Kids' Weekend). Maybe we could get Mayor Jean Drapeau to supervise the project.

When the laughter died down, they got back to discussing more serious topics. Debra Anne Wiggins reported on the Sidewalk Sale and felt that it could be

Community Calendar is no more

Due to the lack of support from the public, the Madoc Community Calendar which has appeared in the Madoc Review for the past year, will be discontinued in this issue. Originally, the community calendar was brought into being as a method of informing the public free of charge, of local events that were taking place in the community. Local businessmen paid for the page with small ads surrounding the calendar at very reasonable prices.

In the beginning, the plan worked and we felt that the advertisers and the community were both benefiting from the calendar. However, as time progressed, fewer events appeared on the calendar in spite of our attempts to obtain information and the advertisers slowly started to withdraw their support. The calendar has continued to deteriorate in the past months to the point that we feel it is no longer a good thing for the community or our advertisers. For this reason, the community calendar will no longer appear in the Review.

Woodburners - a store for woodburners

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Powell, the owners and managers of the new Woodburners store in Madoc, are pictured in front of their store during the grand opening on Saturday. The Powells felt that their timing in opening the store was perfect since the price of heating oil went up 3 cents per gallon last week.

Is the Village of Madoc getting ready to complete one of the more successful years that it has had in a great many years? It could very well be with the fact that the bowling alley is re-opening this year and appears to be getting the support of the bowlers in the area while, on the same weekend, another new store is opening on Madoc's main street. Woodburners, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ron Powell of Madoc, is a store that caters primarily to those people mentioned in the name, people interested in burning wood to keep the price of heating their homes down throughout Canada's long and bitter winter months.

Why open a store for woodburners in this area? Mr. and Mrs. Powell point to the rising cost of heating homes with electricity and oil as the major reason. "Our timing couldn't have been better since the cost of heating oil went up 3 cents a gallon last week. Most people in small rural areas have access to wood and the trend over the past few years has definitely shown that people are being forced to seek an alternative and why shouldn't we use one that suits everyone?"

Mr. and Mrs. Powell are both teachers in Madoc and they practice what they teach. They saved $475.00 on their heating bill last year because they burned wood throughout the winter and they feel that everyone can take advantage of these savings and probably will within the next few years. Wood stoves have been part of a booming business in the past few years and have been improved to the point where they are now a very viable alternative to oil or electricity. "There was nothing like it in Madoc, so we decided that if we didn't do it now, we probably never would."

The store, while mainly consisting of woodstoves and fireplace accessories, is also stocked with what the Powells call recreation furniture, which consists of such things as rocking chairs, bar sets, mirrors and various other pieces to accentuate your decor. The majority of stoves presently in stock are supplied by Sterling Industries of Concord, Ontario, along with most of their fireplace accessories. However, they also have a choice of stoves imported from France and the United States. As the seasons change, you will also see the stock in the store change somewhat. For instance, in the spring, you would be able to go in and shop for barbecues and patio sets.

The Powells, as mentioned before, are both teachers so during school hours, the store will be managed by Maureen Brownlee. The Powells will be in the store during the evenings and on Saturdays.

When asked how they had been received by the people of Madoc, the Powells smiled and replied, "We have been very happy with the number of people who have dropped in and shown an interest in the store. Last week, while we were still decorating and stocking the store, many

Bowling Alley re-opens

Bowlers of all ages in Madoc will be happy to hear that the bowling alley in Madoc will again be open this year, under new management. Mr. and Mrs. Art Mason, of Campbellford, are the new managers of the alley and they are looking for bowlers of past leagues to return at the same price that it cost them to bowl last year.

Mr. Mason may be familiar to bowlers in this area as the manager of Bel-Mar Bowl near Havelock, a position which he held for two years. Organization is not one of Mr. Mason's weak points, either. Last year, he organized a Golden Age group for the Trent Valley Lanes in Campbellford and, after starting out with 28 in the league, he had boosted that total to 52 by the end of the season. This year, 64 people have already registered in that league and Mr. Mason would like to see the same kind of enthusiasm here in Madoc.

If scheduling has been a problem for you in past years, it shouldn't be a problem this year. Mr. and Mrs. Mason realize that they may have to put in many long hours to make their new enterprise a success so, if it is necessary (and they hope it is) they will have the bowling lanes open seven days a week. However, Tuesday evenings, Thursday afternoons and evenings are already booked, so if you are interested in starting a league, it is to your advantage to call and make arrangements as soon as possible. The Thursday night league is returning this year and the Masons hope to have a competitive Golden Age League on Thursday afternoons.

Open bowling is also being given a high priority by Art and Dorothy Mason. Friday evenings, Saturday afternoons and Sunday are presently available for open bowling and, if the regular league play throughout the week ends early enough, open bowling could also take place throughout the week, following regular league play.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason are presently living in Campbellford and they are not planning on moving to Madoc until they see how things are going to work out. If interest is any indication, they could be moving anytime. For the past week, boys looking for jobs have been streaming to the bowling alley and applying for positions and people interested in bowling have been arriving at the alley while Mr. and Mrs. Mason were still unpacking their car prior to opening the alley on Saturday, even though the official opening was not scheduled to take place until 1 p.m. Mr.

and Mrs. Mason are encouraged by this interest and expect the year to be a success.

"We have several trophies on our shelves for a Wednesday night men's league and we wouldn't mind at all if a group of men formed a league for that night and won those trophies," said Mr. Mason. This couple are more than willing to suit their hours to the demands of their patrons and, for that reason, their enterprise should be a success. You, the bowlers of the area, have the chance to support an alley that wants nothing more than to give the best service to its patrons that is possible and it is up to you to see that the Mason's work is not in vain. Art and Dorothy, we wish you well!

The bowling alley - from the business end.

Some of the badges and pins that are available to Golden Age bowlers, are pictured above. Mr. and Mrs. Mason would like to see many of their bowlers wearing these badges at the end of the year.

Around the village

B. Jean Asselstine

Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft spent the weekend of August 25th with Rev. and Mrs. Grant Richardson, in Delta.

Wilfred Wainhouse and friend Gene, of Seattle, Wash., visited Wilfred's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tobin and other relatives for a few days recently. These boys have toured through the Southern States and are returning home through Northern Ontario and the western provinces.

Betty Stevens returned home on August

3rd, after spending a month in Calgary, Alberta, with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Paul, Craig and Colleen. On her return home, Mrs. Stevens' daughter Shirley, from Toronto, spent a week's holiday with her. The following week Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stevens' spent the weekend with their mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Derek Travis have spent two weeks touring Ontario, Quebec and the east coast, Gaspé, Montreal, New Brunswick and, on their return, spent a few days in Gananoque with Constable Dave de Wolfe.

people dropped in to see who was opening a store and what it would be selling. That kind of interest must have made the owners happy that they made their decision when they did and should bode well for the future of the store. They admitted to working late into the night on Friday night to get the store looking exactly as they wanted it. This attention to detail paid off in that they have a very attractive store that will be a pleasure for their patrons to shop in. This type of quality store and personal service is what Madoc has become famous for and definitely will not hurt the downtown core of our village. We welcome the Powells and wish them success and prosperity in the future.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

If people want to give a donation to "Operation Love" to help a Vietnamese family, and require a receipt for tax deduction, the best way is to give it to their church with a request to put it on account 515 "Operation Love." This way, the church will be able to give a receipt for tax deductions. "Operation Love" is not an organization, but just a group of enthusiastic sponsors who need money. We appreciate all donations big and small.

I also have noticed that there are people who have the wrong understanding of what we are doing. We are not trying to spoil a Vietnamese family by giving them a free apartment, food, clothes, etc. and let them live on our expenses. We only like to show compassion and love to those who have suffered so much, lost everything including children and other relatives. We only like to help them and give them new hope and a new part in life. I personally think this is the least I can do to show my Christian faith by helping one another.

We as sponsors are sure of the success and want to help unselfishly.

The Smiths of Dartford Mill

Frank Smith spends five days a week as a nuclear engineer at the Darlington Nuclear Power Station, taking part in the development of Canada's energy for tomorrow.

But on these hot summer weekends, he and his wife Maureen retire to their home in Dartford, a community five miles south of Hastings, where he contemplates the restoration of an age old energy source—the water wheel.

Five years ago, Frank and Maureen Smith came here from Britain, and purchased the Dartford Mill which was at that time in the middle stages of decay. For a century, the mill was the heart of the village, where area farmers would bring their wheat to be ground. The mill was perched on a hill beside the Percy Creek, and the fast water at that point moved the wheels and turbines and with the constant, shuddering drone of the wooden wheel, so continued the pulse of life in that village.

Dartford is much smaller today, and is largely populated by people from the city wanting to get away from it all. The mill continued to operate in spite of declining demand, until 1974, when Morley Dunk, the last miller, sold the mill to Frank Smith.

"We bought the land on the condition that we would look after the water level," says Mrs. Smith.

Mr. Smith learned about water level control from Morley Dunk. In the fall, the 30 acre pond behind the wood and cement dam is drained a bit, to allow for excessive amounts of water during the spring run-off. The pond is a natural paradise for fish and aquatic birds. The Smiths can watch herons and wild ducks from their back porch. The pond is bordered by only three homes, and the neighbours have agreed to preserve the unpolluted habitat for the wildlife in the area.

"Of course, the locals have their duck shoot in the fall," sighs Mr. Smith. "There isn't much we can do about that."

Around the turn of the century, the old Dartford Mill burned down. It's believed that a spark from a diesel engine from a sawmill across the stream began the blaze. It was rebuilt, but over the years it declined in condition, to the point now where little of the mill remains.

The Smiths set to work on the site two years ago, and have brought all the comforts of home to the building. At first, they were forced to use a bathroom that hung out over the creek. Needless to say, the embarrassment for the Smiths in using it inspired hurried completion of a more central john. "In the meantime, we had no alternative," says Mrs. Smith, almost apologetically.

The frame of the building was covered with finer woods and materials. Blackened wood floors were sanded to their original, clean appearance. A loading dock was boarded in for a front room, and the mill room is being converted into a large recreation room. Mrs. Smith says they've entertained the idea of opening a tearoom and craft shop. A large wooden wheel is suspended from the wall next to the creek, a remnant of the turbine system that once crushed wheat. In the cellar, much of the iron turbine gear remains, rusted and probably entombed forever. The mill office has been converted to a modern kitchen.

The Smiths may be 'new' Canadians, but they fully appreciate the history of their area. They've spoken at length with their neighbours about the golden days of Dartford, and can discourse at length about characters like the blacksmith who had a shop, oh, up there on the hill behind those trees, whose eloquence and verse were plied to paper over fifty years ago.

And there is the mill. Mr. Smith says he and his wife would like to retire here, and looks ahead to the day when a home-made water-wheel can be built and set above the now bone-dry mill channel. Grass and shrubbery poke between the smooth, rounded stones of the channel bed; for years ago, the wheel was removed and the channel was stopped up. Mr. Smith wants to clear the channel of the old wood and cement, put up a new wheel, and reopen the channel.

Its purpose, then, would be appearance's sake, but will recall the past of a village that has long since seen its heyday.

A Guelph bee helps Kenya

Professor Gordon Townsend's eyes sparkle when he talks about the expansion and improvement in beekeeping in Kenya and surrounding parts of Africa. The famous bee specialist from the University of Guelph is thrilled about the government's recent decision to continue the Kenya beekeeping project, considered by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) to be one of its more successful programs. A new agreement has been signed extending the eight-year old project to at least 1982.

Bees can provide an important source of extra income to many of Kenya's people, in many cases doubling or tripling their

After the presentation of several gifts, a buffet supper was served and enjoyed by all.

Both Art and Sadie were born in the Madoc area and returned here about 7 years ago to enjoy retirement. They are known to their friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness and generosity.

Look who's stealing your electricity.

Heavy dust on your refrigerator coils makes it work harder to keep its cool. An occasional vacuuming of the coils behind or underneath the refrigerator can help it last longer and it won't use more electricity than it has to.

Take the $1 bill test. Shut the door of your fridge on a dollar bill. If the bill pulls out easily cold air can flow out too, adding to your energy costs. The fridge may need a new gasket or the solution may be as simple as making sure the appliance is level.

If there's more than .6 cm. (1/4 inch) of frost in your freezer, you're putting energy on ice. Regular defrosting is easy to do and it's easier on the fridge.

Tune-up, Clean-up

It's simple. Appliances that are clean and well-cared for last longer and they use less electricity. Over the long run, you can save money on appliance replacement. And of course, the less energy you waste, the more dollars you save.

normal income with little investment in money or time and no investment in land. It provides two important commodities, honey for home consumption and beeswax for export.

Throughout Africa and other developing countries, beekeeping conditions are quite different from those in North America or Europe, and technology and management techniques cannot be simply transferred. As a result of his studies of some of the problems facing African beekeepers, the name of Professor Townsend and of the University of Guelph are respected throughout Africa and Asia. Guelph's "practical approach" is well known.

In 1966 CIDA sent the first group of apiculture extension officers to Guelph for short term training. In 1969, Prof. Townsend undertook an extensive study tour of Africa to learn more of the conditions and the problems facing African beekeepers. That study has paid off in providing the background needed to provide training to meet the needs of the extension officers from Tanzania, Kenya, Uganda and Ethiopia.

In addition to the short term courses provided for extension officers, Mr. I.K. Kigatiira, officer in charge of the beekeeping section of the National Agricultural Laboratories in Kenya completed graduate study at the University of Guelph and returned to his homeland in 1975 to take charge of the program when the Canadian team returned home. In addition, three Kenyan students have received special certificates from the University of Guelph. Prof. Townsend expects another Kenyan student to enrol at Guelph this fall in an undergraduate program in apiculture.

Mr. Kigatiira now has a staff of 20 full-time trained workers in addition to another 50 part-time field workers, most of whom were trained in Kenya. Beekeeping is one of the most important parts of the agriculture ministry in Kenya.

One of the most important contributions Prof. Townsend has made to African beekeeping has been the development of a new hive design especially adapted to the African bees and African conditions. The hollow log type of hives used previously made it impossible to remove honey without having brood mixed in with it. With the killing of much of the brood, the bees are frightened away. The improved hive makes possible the removal of honey without damaging the brood.

With the more high strung African bees, it was also necessary to design a hive that made bee control during removal easier than is the case with the hives used by North American beekeepers.

In addition, our hives are designed to sit on the ground, but in Africa the hives must be suspended to protect them from marauding badgers and the ravages of safari ants. The voracious ants can clean out an entire bee yard in a single night, says Prof. Townsend. The wires suspending the hive are greased to further discourage the ants.

Honey produced in the traditional African hives is useful only for brewing because of its contamination with brood and beeswax, but honey produced in the improved hives is more suitable for table use and is considered an important food staple. Up to the present, Kenya has been importing Australian honey to supplement domestic production. Beekeepers market their product through local co-operatives which must find financing for the revolving fund needed to pay the beekeeper cash on the barrel head before they can process and market the crop. One co-operative has obtained such funding through the efforts of a church congregation in Guelph, with the church funds augmented by Canadian government support.

At present, Kenya produces nearly 10,000 tons of honey a year, but Mr.

JO-ANNE LAKE

While I was away on holidays, a new addition came to the Pietschman family. A lovely daughter, named Pauline Ruth, now resides in Bannockburn along with her 2 brothers, 2 sisters and mum and dad. Congratulations to all of you.

There have been quite a few people sick in our community this last week. We wish them a speedy recovery. Get well soon Mrs. Jean Bully, Mrs. Irene Lake and all those others who haven't been well.

A lovely surprise birthday party was held in honour of Mrs. Viola Andrews on Saturday evening. I wonder how much of a surprise it was as the party took place in her own garage? Anyway, 'Happy Birthday' Viola.

It's nice to see the Carl Osborne family building a little addition onto their house. We hope they are happy with the new extension.

With all the children going and coming from school again, I must mention to please watch them on the streets and highways. We want the future Bannockburn to be strong and healthy.

We wish Don McEwen all the best of luck as he goes to work on the pipeline in Alberta. We will all miss him.

C.H.H.L. MEETING

Thursday, Sept. 6th

Madoc Arena

A re-organizational meeting for the C.H.H.L. has been requested for the '79 - '80 season. Decisions will be made on the following:

1. Body contact versus no body contact.
2. One league keeping set teams.
3. 2 leagues, one a draft fun league and one a team league.

All teams wishing to enter this league are asked to have a representative present. Due to the concerns of the arena management this meeting must resolve number of teams, number of nights and number of hours for ice time.

Executive of '78 & '79.

DRY SKIN ADDS YEARS

No woman wants to look old before her time, and dry skin is the villain that will do it. If your face feels dry and uncomfortable under make-up, it's time to take action. Raise the moisture level ... lubricate the skin surface ... and start to look even younger than your birthdays will admit. You can do it...easily...effectively...with COCREMA Dry Skin Creme.

This proven creme actually disposes of dryness symptoms with two or three overnight applications. Then, re-appraise your appearance. YOU'LL BE DELIGHTFULLY SURPRISED.

COCREMA Dry Skin Creme contains the purest grade of select COCOA BUTTER, and works while you sleep. COCREMA! Your skin will love it!

Gaebel-Hagerman wedding in Madoc

St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, was the setting for a pretty summer wedding, on Saturday, July 28, 1979, when Carla Heather Gaebel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gaebel, of Madoc, and Richard Douglas Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hagerman, of Madoc, exchanged wedding vows.

Officiating clergymen for the double ring ceremony were Rev. D.W. Potter and Mr. Dwight Nelson.

The wedding music was played by Pipe Major Donald Carrigan, from R.M.C. Kingston with Mrs. Janice Nelson at the organ. Mr. Brian Gaebel, brother of the bride, sang The Wedding Prayer during the signing of the register, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Kim Gaebel.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, in a gown she made herself, in traditional white, floor length style, with fitted bodice accented with a round neckline and flared skirt. The underlay was of white polyester, enhanced with small white brocaded flowers. This was lined with white Palace de Chine. The entire gown was covered in Pleijour Sheer, with the front and back yokes and cuffed sleeves of sheer fabric only. The seams were adorned with Pleinjour lace, with a sash in the same lace worn at the waist. The shaped hooded veil, which fell gracefully to the floor from an attached head piece, was adorned with identical lace. To complete her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of white orchids, white and yellow rose buds, 'ern stephanotis and baby's breath.

Brenda Gaebel was maid of honour for her sister, Sharon Hagerman, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and Carolyn Hagerman, niece of the groom was junior bridesmaid. Petite Andrea Hagerman, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

The maid of honour and bridesmaids' dresses were floor length, soft yellow polyester interlock knit, with blouson top, gathered at the waist and narrow tie belt. They carried nosegays of yellow and white chrysanthemums, white stephanotis and baby's breath, surrounded by dark green fern.

The fair haired flower girl wore a floor length white eyelet dress with short puff sleeves and carried a basket of flowers like the senior attendants.

The groom wore the navy coloured dress uniform of Lieut. of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Robert Gair, as best man, wore the navy blue dress uniform of Sub Lieut. of the Royal Canadian Navy.

The ushers were Mr. David Shaw and Mr. David Jeffrey; ring bearer was Kevin Beart. The trio were dressed alike in navy blue tuxedos.

The reception, which followed, was held in the Madoc Kiwanis Centre and catered to by the ladies of St. Peter's Presbyterian women's club.

The mother of the bride received her guests in a floral polyester sheer gown, with blue underlay, blouson top with split cape sleeves and a narrow tie belt at the waist of the flared skirt. She was assisted by the mother of the groom in a soft green floor length dress with sheer blouson top and three quarter length sleeves with a flared skirt.

Following a honeymoon at Friendly Acres Resort, in Huntsville, Ontario, the happy couple will reside at Apt. 6, 856 Keith St., Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Out of town guests attended from Victoria, B.C., Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Guelph, Toronto, Oshawa, Hamilton, Colborne, Brighton, Trenton, Lindsay, Marmora, Peterborough, Marysville, Lunenburg, Kingston, Brockville, Ottawa, Belleville and Falkirk, Scotland.

On the 1st of September, at approximately 4:30 p.m. 28 year old William James O'Heir, of Ajax, Ontario, was westbound in the westbound lane of the Centreline road north of Marmora, when he lost control of the 1974 Honda motorcycle he was driving and entered the north ditch. He proceeded along the ditch for about 76 metres, before striking a wire fence. After striking the fence, his forward momentum carried him approximately 10 metres before he came to a halt.

Mr. O'Heir was discovered by a passing motorist and was taken to Belleville General Hospital with major injuries.

Bee specialist

Kigatiira estimates the potential at about 100,000 tons annually. The dry climate is excellent for bees, the supply of pollen and nectar abundant. Most African honey comes from trees, just as some Canadian beekeepers obtain significant amounts from the basswood tree. Unlike Canadian bees which normally "stay put" African bees migrate with the seasons.

The experience gained with the African bees in Africa could prove very useful when similar bees move northward through Central America. Some African bees taken to South America some years ago for crossbreeding with local bees to produce more prolific honey gatherers escaped and have produced wild strains with many of the characteristics of the African bee, including their excitable temperament. They are gradually extending the area in which they occur, and will soon reach Central America.

Bees: an interesting - and

By: GLENN GARNETT

To many people, the idea of keeping thousands of bees in their backyard sounds foolish, to say nothing of dangerous. Our perception of bees is sometimes a frightened one. They sting, after all, and make an unnerving, droning sound, especially if you're trapped with one in the front seat of your car.

But Ed Brownlee, who lives south of Hastings, isn't bothered by fear. If one flew in here now, he says, it wouldn't bother you if you left it alone.

And there are benefits in leaving bees alone. Bees make honey.

Honey bees are smaller than their notorious cousins, the bumble bee. Ed Brownlee has several hives where up to 60,000 bees come and go like planes at an international airport. They gather nectar, and produce honey. Ed pulls out the honeycombs, and extracts up to 150 pounds of honey, most of which is sold at a reduced rate to his friends. After all, he smiles, it's only a hobby.

Mr. Brownlee lives in a wooded area, with a few open fields nearby. Honey bees travel, at the most, about a mile away from the hives to gather nectar. On this day, though, the cool temperatures and the drizzle have put a damper on their usually feverish activities.

"You don't go near them on a cloudy day, he says. "They're stuck inside and get pretty moody. On a sunny day, though, they're too busy to bother with you."

Mr. Brownlee, like many small scale beekeepers, has five 'supers' or bee houses. Two of them contain a 'brood chamber', where the Queen bee lays her eggs. Thousands are laid at a time, and the gestation period for a bee is 21 days.

Queen bees are created upon need. If a colony requires one, a newly-hatched bee is fed with different materials than young workers.

The rest of the young bees become 'housekeepers' - and these are the bees that attack human and animal intruders if the nest is disturbed. They carry the nectar through the nest, and 'work it', until the moisture content is reduced to a sufficient level, turning it into honey. The honey is stored in the comb, and is sealed by bees wax, to be saved for future use.

"You can tell an angry bee by the tone of its buzzing," says Mr. Brownlee. "It's more high pitched and they go after you until you're far from the hive."

Beekeepers wear protective clothing before opening a hive. The protective head and hat netting is familiar to most of us, and affords them safety in the face and neck. Thick leather gloves are used as well, although Mr. Brownlee says they can sometimes sting right through them.

"The stings don't hurt too much," he insists.

Every year, a bee inspector from Guelph drops by, and inspects the hives that abound in this area. He's looking for traces of two diseases - European or American Foul Brood. These diseases attack the bee eggs, and although it is not harmful to humans, precautions have to be taken. In the event of American Field Brood, nothing can be done and the hive has to be burned.

Bees hibernate during the winter, and it is during this time that 75 per cent of them die of the cold. In the late fall, the bees cluster around the Queen to protect her from the cold. Mr. Brownlee puts polyethylene around the north, west and east side of the hive. He then puts black tarpaper over that. The south side is covered by tarpaper only because black absorbs sun light and brings heat into the hive. Polyethylene keeps much of the cold out, but keeps it in, too - the south, or sunward side is open for the heat.

But even with these precautions, the colony of around 60,000 is reduced to 10,000 or 15,000.

"They come out in the spring, often when there's still snow on the ground. They fly off, then drop into the snow, littering the whole yard," says Mr. Brownlee. "It's great stuff for the chickadees."

The lifespan of the bee, strangely, increases with the amount of work it does. If the weather warms up quickly in the spring, the bee can last the season. If he's stuck indoors, he can perish within three weeks. Egg production is high early in the year, and reduces in the warmer weather, to maintain a balanced population.

If the weather stays cool, Mr. Brownlee will feed the bees until they can get their own food. He will feed them dissolved sugar, and this keeps them going during the tough periods.

They first feed on spring dandelions and pussy willow, then to other blossoms, pollinating plants as they go. Mr.

Brownlee's raspberry patch is a favorite hang out, much to Mr. Brownlee's dismay when he tries to pick them.

Lang: lots to see close to home

Some of the best attractions are close to home. It's because they're right under our noses that we don't always see them.

Such may be the case for Lang Century Village, just north of Keene. While it continues to draw large crowds of interested history buffs, local people often say they've never been there, or if they have, it was when so-and-so was still in diapers.

It's the twelfth year of display for the village, featuring buildings, and a way of life, that has long since disappeared in this area. In most cases, remnants of historic buildings were moved from their original site to the grounds in Lang, where they were restored by historical architect, Napier Simpson Jr. In our centennial year, the grounds were opened and people began over a decade of observing painstakingly restored room decor and building architecture.

There are students, supported by government grants, and some volunteer staff to add to the nineteenth century atmosphere by going about their 'business' in period costume, making wax candles or baking homemade cookies in an old cast-iron stove or fireplace. These are opiates to imagination - one can wander the paths and walk through the houses and be touched by the authenticity of the village. The staff are warm and friendly people, helpful in providing historical information or demonstrating tools we believe to be long obsolete, but still commanding our respect and awe.

Some of the names attached to the log and stone buildings sound familiar - Fife, Mather, Fitzpatrick; and there is a progression of nineteenth century homes indicating the upward swing to comfort and the progress of man's inventions.

Lang Century Village seems frozen in time and is a constant reminder of simpler, and perhaps, more carefree times.

Honey production is very interesting. The workers stretch and roll the nectar, then dry it out by beating their wings. The sound, says Mr. Brownlee, is a musical humming sound - but the smell is less agreeable.

At the right time, the honey is pulled from the colony through a drawer system. About 25 per cent of the honey is left to the bees to keep them alive. Fortunately, they always seem to over produce. The honey is taken to his extracting shed, where the bees wax is removed and the honey is removed from the comb in an oscillation machine. It's then strained for bits and pieces of wax, and, there you have it.

Honest to goodness honey - no additives are needed. It's 100 percent pure. The facilities are absolutely clean to insure good quality.

"Nothing is as pure as honey," Mr. Brownlee insists of the final product. "It isn't the same as chocolate or sugar - they did a study to prove it wasn't responsible for cavities."

At the going rate of a dollar a pound, it isn't a get-rich-quick scheme. There are a few major honey producers in the area who have to produce on a grand scale to make a living.

But for Mr. Brownlee, it's a satisfying hobby.

Checking your wiring

As summer ebbs it's time to look at your wiring system before chillier weather increases the demands on your electrical system.

So spare a few minutes to think about the situation, read the suggestions from Ontario Hydro and have a look at your fusebox which controls the electricity entering your house or apartment. This isn't a scare warning, just an annual reminder.

Fuseboxes are usually in the basement if you live in a house. If you are in an apartment ask your superintendent for its location.

Check that the fuses in your service panel are of the correct rating. All lighting and general use circuits are fused at 15 amperes. These fuses are clearly marked.

For heavier loads such as electric clothes dryers, water heaters, freezers, furnace fan circuits, space heaters and the like use only Canadian Standards Association (CSA) approved type "D" fuses. These cost a little more than the regular fuses but provide better protection for the heavier demands. The "D" is also clearly identified.

Check that fuses are screwed in tightly as possible by hand.

The fusebox cover or door should be kept closed at all other times to protect children from injury and prevent dirt from accumulating.

Warning signs include:
Repeated blowing of correctly rated fuses for no apparent reason;
Evidence of discolouration around fuseholders;

Lights which flicker periodically (although in some cases faulty appliances may cause lights to flicker);

Light or entire circuits which fail to work.
If you experience any of these conditions, examine the end of a blown fuse. If it appears the tip has changed colour or shows signs of pitting on the bottom contact point, call a qualified electrician to check your electrical installation;

If the problem is minor, changing a fuse or the like, take a flashlight with you when you intend to make the change;

Before changing the fuse, unplug appliances on the over-loaded circuit and turn off the main switch located at the main fusebox.

Finally, to repeat, ensure the new fuse also is screwed in tightly by hand.

Country and Rock Concert

The Madoc and District Kinsmen Club sponsored a Country and Western Jamboree and Rock Concert at the Madoc Arena on Sunday. Although the skies were overcast and often threatened rain, it did not affect the turnout at the eight hours of continuous country and western music followed by the rock concert from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m., but other events in the area, like the Marmora fair, may have cut into the attendance during the day.

As the day progressed, the crowd continued to grow and were entertained by the Ontario Slim Road Show, John Murphy and his Music Makers and John Clement and Northwind. At 11 p.m. the music switched from country and western to rock with "Mankind". The arena reverberated with music and the sound of people enjoying the music.

The event was licensed under a special occasion permit.

2 when a young squirt still innocently green interviewing a supposedly intelligent senior attempted to destroy the respected place in history rightfully belonging to the Right Honorable John Diefenbaker. His earthly remains were lying in state in the Parliament Buildings that he loved so much.

The burning question is who promoted such a deplorable and disgraceful scene? My suspicious mind will not go low enough to accuse anyone in the Opposition parties but to say with shame and regret that I can't say that for some top Conservative hierarchy in view of the charge made against the "Hon John" that he had prevented Robert Stanfield from becoming Prime Minister of Canada.

Global Television accepted the responsibility for airing the interview. Will they be responsible for designating those people responsible for the shame of it?

Indecency must surely have limits but in this case at least disrespect did not. "Just men everywhere must have cried from their heart to the Highest being. Why would they do such a performance?"

considered a success. Weather had been the primary concern for the Sidewalk Sale and the organizers must have prayed so hard for nice weather that they got record high temperatures which led some to conclude that more people may have visited the beaches rather than shop on that day.

Other topics discussed were Christmas decorations, the bus tours, and many people wanted to investigate getting a bakery, a 5 cents to $1 store in Madoc along with a bigger grocery store and a bigger Canadian Tire Store. As always, this brought on a discussion of street parking.

$10.00 per year annual subscription.

..Due to the great number of price increases in chemicals, photographic material, newsprint, wages & postal costs over the last four years, we have found it impossible to continue to supply our newspaper at the cost of 20¢ per copy.

Many daily and weekly newspapers right across Canada have had to face these same increases in costs and have had to up the price of their papers.

Although we have absorbed these cost increases for almost the last four years, we can no longer afford to do so.

However, for our regular subscribers, and for those faithful readers who have been purchasing the newspaper from our retail outlets, we are prepared to offer an outstanding savings opportunity by allowing you to renew your subscription or to purchase an annual subscription at our old price, up to and including the 15th day of October, 1979.

That's right! For the next six weeks you will be able to buy a yearly subscription for as many years as you want at our old rate of $8.00 per year ($7.00 if you are a senior citizen).

MIDWEEK

If you have a farm with a section of swampy, low ground overrun with pussy willows, do you try to drain it, plant watercress, fill it in or leave it alone? Well if you're originally from Holland like Cors Evegroen, you might get involved with making canals, islands, lakes and a sort of miniature Netherlands and go on from there to develop a fantasy-world Walt Disney style.

Cor Evegroen acquired his farm just off Preneveau Road about three miles south of #7 Highway seven years ago. The whole area through that part of the country southeast of Havelock is boggy, especially in spring when the ground water rises about five feet higher than its summer level. Cor started with a bulldozer trying to find a way to drain about three acres of very low land but succeeded only in bogging down the machinery in mud. Since he couldn't get the water to run away he decided to take advantage of it. He brought in a backhoe and dug out the present winding water course, piled the dirt in the centre to make an island and spread the rest of the muck around the three acres to raise it above water level. After that he had an acreage in which to work out his hobby of bringing his dreams to life.

With odds and ends of materials, pieces of stumps that reminded him of animals or water creatures and a vivid imagination he has made a recreation area for his own personal pleasure that rivals many a commercial enterprise - in fact, it has attracted thousands of non-paying curious visitors passing by. Windmills, picnic tables, arching bridges over the stream, humorous signs, miniature covered wagons, a barbecue made to resemble a steam engine, figures of animals and people. He has not kept to a Dutch theme as he started out, Cor says. After digging the canal, building a Dutch windmill and setting up a fisherman with line in the water and a log muskie on his line, he took off on things completely Canadian and is now putting the finishing touches on a house-sized log cabin to which he and his wife Shirley and three boys retreat for picnics, solitude and overnight campouts sleeping in the bunk beds. "It's so peaceful down there - no TV, radio or phone. I can sleep in there till 8 in the morning when I should be up doing the chores," said Cor.

Bringing fantasies to life

By Jeannette Moore

Other items of purely Canadian origin are a full-size Indian teepee made from corn husks and miniature and full-size chuck-wagons.

Cor does most of his fantasy building during the winter when the rush of summer planting and harvesting for his dairy farm is over. But even on a busy day when he was involved with cutting corn he took time to show me around his wonderland and to sit for a while and look about his log cabin retreat pointing out the many examples of his craftsmanship in there.

Visitors are welcome and indeed he enjoys having others share in his dream world, but resents intruders who do not ask to come on the property. But then, it looks so much like a public park it is no wonder a tourist is fooled - like the woman he found wandering around one day who thought he was another tourist. "But she must have known it was private property when she climbed over the fence," said Cor.

It's nice to have a hobby, but here is one that gives pleasure to those passing by.

Young Mark Evegroen [top] stands beside a spaceship his father dreamed up for their fantasy land. Below, a sea monster crawls from the lagoon to meet a happy steam engine. The fantastic creations are placed about a 3 acre site through which a picturesque canal winds.

Woods, Water & Wildlife

Algonquin Park

When someone mentions Ontario provincial parks, which one do you think of first? Algonquin, of course - one of the largest, most accessible, and best-known of our system of 132 provincial parks. And when you think of Algonquin, what sort of impressions does the word convey? The haunting echoes of a loon's call; the gnarled dignity of Tom Thomson pines; the misty stillness of a summer dawn? For millions of Ontarians, and visitors to our province, those are attractions that establish Algonquin's reputation as an "average man's wilderness."

But how much of a real wilderness is Algonquin these days? A five-year review of the park's master plan being carried out this summer highlights a number of disturbing conflicts that cloud its future.

Logging continues unabated in 75 percent of Algonquin, despite opposition from concerned groups such as the Federation of Ontario Naturalists and the Algonquin Wildlands League. In contrast, only 9 percent of the park is designated primitive, so that its wilderness qualities can be maintained.

Logging not only means changes to the condition of the park's vegetation. It also brings the noisy disturbance of chain saws and logging trucks, and the threat of a proposed permanent roads system to speed the logging trucks on their way. Most of us think of Algonquin as roadless, except for the Highway 60 corridor. In fact, there are already close to a thousand miles of interior roads probing almost every corner of the park's forests.

That misty stillness can be shattered by other sounds as well - the snarl of motorboats. Although the 1974 plan already allowed motors on twenty-seven lakes, the Ministry of Natural Resources has since opened twelve more, and backed away from earlier commitments to eventually phase out motors. A 1975 survey demonstrated that an overwhelming 80 percent of interior users favoured restrictions on motorboats, but their use continues.

Private leases for cottages and lodges remain in many areas of the park, and their phasing-out was further delayed last year by the Ministry. Snowmobiling, hunting, and trapping are allowed in some parts. Designation of additional nature reserves or wilderness zones has been virtually stopped.

In spite of all the conflicts, Algonquin remains an attractive place to visit - a place to relax and refresh the soul. But if the Ministry's recent history of compromise and outright retreat continues in the face of demands for more exploitation and more noisy playtoys, how long can it be before we lose yet another quiet oasis?

We can show you a variety of Fisher Stove models. One of them can cut your present heating bill by 50% or more. Or maybe even eliminate it entirely.

And as authorized Fisher Stove dealers, we can give you answers to any questions you might have about heating with wood. So come in soon.

Maybe you can't do much about what people have to pay these days for gas, oil or electric heat. But with one of our Fisher Stoves in your house, you can do plenty about what you have to pay.

Considering the cost of oil, gas and electric heat these days, it's easy to see why hundreds of thousands of homeowners across North America have recently installed a wood stove.

But there's more to be said for heating with wood than the fact that it saves a lot of money.

Wood smells and sounds good as it burns. And, in an age of vanishing resources, it's one form of energy that's still growing.

In fact, there's almost as much forest land in North America today as when the colonists first arrived. So regardless of other energy shortages, we've got wood to burn.

The burning question.

But for centuries, the problem with wood has been efficiency. What should we burn it in to get the most heat out of it?

The fireplace is no solution. It gives us beautiful dancing flames, but very little warmth. Some 95% of firewood's heat disappears up the chimney, pulling a lot of expensive furnace-heated air with it.

Benjamin Franklin's stove and the other cast iron stoves that followed were an improvement. They limited the amount of air that could reach the flames, so wood lasted longer. And they trapped the heat inside, so that it radiated throughout the room.

But still there were problems. Cast iron expands a great deal when it's hot, allowing air to seep in through seams and feed the fire. And most of these stoves did little to burn the gases that escape burning wood, containing most of its heat potential.

The burning answer.

Then came the Fisher Stove. Its unique two-step combustion chamber re-circulated wood gases back into the flames for almost total combustion, resulting not only in more heat but fewer ashes.

The Fisher Stove's patented spin draft controls and virtually airtight construction meant almost absolute control over how much air reached the fire.

And its carefully welded, solid steel construction made sure every Fisher Stove would deliver years and years of remarkable heating efficiency.

IN BRIEF:

MARMORA THE HERALD

Crowe Lake and Crowe River may be heading for catastrophe if the weed growth continues as it's going. An environmentalist warns that in 15 to 20 years all areas less than 15 feet deep may be choked with weeds. The cause - over enrichment of the water from human sewage, and detergent.

The Marmora Fair had good weather and good crowds and fair organizers are extremely pleased with the way the entire day went.

Marmora was the scene of a freak accident Friday evening. A car attempting to make a left turn through the four corners overcompensated when it hit another vehicle and came a full 180 degrees - through the front of Petherick's Hardware. Damage to the store was $5,000, to the vehicle another $5,000.

A more serious occurrence was the drowning Saturday morning of a Toronto man in the Crowe River. The man, a non-swimmer, fell off a rubber raft into twelve feet of weedy water. Police said the raft "should never have been taken out of the swimming pool."

HASTINGS THE STAR

Fall has descended upon Hastings this week, even though the real beginning of the season is still three weeks away.

But Hastings, being a summer resort, emptied somewhat this week. For once, it was possible to find a place to park within feet of your destination. There are no lineups in the grocery store. Only a few stragglers are making their way through the Hastings lock this week. The main boating season passed last weekend, and the locks close now at 4:30 in the afternoon.

However, Hastings is not a place of hibernation in the colder months. Minor hockey clubs are forming for yet another winter of crowd pleasing action in the arena.

The public school, filled now by day with students, will once again serve as a night school for adult education. There will be 17 courses offered this fall, including disco-dancing - finally finding its way to this last vestige of the Charleston.

And there is a new editor for the village as well, to help add more colour to the fall season. She's Susan Leonhardt, and she's taking over from Glen Garnett, who, like all the sparkle and sunshine of the summer, is disappearing into the western horizon.

HAELOCK THE CITIZEN

Dr. Denis Doren, who started practising at the Havelock-Belmont-Methuen Medical Centre last March, this week started a new preventive medical care program in Havelock. He has taken on a registered nurse to assist in the program of alerting persons to health problems before these problems become chronic or require intensive medical treatment. Gloria Haimovitch, the nurse who together with Dr.

Doren is promoting this new approach to health in the village, started her duties last week. She and Dr. Doren outline their plans in this week's Havelock Citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boyinton of R.R. 3, Havelock, had one of the shortest vacations of their life when they travelled to West Virginia August 9th and returned August 11st upon learning that their home on the 4th line of Belmont had been gutted by fire the morning after their departure. A lightning flash had struck hydro wires entering the house causing a fire which their three boys and a friend, staying in the house, had extinguished only to have another fire break out four hours later when the hydro was turned back on. Damage to the home amounted to $12,500 in addition to the loss of all their furniture from smoke and water contamination.

Summer visitors were returning back to their permanent homes this week and their reasons for coming to this area were exemplified by an interview we held with Judy Hogue of East Aurora, New York, who has been visiting Round Lake every summer for the past 12 years. "As soon as we leave the 401 and start up 45 and come to that forest area I breathe in deeply, relax and feel free again. A big weight seems to drop off. We just love it here. Up here at Round Lake there is some restorative power. It brings total relaxation," said Mrs. Hogue. "But most important are the people. I never come up but that I don't meet someone interesting."

Mrs. Hogue is a very interesting person herself being a design artist and illustrator of children's books. She spoke at length of herself and reactions to this holiday area to the Citizen.

MADOC THE REVIEW

Madoc's Chamber of Commerce held two meetings recently with the chief topic being toll free telephone lines between Madoc and Belleville. The Chamber of Commerce will need the support of clubs and organizations to get this project going as they will have to write to Bell Telephone and express an interest and a need for this service. If enough clubs and organizations respond, a survey would then be conducted by Bell and at least 80 percent of the population in Madoc would have to support the proposal to see it come into effect in Madoc.

Madoc's bowling alley will be reopening under new management this year and Art and Dorothy Mason are looking forward to continued support of the bowlers in the community. So far, many people have showed interest and they think that their enterprise will prove successful, even if they originally have to put in many long hours to give the public the kind of service they want.

Woodburners, a new store on Madoc's main street, also opened this weekend and, as the name suggests, they will be catering to people who want to burn wood and reduce those skyrocketing heating bills. The owners of the store are Mr. and Mrs. Ron Powell, residents and teachers in Madoc, and they proved last winter that heating with wood can cut costs. They saved $475 last winter which makes them think that many more people will soon switch to this old alternative to oil and electric heat that is steadily gaining popularity.

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

Norwood District Public School has a new principal for the coming school year, Mr. John Cruickshank. Mr. Cruickshank attended the teachers' college in Peterborough and has taught throughout the city since graduating in 1961. He has also been vice principal and principal of numerous schools. The past year was spent attending the University of London in England on sabbatical leave and conducting various observational studies in the area of language.

Drivers in the Norwood area are urged by OPP Constable Derryl Kellett to obey the new parking regulations in the vicinity of the new traffic lights. Even a short stop in a no parking zone may activate the lights causing them to misjudge the amount of flowing traffic in the area.

Dummer Township is presently preparing for its 150th anniversary and is asking the people of the area for any notes, paper clippings or photographs relating to the history of the township. If you have anything for the township please contact Andre Dorfman 877-2477, Ron Darling 652-7690 or May Payne 652-8418. There will also be a meeting on September 12 at 8 p.m. in the Warsaw Town Hall which may be attended in order to submit items.

Homes Warranty Plan Act

$1,133,699 was paid out during the fiscal year ended December 31, 1978, to more than 3,200 Ontario home buyers who submitted claims under the Ontario New

Homes Warranty Plan Act.

The Plan, as enacted by the provincial government in 1976, stipulates that all vendors/builders be registered. Claims arise from two sources—refund of deposits when a builder defaults and fails to pass title to a purchaser because of bankruptcy or otherwise, and under the warranties provided in the Act, when the builder is unable or unwilling to correct defects and deficiencies.

Of the total amount awarded, $701,042 was paid to 111 new home buyers for refunds of deposits. Claims for rectification of defects and deficiencies under builders' warranties amounted to $432,657 on behalf of 3,108 claimants.

Upon completion of each unit and transfer of possession to the new home buyer, a warranty certificate is issued by the New Home Warranty Program. These certificates, outlining the terms of the warranty, were sent to 40,818 purchaser during 1978.

AFRICAN LION

PANTHERA LEO III-12

Lions once lived in southern Europe, Africa and parts of Asia, but are now confined mainly to the game reserves of Africa, and, to a lesser extent, the Gir Forest of India.

The total length of an adult male may be 2.4 m. The weight as much as 338 kg. The female is smaller and lacks the male's heavy mane. Lions live in open country, in groups known as prides, consisting of from 6 to 30 members headed by 1 or 2 mature males. They hunt co-operatively, and while it is the females who are the better hunters and who do most of the work in bringing down the prey, it is the males who eat first, followed by the females, and lastly, the cubs. Lions prey mostly on hooted animals, although they occasionally consume fallen fruit. The initial charge of the lion only lasts for 50 to 100 m, and if the target is quick enough to keep ahead of the predator for that distance, the lion usually abandons the attempt. Lions spend about 20 hours of each day doing absolutely nothing.

MEMORIAMs

WALKER - In loving memory of a dear son, Robert Glenn (Bob) who passed away Sept. 7, 1974. Time may heal the broken hearted, Years may make the wound less sore, But it cannot fill the longing, For our loved one gone before. Only a memory of bygone days, And a sigh for a face unseen, A content feeling that God alone, Knows best what should have been. Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mom and Dad. Clarke, Grandson Lawrence. -11

GOLLOHER - In memory of Joseph Richard Golloher who passed away Sept. 9th, 1978. God put your arms around him, Keep him in your care, Make up for all he suffered, And all that was unfair, Only a cluster of memories, Sprayed with a million tears, Wishing God had spared you, Just a few more years. Sadly missed by wife Emily & Family. -11

WALKER - In loving memory of a dear brother & uncle Robert Glenn (Bob) who passed away suddenly as the result of an accident Sept. 7, 1974. Beautiful memories. Are wonderful things They last till the longest day, They never wear out, They never get lost And never can be given away. To some you may be forgotten, To others a part of the past But to us who loved and lost you, Your memories will always last. Lovingly remembered by brother John, sister-in-law Sharon & nephew Allan. -11

MOFFATT - In loving memory of a dear Dad & Grandfather, Gordon who passed away Sept. 9, 1968 and brother Kenneth on Oct. 20, 1960. Each rose and leaf may wither, The morning sun may set, But the hearts that love you dearly, Are the ones who won't

The cattail: pollution control naturally?

The common cattail plant may be nature's weapon against water pollution control problems from small municipalities.

An artificial marsh composed primarily of cattail plants will be constructed in Listowel to treat part of that community's sewage effluent, Doug McTavish, Environment Ontario regional director announced today following discussions with Listowel's council.

"The process uses natural purification as its basic principal," said Mr. McTavish. "If this simple concept is successful in Listowel it could be used in other parts of Ontario to treat sewage effluent without building large and expensive sewage treatment plants."

"Cattails will use the nutrients found in sewage effluent in much the same way lawns utilize nutrients from manure and other fertilizers," he said. "With the removal of nutrients from the effluent, water courses could be kept free from a build-up of aquatic vegetation, algae and other water plants which eventually use up valuable dissolved oxygen. Dissolved oxygen is essential to any watercourse for the life of fish and other aquatic life."

Listowel's experimental marsh will be fed sewage effluent from the community's lagoons. The cattails should remove most of the nutrients before the remaining effluent reaches the Maitland River. In the Environment Ontario study, cattails will also be assessed for their ability to remove heavy metals from the effluent. Heavy metals are another pollutant found in sewage effluent.

The community's experimental marsh will use about 2.5 acres of land. A full treatment system based on marsh land would require far less land than the standard lagoon system thus conserving valuable land.

Listowel's artificial marsh is being funded by the Provincial Lottery Corporation and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.

Controlling slugs in your garden

The lowly slug can cause serious harm in home gardens, especially during wet fall weather. Bites out of leaves and tender shoots indicate the slug's trail.

Slugs feed on many vegetables and flowers. Tomatoes, cabbage, beans, corn, petunias, zinnia, and salvia sometimes fall to their appetites. Because slugs move at night, many gardeners do not suspect them as the cause of plant injury.

During prolonged wet weather or where gardens are watered frequently, it may be necessary to use slug baits on susceptible plants. Professor H.W. Goble, advisor to the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic, University of Guelph, says metaldehyde is an effective slug control. The poison is available as a prepared bait, pellet, dust or spray. Follow the label directions carefully.

"For best results, apply the poison on a warm, moist night, when the slugs are most active," says Prof. Goble. "Repeat the treatment five days later to catch remaining slugs."

More applications may be needed if slugs are plentiful and continue their damage. Place the bait as close as possible to the plants, but do not spray or dust edible parts.

To discourage slugs from making their home in your back garden, discard decaying plant material, boxes, sacks, and other materials that offer protection. These are favorite breeding places. Trim rank grass and weeds along fences and ditches beside the garden.

In a small area, traps or barriers can be used to protect special plants. Boards larger than 15 cm (6 in.) square are effective traps when laid flat on the ground in or adjacent to the area to be protected. Slugs should be removed from underneath the board each morning and destroyed. For extra control, sprinkle slug bait on the ground, and place the board on top of the bait.

Fly screening about 10 cm (4 in.) wide provides the best barrier when pushed 5 cm (2 in.) into the soil around the plant. These methods provide partial control for this recurring pest.

Inquiries about slugs or other destructive pests can be directed to the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic, supported by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. It is located at Graham Hall, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario N1G 2W1.

'One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd., Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

Equine influenza, our veterinarian said. Horse flu.

The buckskin and the appaloosa had been as healthy as - well - horses until the day after they were paraded at fall fair time. During the summer, they had been ridden at least once a day. Sometimes twice a day.

Our 12-year-old gal has become quite an accomplished horsewoman. She was up about six o'clock on fair day getting both animals groomed. She put blacker-than-black on all the hooves and had both sets of tack gleaming.

She was resplendent in western riding clothes and her older sister's cowboy boots. Never saw a happier kid. Proud as punch in the parade. Smiling broadly with dimples as sweet and rosebuds and freckles shining in the sunlight.

Early Sunday morning when I went to the barn, both horses ate their oats and then trotted out to pasture. Sunday afternoon we went for an eight-mile ride. I thought they walked too slowly on the way home. Anyone who has ever had anything to do with horses knows they walk faster when they know they are going back to the barn.

By feeding time Sunday night, their heads were drooping and the buckskin - a half thoroughbred - was coughing. Neither animal was hungry and that's the warning signal.

The vet came. We are fortunate in Elmira to have a few veterinarians who know horses. In some areas, a horse is a rarity. We live in Old Order Mennonite country where horses abound. Some of them still use draught horses on the land and four- and five-horse hitched during plowing, seeding and harvesting are common. Our vet is also owner of a few horses.

Both horses had high temperatures, about 103 degrees. Horses, he said, have a normal temperature of around 99.5 in the morning and around 100 or 101 at night.

We heard later that half the horses in the parade had caught the same virus. Nobody knew which horse was the culprit, the horse that was sick at the parade. The vet said the same flu had gone all through the race barn at the fairgrounds. For a week, they had to be "needled" every other day.

The first time, they didn't know what was coming. From then on, they knew. Have you ever tried to needle a bucking buckskin? Once again, the vet's experience was evident. He had little trouble calming them down. Want to know a little secret? When he approaches the horse, you stand at the animal's head and just cover its eye with your hand. Then, the unseeing equine doesn't see either needle or syringe.

We also had to give them a medicine twice a day to help them get rid of the phlegm in their lungs. That was a different story.

Have you ever seen a horse turn up its nose? I think that's where the term came from, coined by a person who knew horses. They actually grimaced when the mixture was surreptitiously dropped into their oats. They ate all around it.

We tried putting a little mentholatum on their noses so they couldn't smell the stuff. That didn't work either. A suggestion to put the mixture in a syringe and squirt it down their throats worked only once. Then they knew what the syringe was for.

We finally locked them in their stalls until they ate all their oats, starved them into taking it. By the end of the week, they gave in and began eating their oats even with the mixture spread throughout the feed.

They are better now, thanks to our veterinarian. It's a strange and sad sound when a horse coughs. They have huge lungs and the cough sounds like it's coming from deep within their bodies.

I'm glad, too, that our daughter gained enough horse sense to recognize the horses were sick in good time. Some of the other horses in the parade had temperatures around 105 which is most dangerous. We caught ours in good time.

They both trot out in the morning making rude noises now.

Minor Hockey - trying to support themselves

Madoc's Minor Hockey program has been floundering in the past few years, but the executive hopes to start building a firm foundation for the future of minor hockey in this village by putting the emphasis on house league hockey rather than the representative teams. However, minor hockey does have some problems that must be ironed out before they can hope to compete on an equal basis with some of the hockey programs in the area.

Some of the immediate problems facing the executive at the present time are the fact that there never seems to be enough qualified personnel in the area. Qualified referees, coaches and managers are always needed somewhere within the system and this year is no exception. If you would be interested in helping in any of the above capacities, please make your feelings known to the executive or on registration day.

One of the problems in the past has been the fact that teams, although representing Madoc, have been classified as "the Bantams" or "the Juveniles" and not recognized as a part of the system of Madoc Minor Hockey. The executive for this year hopes to change that. In effect, they hope to unify the teams and the fans, thereby strengthening the whole system. How do you go about doing that? The first step was a decision to make all of the uniforms of the various teams basically the same, blue on white. On the front of each jersey of each team would be a standard Madoc Minor Hockey crest so that, even if you arrived late at the arena, you would have no trouble identifying the Madoc team.

This year the Madoc Figure Skating Club is having its 1st annual registration tea. It will be held at the Orange Hall on Saturday, September 15, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

In addition to figure skating, the club is offering power skating this year, for boys ages 3 and up. This is a good opportunity for boys wanting to improve their skating skills for hockey. Interested persons may register or obtain further information at the tea.

There will also be a skate exchange and skating costume sale. Anyone wishing to sell skating costumes may bring them pre-priced to the tea.

This year, the club has high hopes for the 1979-80 season. There are two professional skating coaches and a number of junior coaches who are willing to devote much time and energy to teaching and upgrading our local talent.

This tea will serve a twofold purpose. In addition to re-acquainting club members, the executive hopes to eliminate the need for further registration dates. Any interested parties not able to attend the tea should contact club president Grace Tough at 473-4458 or secretary Jo-Anne Smith at 473-2012 for further information.

There will be a display of Achievement Badges and last year's carnival photographs and other interesting items.

Fairgrounds deserted - for now!

The cattle barns at the Madoc Fairgrounds sit deserted in this picture, but this will not be the case on September 22nd and 23rd. On Saturday, September 22nd, at 1:00 p.m., dairy herds from Campbellford to Kingston will be competing for the first prize money and ribbons at the fair and the organizers are expecting about nine herds or more to attend. At the same time on Sunday, the beef cattle will occupy the show ring and they generally produce herds from Peterborough, Pembroke and Cobourg to compete against the many excellent herds from this area.

Several years ago, the prize money was increased at the Madoc Fair and this has contributed, somewhat, to larger attendances of herds from this area. Conflicting dates with other fairs often cuts this attendance, as was the case last year, but this year the organizers hope that their fair will draw many of the herds and hope that no major fairs are on the same day. They are not worried about space if a large number does show up because they added a new calf barn last year which has given them a lot more space.

Assessment and wells keep council busy

The regular meeting of council took place at the Council Chambers on August 4th at 6:30 p.m., with all members in attendance.

Councillor Daryl Kramp requested clarification of the three new test holes to be drilled in the event that No. 2 test hole did not meet their requirements. He felt that it was generally agreed by all concerned that the former Ross Clarke property, now the Deline property, was still the most likely site for getting the necessary water supply needed to meet the needs of the village and that it should be the No. 1 test site if the present test site could not meet these requirements. Two other test sites were also recommended for future testing. They were the Whytock property and the Park Street property, if negotiations could be worked out. They would be tested in that order until a suitable well was found.

Reeve Deline informed council that any negotiations for the Deline property would have to be channelled through James F. O'Brien, Mr. Deline's attorney, and subject to the approval of Mrs. Deline, who is a 50 percent owner of the property. Councillor Terry Pigden was asked to contact Mrs. Deline to obtain permission to drill. Following the completion of these arrangements, Mr. Brian Whitehead would be given authority to drill on these properties if No. 2 test well did not prove out.

Mr. Percy Crawford attended the council meeting as the new Town Foreman and was informed that he would be in charge of placing a seal on each and every water meter in the village to avoid tampering. This project could start in the near future and be completed over a period of several months. A list would also be compiled with the number and size of each meter on it.

Mr. Leighton Thompson, the Assessment Commissioner, attended council and told them that the local study had been completed. He had good news for residents of the village in that the reassessment of the village was generally very low and felt that Madoc's assessment showed more consistency than many villages in the surrounding area. He felt that Madoc's recent reassessment accounted for the low assessment at this time. Council was pleased with the results of the study and advised Mr. Leighton to go ahead with the program with the understanding that they could back out of the program at the last minute if the final figures were not satisfactory.

OTHER BUSINESS

Councillor Pigden informed council that the fire alarm failed to work on a recent test and council was advised that they were supposed to be on the new alarm system by the end of July. Councillor Pigden was advised to send a letter to the Belleville Fire Department asking them why they were not yet on the system and when they could expect this service to be supplied.

The Moira River Conservation Authority contacted Madoc Council concerning the sale of additional Conservation Authority property to the Madoc Co-Op for expansion purposes. The Clerk was advised to send a letter to the Authority advising them that council did not oppose the sale of land or the rezoning from recreational to commercial use.

An application was also received from Mary Pigden requesting that her lot be rezoned from residential to commercial for the purpose of installing a car wash on the property. Council saw no reason for the application to be turned down as long as all requirements were met.

Assistant Clerk, Verna Empey, was granted a raise in pay and Dave Szumigaj was taken on permanent staff as a labourer for the village crew.

A complaint was received from Mr. Harding, of the Crossroads Garden Centre, regarding fruit and vegetable vendors at highways 62 and 7. Council advised the Clerk to send a letter to the O.P.P. and M.T.C. to try and get them to stop these vendors from selling produce on this site because it did create a traffic hazard and appeared unfair to a business in the village that was paying business tax. If neither of these agencies could do anything to prohibit these sales, council would try to solve the problem for Mr. Harding.

Huntingdon Township studies assessment and lake pollution

A regular meeting of Huntingdon Township Council took place at the Township Hall on September 4th, at 7:30 p.m., with all members present with the exception of Reeve Harold Thompson, who has been excused from attending council meetings until such time as his health permits.

The minutes of the regular meeting held on August 7th and the minutes of the special meeting held on August 10th were approved as circulated.

The Road Superintendent reported to council with the following correspondence being read:

(A) A letter was received from Mr. T. Murphy, District Municipal Engineer, advising council that their request for Development Road Designation of Concession Road #12 could not be supported.

(B) A letter was received from Mr. T. Murphy advising council that the supplementary allocations for 1979 have all been committed to other areas and our request could not be complied with.

(C) A letter was received from Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P., advising the council that

Minor Hockey

However, unifying the teams was only part of the problem. Fans traditionally cheer for the team that their son is on and then leave the arena. If we can change that trend, we may be well on the way to solving not only minor hockey's problems, but the problems that have been haunting the arena board over the past few years as well, which has been to get people in the arena. By standardizing the uniforms, minor hockey feels they might also be able to standardize the fans. To do this, minor hockey is hoping to come up with a standard hockey jacket that can be purchased by the fans as well as the team members. In this way, the fans can support minor hockey in two ways. First and foremost, they will be recognized as minor hockey supporters wherever they appear with one of these jackets and, secondly, a certain amount of the purchase price of the jackets will go directly to minor hockey. This system, in the long run, could be carried right through the minor sports system in Madoc and thus benefit minor sports in general.

Another knock against minor hockey in the past has been that they have not been supporting their own system by trying to raise funds on their own behalf. Again, the executive is trying to change that problem. The jackets are a step in that direction, but not the only one that minor hockey is taking this year. At the Madoc Fair, several more fund raising projects will also be put into effect. Chocolate bars and apple cider will be sold by the members of the various teams while a dunk tank will also be in operation. A booth will be set up in the arena by minor hockey and they are hoping to get the year off on the right foot. The Review is hoping to have more information on these projects prior to the fair and any more projects that the organization may come up with throughout the year.

For those boys planning on registering for the house league or representative teams this year, the executive would like to remind them that they will require a birth certificate and a social insurance number before they will be able to play hockey. If they can have them prior to registration, so much the better, but, if they don't have them for registration, they must have them before they start to play hockey for their team.

The Minor Hockey Executive consists of Clinton Davidson (president), Harry Smith (secretary), Stanley Osborne (treasurer), Donald Bailey (referee in chief) and Gerald Forestall (convener-House League).

Letter to the editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

The gasoline shortage and its high price may be a factor in the rehabilitation of rural communities.

When gasoline is over a dollar a gallon, there is little point in trying to save a dollar by driving to a discount store in a big centre.

The high price of gasoline is a factor that we all have to take into consideration and it is not going to go down in price. It is going to increase.

The local merchant can benefit from this by keeping his store well stocked at a price that enables him to survive in a community where the costs are not as great as in large centres.

M.T.C. had informed him that Concession Road #12 was in adequate condition for the type and volume of traffic involved and therefore would not be designated as a development road.

Elvin Holland spoke to council regarding the Casa Loma buildings on Con. 13, Lot 11, on Highway #62. The conditions of the buildings are very poor and considered dangerous as well as a possible fire hazard. Council advised the Clerk to contact the owner and ask him to board up the windows, etc., and try to improve the safety of the area.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Chislett, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gemmell and Mr. and Mrs. O. Ketcheson attended council and brought a petition stating reasons why they felt the land severance application of Mrs. H. Fryters should not be granted. Council then passed a motion stating that council does not recommend consent to be given to Land Severance Application B340/79 - Hannelore Fryters - Pt. L. 9, Con. 1, due to the fact that it would be using up prime agricultural land, and that the area is not suitable to be zoned commercial.

Mr. Leighton Thompson, Assessment Commissioner, Mr. A. Brown, Manager, and Mr. Ron Stoneburg, Assessor, attended council in order to explain how the assessment division had arrived at the township's new equalization factor. It was felt by council that they should look into the new factor in detail and perhaps submit an appeal before November 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sills, Mr. and Mrs. Don Irish, Art Hassall and Art Tuinman approached council regarding the proposed Top Soil By-Law, which is a by-law to preserve and regulate the removal of top soil from the Township of Huntingdon, and gave their support to the third reading of the by-law. The by-law was given third reading, signed and sealed.

A detailed account of expenditures and revenue up to the end of July, 1979, was presented to council by the Clerk.

A motion was passed by council that a letter be sent to Mr. Carman Gibson, Plainfield, advising him that it was the intention of the Township Council to meet with his request and take over the maintenance of the old Roslin United Church Cemetery, Lot 20, Con. 1, in the spring of 1980 and at that time they would meet with Mr. Gibson, or any other representative, to discuss the matter further.

A request was made by R. Waringer and K. Tompkins for a special meeting with council regarding matters in the township resulting from new buildings. The Clerk was advised to notify them to prepare a brief and bring it to the next regular council meeting.

A motion was passed that a letter be sent to the Moira River Conservation Authority expressing the Township's concern over the high concentration level of arsenic in Moira Lake. The probable cause is thought to be the Deloro Smelting site and in asking that the Conservation Authority do all they can to have the arsenic content lowered and to ensure against any further leaks into the water systems in the area. A reply as to the plans of the Conservation Authority as to how they propose to correct this problem was also requested.

Other business discussed included a motion that the agreement with the City of Belleville for their fire alarm service be accepted and duly signed.

A motion was passed that Doug Francis be paid $80 for the ewe which was killed by wolves and that the valuator be paid his usual fee.

The Fenceviewers were allocated $25 each for arbitrating in a dispute over fences.

Council felt that the Clerk, Linda Graham, and Councillor Agnes Thompson should attend the Line Fences Seminar in Peterborough on October 17th.

Council adjourned until their next regular meeting on October 2nd at 7:30 p.m.

Chapman Reunion

August 26th the Chapman family gathered at the home of Ted and Joan Fox, Tim, Lori, Cindy, Shelley, Jill, Jason and Greg Terrior of Marmora to hold their family picnic. All those present were Barb and Fred Rollins, Larry Bormie and Andy, Brian, Jeff, Mike and Cindy Holgate, Marg and Bob Chapman, Derek and Shawn, Terry and Judy Chapman, Michelle, Tammy, Connie and Jodylyn, Gary Chapman and Cheryl Henderson, Garth and Cindy Campbell, Sandra Chapman and Howard Trotter, Shirleanne Chapman, Jerry and Leslie Chapman, Andrea, Beckie and Jennie, all of Cooper. Rosanna, Richard and Scott Chapman, Nina and Gordon Chapman, Rodney and Darlene Rollins, all of Madoc. Lloyd and Beth Sedore, Kevin, Kim and Kelly, of Springbrook, Nancy and Lee Hart, Franne and Randy, Carolyn and Ralph Francis, Angie and Bobby. After a bountiful dinner and a lovely day, the children enjoyed swimming, boating and games.

Blakelys celebrate 40th anniversary

Brian and Gayle Blakely honoured Brian's parents, Leslie and Marion Blakely, on Sunday, September 2, the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary. A delightful dinner was served by Gayle to a number of relatives of the family. Also present were Stafford Cosway (groomsman) accompanied by his wife, Bessie, of Oshawa, and Ruby Brintnell (maid of honour) with her husband, Harold, of Madoc.

Other guests attending were Lorne, Eileen, and Laurie Blakely of Belleville.

Jim and Marjorie Miller of Madoc, Truman and Barbara McCann, Chris and Fay McCann, also of Madoc, and Monty and Marion McCann of Belleville.

Greetings were also received by a phone call from their daughter, Heather and her husband John Grefford, of Salinas, California.

The couple would like to express their thanks to their family, friends and neighbours for the many good wishes they received on this special occasion.

Bannockburn News

Jo-Anne Lake

Congratulations to Mrs. Rose Foster, of Eldorado, for winning first prize in the Marmora Fair Quilting Contest. The quilt that won was a beautiful maple leaf design. It takes time, talent and patience to quilt and Rose, apparently, has all three.

A lovely baby shower was held for Mrs. Colleen Kennedy in Madoc. The ladies combined the monthly W.M. meeting with the shower and the combination was great.

Mr. Kennedy is the pastor at the Madoc Pentecostal Church and the couple is expecting their first child very soon.

Now for some bad news. It seems some young thief entered the Bannockburn general store last week, in the middle of the night and helped himself to all the change left in the till, cigarettes and a can of pop. When seen by a witness, the boy left on foot with all his winnings under his arm. Beware all you young thieves out there, the witness can also identify you if you enter the store again. I certainly hope that this child is not from Bannockburn, but just passing through.

There are two weddings happening in Bannockburn in the month of October. The wedding of Eileen Ramsay and Terry Pigden and Shiela Baumhour and Charlie Murphy. The Pigdens will reside in Bannockburn and the Murphys in Madoc. We congratulate and wish them both all the best of luck.

Sincerely,
Roy Cadwell

Fall seasons approach for CHSS

The junior and senior Centurions got their first taste of what football will hold for them this year in their first scrimmage of the year. After letting their players (especially the rookies) take their "trial by fire", the coaches settled them down to serious football with the result that the teams actually started to look respectable. However, this must be termed a rebuilding year for both teams and only actual game conditions will prove how good the teams will be. The coaches liked the enthusiasm and effort that the players were putting into the practice and felt that, with some luck, they could have respectable seasons.

School is in again and the Centurions of Centre Hastings Secondary School are again looking for a big year. The consensus at this time appears to be that last year's act will be tough to follow especially since some very good athletes have left the school. However, good athletes are also coming into the school and these athletes could prove that the Centurions will be a force to reckon with in any sport that they participate in.

Senior Volleyball

One of the first major competitions to take place at the school this year will be the Senior Boys Invitational Volleyball Tournament, Sept. 22, and coach Jim Berry feels that his team could be a serious contender in C.O.S.S.A. if the junior players coming up this year play to the potential that he has seen in them for the past two years. He be disappointed at this tournament. Action starts at 9:00 a.m. and will continue through to about 8:00 p.m. in the evening. Admission is 50 cents and will go to support the senior team.

Junior Volleyball

As far as the junior team goes, coach Carman Donato feels that they will be a team to reckon with in the future but their lack of experience may hurt them this year. However, as he said, "It is hard to predict what a junior team will do. We have good height and they could be tough by the end of the season." They are virtually a brand new team and coach Donato stresses that this is a rebuilding year for them.

Senior Football

The junior and senior football teams have been busy getting in shape for the season and again the coaches found it difficult to predict how they would do. The coaching staff of the seniors felt that they had good size and an excellent attitude but they had lost some very good players from last year so, they would have to hope that other teams in the league were suffering from the same problem. Wayne Willemssen, returning from last year, looked good in practice and, if he stays healthy, will be a definite asset to this team. Depth is a major problem but the attitude of the players could make or break this team. "We'll be competitive but we have to wait until the season starts to know how we will do," was about all the coaching staff could say for sure.

Junior Football

feels the team is well balanced with new and very promising juniors from last year to go along with his six returning players from last year's senior team. This team lost some very good talent last year but Jim is optimistic that they will be competitive as long as most of the other teams lose a few players as well. To this point, the team has been concentrating mainly on strength and agility training so he is hesitant to make any predictions until he sees them actually working as a team.

Senior Boys Invitational promises to be exciting and will consist of some of the top teams in Ontario. David Mary Thompson and Saunders are ranked one and two respectively in Ontario with Maryvale, Pickering and Crestwood ranked 9th, 10th and 11th, respectively. All of these teams will be attending the tournament to supply some outstanding competition for the senior Centurions. An added attraction for the tournament is the Oldtimer Centurion team that will also be participating and this team includes some very impressive athletes. Pat Fennell (a real fighter), Brian Rombough, Terry Snider, Fred Stewart, Larry Kelly, Danny Doyle, Rodger Reid and John Watson are some of the players that this team features and they will put on a real show and also be very tough to beat. Past and present day students are encouraged to come out and cheer both Centurion teams and anyone else who likes to watch good athletic competitions will not

The juniors are also rebuilding this year and expected tough competition from Centennial, who have a tradition of good clubs at the junior level but again, the unpredictability of junior football will be a key in how the juniors do. "They could be beaten early by an inferior team and then bounce right back and beat a team with more polish and experience than themselves," said coach Barry Pycar. "We have some very good athletes on this team with lots of desire and potential; they work together and develop that potential, we could do well this year. If not, we'll be tough next year because we have so many new and young players on this team." Something the whole coaching staff did agree on was that there seemed to be great natural spirit on this team, which impressed the coaches. "It isn't something that we have had to develop, it is just there and should really help this team."

NOTE: Yvonne Mabo was again reserved about her basketball team but I did catch a gleam of anticipation in her eye. She has several of the girls returning who went to C.O.S.S.A. and won last year and she appeared very impressed with some of the new members of the team. The height and talent of these new girls may be why Yvonne is so anxious to start the season. We will have more on these teams next week. GO, CENTURIONS, GO!

SPEED ON ICE

by Susan Leonhardt

With the trees turning to their majestic colours and the cool nights setting in we are beginning to feel the winter moving in on us. While some are looking forward to huddling around a warm wood stove with a hot cup of coffee, others turn to the outdoors to make the best of our coldest season. One such person is Brian Coughlin of Norwood who has a most unusual hobby yet one which gives him the excitement he loves. His sport is racing cars, not only on dry ground in the summer but also on the surface most regular winter drivers fear... the ICE!

Brian has raced the past two winters but took the Ontario Ice Racing Championship last season with his Fiat 128. The category he competed in was 'front wheel drive with a large engine', the fastest cars on ice.

Does that make Brian the fastest man on wheels in the winter? Maybe so, but to him winning really is not the most important thing, although that is the goal of a race. To him it is the race itself which involves his skill, patience, reflexes and guts!

Together with Greg Neilson, his co-driver, Brian pours down a track of ice as wide as a road at 20 m.p.h. wedging his way past 30 other competitors. And the track itself is not just a straight line as one might imagine. It has got its bends to the left and to the right to really put a driver and his car to the test.

Ice-racing cars must be specially modified in order to endure the harsh conditions. As Brian explained, the surface of the tires must be treated to grip the ice more thoroughly. The fenders must be cut higher so that the wheels do not catch when turning. To obtain more traction on the front wheels Brian has moved the gas tank to the engine compartment and has virtually stripped the back half of his car of any extra weight.

Brian has created quite a monster out of his Fiat 128. The standard model has a 58 h.p. engine; his modified one has a 120 h.p. engine. And with the help of premium gas with octane boosters Brian can achieve a 60 m.p.h. maximum on ice.

Racing cars is not only time consuming because of the work involved on the car; it is also very costly. Brian once took a three day course at Mosport to learn how to drive a Formula Ford racing car. The course cost him $650.00. After that, renting one of those extravagant cars cost $200.00 a day.

When asked what his most exciting moment in racing was, Brian recalled an experience trying to overtake two cars in front of him. The surface was too slippery for the task and he spun into a snowbank. Then Greg, his co-driver, stepped out of the car only to find himself in the path of an oncoming competitor. This life or death scene must bring a few chuckles to their minds now but the adrenalin certainly must have been flowing at the time.

Brian did not race this summer for a very good reason... he broke his hand early in the season. But he is back in shape now and has every intention of racing this winter again.

Being a champion racer certainly makes up for Brian's first attempt at driving. At the age of 16 he failed his license for not looking over his shoulder.

Banks lend on earnings, not farm's market value

By Donald Shaughnessy, CA

There are two ways at looking at the value of an asset, and farmers sometimes are disappointed that banks and other lenders don't use the same standards as they do in putting a value on the farm.

The question might arise when a farmer with, say, 300 acres, wants to buy another 150 acres. He figures his present farm is worth $1,000 an acre, and so is the new one. Their joint value is thus $450,000 and the farmer thinks the banks should be able to lend him $330,000 on these assets.

But they won't and this is where the two ways of valuing an asset come in.

The farmer uses the market value to establish how much the farm is worth; in other words, how much could he sell it for?

But the banks use a different measurement, the working value. How much money can the farm earn, they ask. Suppose the farmer grows corn, and can earn $50 an acre a year that way. The bank is likely to put a value on that farm of $50 times eight years, or in other words, $400 an acre -- a far cry from the market value of $1,000 an acre.

If the farmer had to pay $1,000 an acre for land on which to grow corn, his annual cost to pay for that land would be about $112 -- and he would be earning only $50 a year. It is obviously a losing situation for the farmer.

The market value of a farm has little relationship to its working value. In virtually any other use, a farm is worth more than it can earn through agriculture. As a recreational site, as a residential development, or in industrial or commercial use, the land can be much more profitable, and its market value is based on that standard, not on its farming worth.

If a farmer bought a farm 10 years ago, he might find that its working value now is coming into line with its market value then.

It is probably just as well that banks lend on a farm's income stream and not its market value; otherwise, there would be a lot more bankruptcies than there are.

And the banks are not interested in owning farms; they want customers who are earning money and repaying their loans on time!

Mr. Shaughnessy is with G.H. Ward & Partners, Cobourg.

Phony Charities

Sometimes it's awfully hard to say no. The caller is smooth and convincing. The product has a one-year guarantee and yet, it does cost a bit more than usual. But then, it's for a good cause. And what's a buck or two - after all, you're helping to send an underprivileged child to camp.

Thousands of Ontario residents are subjected to pitches like this every year. Sometimes the money they donate lines the pockets of unethical promoters instead of helping those in need. If you donate money to charity, make sure you know who you are dealing with and where the money is going.

The phony charity game

There are as many variations on the phony charity as there are unscrupulous fund raisers. But a few common schemes show up with unfailing regularity.

Sharp operators have often used well-respected community groups as a front to sell tickets for circuses. The group allows its name to be used in return for a portion of the proceeds - which may be as little as 10 percent - while the rest goes to the promoter.

Of course, the well-meaning community group is unaware that the lion's share of the take goes to the promoter, and that high-pressure sales tactics may be used.

Ticket sales are often handled by telephone solicitors working out of what have come to be known as "boiler room" operations. By saying they represent non-profit charitable groups, the telephone solicitors, either students working for a low hourly wage or fast-talking professionals on commission, are able to raise huge amounts.

If you do buy a ticket or make a donation, your name and the amount given may be written on a "tap" card and the calls from telephone solicitors may continue. Tap cards will often be sold to other organizations asking for donations.

Other phony charity groups canvass door-to-door, in shopping centres or on the street, selling everything from chocolate bars to lightbulbs. Of course, many legitimate charity organizations sell similar products. Because of this, it is often difficult to distinguish between canvassers representing non-profit charities and those selling for profit-making ventures.

Recognize legitimate charities

But a cautious donor is the best defence against unethical fund raisers. By following a few simple guidelines, you should be able to avoid being taken for a phony charity ride:

--Know who you are dealing with. Give only to established charities with which you are familiar.

--Ask questions. Find out where the money is going and what percentage is actually used for charity work. How much money is the group trying to raise?

--Ask the canvasser for his or her name, address and telephone number.

--Be aware that a federal income tax registration number is no guarantee that any operation is legitimate.

--Check an organization's reputation and name with the Better Business Bureau which maintains files on most of these groups, and with the Chamber of Commerce. Check the name carefully - many illegitimate groups use legitimate-sounding names.

--If you're not sure about the organization, insist on receiving an audited financial statement for the previous year.

--Be suspicious of any organization that admits a large portion of the money collected goes for operating costs.

Get it in writing

Because few legitimate charities solicit donations by telephone, extra caution is advised in these dealings. If it appears to be a "boiler room" operation, don't commit yourself.

Ask the telephone solicitor to put the request in writing, so you can have time to think it over and have a record of it. Ask how your name or phone number were obtained, and get the telephone solicitor's name and address.

School of Fine Art

"ROCKY MOUNTAIN BIGHORN"

Peter Hebner, a long time Blairton summer resident, decided to combine two dreams - open his own art school and live year round in Blairton. So this year Peter moved from Hamilton and started up the Blairton Bay School of Fine Art.

Can a fine art school show succeed in rural Ontario? Peter's convinced he can make it go. He loves art and, more important, he loves teaching art. Story on Page 1-A, Midweek.

MIDWEEK

"I decided that I shouldn't hang back. I had the idea and if I waited and waited it would never happen. So I decided to try."

And that is why the Peter Hebner Blairton Bay School of Fine Art got underway this summer. Mr. Hebner has been able to combine two dreams - living in the country and opening an art school and, although he knows it won't be easy, he feels that, with patience, he'll be able to make it work.

"I'm sure a lot of people around here wonder what it's all about. So I know I have to educate people. I figure it will take five years, but I think I can do it."

While a fine art school is new to Blairton Bay - a small gathering of houses with the attendant cottage area on the southwest shore of Crowe Lake, Blairton is the site of one of the area's earliest iron mines and gets notice in "Ghosts Towns of Ontario" - Peter Hebner is new to neither Blairton or art. A commercial artist with a diploma from Mohawk College, he is best known in the Toronto-Hamilton area for his sports cartoons and caricatures in the Hamilton Spectator and Toronto Telegram. He has also run a fine art school for a Hamilton Gallery for the past three years.

Mr. Hebner has been coming to Blairton Bay since he was fifteen - some 28 years. His parents live on Highway 7 west, outside of Marmora and have a cottage - now the art school - on the same property where he has recently built his house.

"I have been coming here every spring, summer and fall for 28 years. I feel part of this area. I don't really consider myself part of Havelock or Marmora. I think of myself as a citizen of Blairton Bay."

The art school is facing the predictable first year problems of a small innovative business - trying to develop its market (i.e., attract students), and trying to keep its costs - and its prices - down.

"I've only had a dozen students so far and I don't get those all at one time - maybe 6 for one class and 6 for the next. His classes were on Saturdays; he also had Wednesday classes through the summer. But I'm not disappointed. I could have started out with nobody," Mr. Hebner says that so far, he has stirred little local interest. "I have people through the summer that came to me from Oshawa, Belleville, Warkworth, but the local people maybe don't know what it is, don't know how to take it."

The costs of art materials have held him back in some ways as well. He charges only $3.50 per two hour session and supplies the materials. But the difficulty of finding what he wants - and then of getting a reasonable price - has held him back. "I can't expect the young kids - many of his students are teenagers - to pay for their own materials when a tube of oil costs $4.25. It's impossible for them to afford that."

As a result he has applied for an "Exploration Program under the Canada Council and, with the help of local MP Bill Domm, he feels he is making some headway. This will allow him his financing for his supplies without burdening his students or himself.

All problems aside, it's easy to get the feeling from talking with Mr. Hebner that his enthusiasm for art - and teaching art - will make the school a success. He has established a studio overlooking the bay in an old cottage and hopes to be able to hook up hydro to it next year - winter classes are in his basement. He feels that this setting is ideal for drawing and painting. It ties in with his philosophy that an artist has to slow down to work well.

"I tell my students that in the city we have fast cars, fast food, fast everything. But a creative person has to think methodically. You have to be able to think of art and art only." They come here to slow down.

Meanwhile his own work is thriving - he has been asked to prepare a one man show for a Toronto gallery - something that means a lot of work, but will also mean a big step forward.

And, to help promote the school, he is trying to get his work better known locally. So far his main outlet for the past three years has been the Halfway House, a restaurant just west of the Blairton Road on Highway 7 - halfway between Marmora and Havelock. They have a large display of pencil and pastel sketches around their walls. It has, says Mr. Hebner, been "great publicity" and it's also sold well. It's certainly well worth a look. And, if you're interested in buying your own, call Peter Hebner at (705) 778-3250.

"We're Never Satisfied Until You Are"

.. 50,000 people turned out to watch the air show at the Trenton Air Force Base on Saturday. Last year, approximately 30,000 people attended and the base was looking to increase that number by 10,000 people this year. Their advertising campaign obviously paid off but the many different aircraft in the show and on display on the ground was a big plus that helped to attract the large crowd.

.. The Snowbirds were the main attraction and it was easy to see why when they started putting on their show. Seeing several aircraft flying at high speed with only a few feet between their wing tips is a thrill that people will travel a large distance to see and the pilots and the ground crews of the Snowbirds don't put in hundreds of hours of practice to disappoint people.

.. The success of the show was never in doubt and gave the people in the area a good chance to see just how effective the Canadian Armed Forces and her allies can be.

.. Modern aircraft were just a part of the show at Trenton. Displays of aircraft and weapons from earlier times were also a big attraction and seeing an aircraft like that flown by Billy Bishop, held the interest of the crowd. The Galaxy, the world's largest aircraft, was on display on the ground to impress many of the 50,000 people in attendance.

OFA compliments province on trespass paper

The OFA complimented the Ontario government on many of their proposals in the recently issued White Paper on Liability and Trespass and urged people to support the basic principles behind it.

"Of course, we don't agree with everything but we're glad to see liability has been reduced and trespass restrictions have been extended to cover crop lands," said Peter Hannam, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. "With these new proposals, more farm land has been given the same status as urban lawns and gardens."

Hannam was responding to a recent request of the Ontario Attorney General for reaction to the White Paper. The OFA has studied the proposal and sent its conclusions to the Minister earlier this week.

The main points of disagreement, Hannam said, included the areas of special land status, signage, and the ambiguity of when liability could be charged.

"We've been lobbying for 20 years to have the same protection from trespass and liability apply to all lands, regardless of its use," Hannam said. "Special status is not really enough. The OFA has always felt that property ownership is almost sacred and that ownership rights should be secure and well understood by everyone in our society."

Under the proposed legislation, Christmas tree farms, forested areas, bush and swamp lands, would not be given protection similar to cropland.

The ambiguity about liability rises in the phrase "reckless disregard for the trespasser". "That causes a lot of confusion. If a farmer has a dangerous bull in the pasture field and someone comes walking across the field--what happens then?" Hannam asked. "We think landowner's liability should be eliminated except in cases where it's a deliberate attempt to do harm."

Hannam added, the whole question of signage with positive and negative entries and color codes is too complex and could be too costly for the farmer. "A basic law that forbids trespass would eliminate all these problems."

Why in the cotton-pickin' world is one of Canada's biggest magazines against farm marketing boards?

Reader's Digest, again this month, has a lengthy story on Canadian agriculture. Much of the material in the article is excellent, especially on the profligate squandering and abuse of agricultural land, a subject on which this corner has harped for a dozen years.

But right in the middle of the story is a statement that will make many farmers very angry indeed. The writer, Gordon A. MacEachern, an active member of the Agricultural Economics Research Council of Canada, maintains marketing boards - all marketing boards - are a classic example of a good idea gone wrong.

An unaware reader would get the idea that all of the more than 30 marketing boards in Ontario have quota systems. To my knowledge, only five or six in Ontario set quotas which tell a farmer how much he can grow.

An uninformed city dweller would read the article and think that every agricultural commodity is strictly policed by marketing boards and that every farmer is told how much he can grow.

MacEachern says marketing boards drive food costs up, hold production down and foster inefficiency. To my knowledge, whenever an investigation has been held on quota-setting marketing boards, those same boards have come up smelling pretty sweet.

If I remember correctly, the quota system in eggs, for instance, only adds 1 1/2 cents a dozen to the price of eggs, a paltry sum to smooth out the marketing system and allow producers a decent return.

And only eggs, some dairy products, tobacco, chicken broilers and turkeys are under the quota system. Other products are not in this category so how can production be held down in others?

To refute the suggestion - nay, it is stated as fact and no proof is given - that marketing boards foster inefficiency, one only has to consult the results of two separate studies made recently in Canada. One came from British Columbia, another from the University of Guelph. Both studies concluded that marketing boards are beneficial and that quotas should be allowed to transfer freely between or among farmers.

In other words, high quota prices reflect greater efficiency by the farmer willing to buy quota. The good farmer, the efficient farmer, has the cash available - or the credit - to buy more quota from a less efficient farmer. To put it bluntly, quotas tend to reward efficiency, not to foster inefficiency.

The Digest article suggests that farmer-run marketing boards have become monopolies.

That may be true in one sense: they monopolize what they sell; they know what they are going to get for their product at the farm gate. More power to them. If marketing boards were made illegal, then watch how the big, multi-national conglomerates would fast become more than monopolies. They would become dictators.

Marketing boards were set up to give the individual farmer some real clout in the market place, enough clout to keep big business from gouging the public, enough clout to give farmers a fair return on their labour and investment. In my humble opinion, they have done just that and nothing else.

It is the second time in less than 20 months that the Reader's Digest has taken a slap at farm marketing boards. I can't help wondering why a big magazine would stoop to fighting farmers who have fought long and hard for the legal right to market their own products.

Is it because the food chains and the liquor interests advertise in big circulation magazines?
The chains buy from marketing boards. The distilleries all use grain.
In the last issue of one such famous magazine, the major advertisers were Kraft Foods, Libby, Christie, Sealtest, General Foods, Betty Crocker, Catelli, Seagram, Gilbey, Gordon, MacGuinness, Smirnoff, Alberta Rye, Schenley, Corby, Kahlua, Tia Maria, Cointreau, Bacardi, Amaretto and Carioa Rum.
The clout of those advertisers is enough to stagger any editor.

Register guns, OPP urges

The hunting season is only a month away, so now's the time to start planning that trip.

Of course, you'll plan on taking a rifle. Maybe you're planning on getting a new rifle or shotgun. Did you know that you'll need a firearms acquisition certificate before you acquire a new long gun, and that includes borrowing one.

OPP Superintendent Jim Villemaire, the chief provincial firearms officer, says, "We're expecting a large number of applications to be made by people who are getting equipped for the upcoming season."

It could take several weeks for your firearms acquisition certificate to come through. By applying now, you will have a better chance of getting an FAC before the hunting season approaches.

About thirty thousand firearms acquisition certificates have been issued since the new law came into effect on January 1. This figure is expected to increase drastically come September.

CARDS OF THANKS

THE FAMILY of the late Henry Whiteman would like to thank their friends, neighbours and relatives for personal visits, food donations, floral tributes, donations to cancer and heart funds, cards and their many acts of kindness. Also thanks to Madoc Lodge AF & AM no. 48 for flowers and Masonic service. Special thanks to Rev. Neilson and Rev. John McEwen for their comforting words and to MacKenzie Funeral Home. Thanks to the Cooper & Remington W.I. for serving lunch after the funeral. Thank you one and all, your kindness will always be remembered. Harriet Whiteman and all the family. -5

THE FAMILY of the late Bob McCulloch, wish to thank their many relatives, friends and neighbours who through their many acts of kindness and messages of sympathy helped greatly in our time of sorrow at the sudden loss of a dear husband, father, son, brother & son-in-law. A special thanks to Rev. Neilson, Milroy Funeral Home, friends & neighbours, the floral tributes, donations to the organizations and for food brought to my mother's home. Elaine, Greg and families. -5

WE would like to express our sincere thanks to our daughter, son-in-law, grandchildren, brothers & sisters-in-law, nieces & nephews, our adopted family & neighbours for the gifts, purse of money & delicious buffet supper & for making our 25th Anniversary a very special event for us. A special thanks to Roger for entertainment. Thanks each & everyone again. God Bless all of you. Art & Sadie Baker. -5

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends & relatives for their cards & gifts, while I was a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital. # MEMORIAMs

SOLMES - In loving memory of our dear brother, Lorne Solmes who passed away on Sept. 6, 1978 and our dear brother-in-law Bob Forbes who passed away Sept. 23, 1978 and our dear sister Ellen Burleigh who passed away on Oct. 2, 1978.
 So many things have happened. Since you were called away. So many things to share with you. Had you been left to stay. No one knows the grief we bear. When families meet and you're not there. The tears we shed can be wiped away. But the ache in our hearts will always stay. Lovingly remembered and always loved. Arnold, Mary and Family. -11
FORBES - Robert (Bob). In loving memory of our dear son-in-law Bob who passed away Sept. 23, 1978. Each rose and leaf may wither. The morning sun may set. But the ones that loved you dearly. Are the ones that don't forget. Always loved by Mother-in-law & Father-in-law. -11

MEMORIAMs

SOLMES - In loving memory of our dear son Lorne who passed away Sept. 6, 1978. God put your arms around him. Keep him in your care. Make up for all he suffered. And all that was unfair. Only a cluster of memories. Sprayed with a million tears. Wish God had spared him. Just a few more years. Always loved and sadly missed by Mom and Dad and Brother Ronnie. -11

MORROW - In loving memory of a dear husband, father & grandfather, Wilbert who passed away September 15, 1978. We think of you dear loved one. And see your smiling face. And know that you are happy. In our Father's chosen place. Sadly missed by wife Madeleine, family Glen, Linda, Fred, Ruth, Peter & Brian. -11

BOUND, John W. - Nine long years have passed dear Daddy. Since the dawning of that day. When without farewell or warning. God quietly called you away. Since then dear Mom has joined you. And left us lonely here. But very soon the trumpet will sound. And we'll all be gathered home. Lovingly remembered by your children & grandchildren. -11

KAVANAGH - In loving memory of Kenneth (Ted) who passed away Sept. 14, 1964. A page in our book of memories. Silently turns to-day. Lovingly remembered by wife Evelyn and Family. -11

FROST - In memory of my dear brother Kenneth Frost, sadly missed by sister Salsy, Sam, Jimmie. In our hearts he will always live. -11

IN BRIEF:

HAUELOCK THE CITIZEN

Havelock United Church has decided to ask members to contribute to a special fund for refugees that has been set up by the United Church of Canada. "We felt that this was one way we can do something to help the S.E. Asian refugees. As Christians we cannot stand by and let these people suffer without coming to their aid. We felt this was the best way our small congregation could contribute," said Rev. Phillips, minister of Havelock United Church.

He invites donations from anyone, whether United Church members or not, to this refugee relief fund.

Plato Creek, as it passes through Havelock, is the lowest in many years. The CVCA has been asked to look into the reasons for the low water and ascertain if it is the work of beavers and their dams or some other obstruction.

Eight-year-old David Jeffries, who found a Palmolive Company token in his backyard this summer, learned from the company that such coins were issued during the first quarter of the century and were at least 60 years old. Paper coupons have since taken the place of such tokens.

Councillor Clifford Biggs of Havelock Council last week lodged a complaint that councillors had approved repair of a village sidewalk without council approval. Mr. Biggs had been previously told he acted without authority when he ordered a lawn mower for the village at a time when other councillors were on holiday.

A brief argument arose when councillors and the reeve denied acting without authority and the reeve called for a reading of the minutes which indicated a motion had been passed covering all of the street in question even though a verbal discussion had been held with the contractor asking for a section to be skipped.

have all the trailers removed, saying that this was not necessary. The pollution problem in the park could be remedied by simply refusing to allow any pipes into the ground at the park.

Council asked the recreation committee to come up with a more detailed plan for its consideration.

The village is confronted with replacing a council member for the second time in four months. Councillor Bert Gray, a veteran of over ten years service, has moved to Elliot Lake. Council will make the decision on a replacement later this month.

Ministry of Environment officials report some progress in improving the water treatment plant at Deloro. Arsenic levels in the Moira River were at their usual mid-summer highs, however, about ten times over "acceptable" levels.

And finally, motorists in Marmora will be getting parking tickets for transgressions this week. New bylaw enforcement officer Rollie Landry has been issuing only warnings to date, but this week he says, $5 tickets will be issued in an effort to clear up downtown congestion and improve parking for shoppers.

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

A group of residents living along county road 40 attended a County Council meeting last week in Peterborough to protest the condition of their road since it was paved on June 26. The council has decided to let the matter rest until the spring of next year when it will be reviewed once again.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Norwood municipal council, Reeve Harry Wilford presented a plaque to two people who recently celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. The lovely couple was Mr. Chester Hall, 88, and his wife, Fanny, 83.

A group known as the 'Norwood Squirrels' managed to gather a sum of $185 to contribute to the Muscular Dystrophy telethon organizers.

Nine Norwood girls will be competing for the Fair Queen title at the Norwood Fair on Saturday, September 22. The queen will be chosen during the Saturday evening Fair Queen Dance.

MADOC THE REVIEW

Students of Centre Hastings Secondary School started back to school this week, along with every other student in Ontario, and the Centurion teams got right down to business. The teams realize that they may have a difficult task repeating last year's sensational year but you can bet that they won't go down without a fight. The loss of some very good athletes makes this year's team an unknown quantity and must be termed a rebuilding year for the majority of teams. However, the new athletes coming into the school have impressed the coaches and could make the teams every bit as good, or better, than last year.

The councils in the area are all concerned with the new assessment equalization for various reasons. Both Huntingdon and Madoc Township are facing major jumps in their assessment while the village of Madoc appears to be heading for a decrease. What this actually means for the taxpayers in each community is not totally clear at the moment so the councils are being very cautious and have requested as much information as possible on this topic.

Madoc's Minor Hockey program is off to a flying start and they too are rebuilding for future years. They are stressing their House League teams to build a firm foundation for future representative teams and, because people have said that minor hockey does nothing to support themselves, this year's teams are planning many fund raising events. To start the year off, the teams will be selling chocolate bars and apple cider at the fair along with the operating of a dunk tank at their booth. Proceeds will go to Minor Hockey.

The Madoc Fair is fast approaching and organizers are looking for a record year if they get good weather. The fair begins on Friday evening, September 21st and runs right through until Sunday, September 23rd.

HASTINGS THE STAR

Midnight dances at the Riverside Pavilion have been cancelled due to a fight which took place at the September 2nd dance. The incident is still under investigation by Chief Hicks.

The Philmar property in downtown

Hastings is now fenced off due to a request made by building inspector Heinz Weiss. Mr. Weiss feels the building on the site is unsafe and is taking further action to have it either removed or restored to a safer structural condition.

On Thursday, September 6, William Dougall and Gwen Lynch stood trial in the Campbellford Provincial Court because of an incident which took place near the Hastings bridge on June 3 involving a car and a van. Mr. Dougall was found guilty on two charges of assault and one of careless driving. Miss Lynch was found guilty of careless driving.

MARMORA THE HERALD

Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Townships' Councils are, like many rural municipalities, faced with incredibly inflated schoolboard and county taxes as a result of new assessment distribution. The new system has a significant shift of taxes from urban to rural areas.

The village has opted to consult their chartered accountant; the townships will ask for an equalized assessment within the township in hopes of distributing the tax burden more fairly.

Booster Park, the trailer park run by the municipalities is back in limbo. Village council rejected a joint village-townships recreation committee recommendation to

Golden Helmets on tour in area

The Ontario Provincial Police motorcycle precision team, the Golden Helmets, will be starting its 1979, fall tour with performances at the Spencerville Fall Fair on Sept. 7 and 8.

The Golden Helmets team was formed in 1963 and has 18 members including its own commentator.

All of the riders are experienced regular OPP motorcycle patrol officers selected on a voluntary basis. They are temporarily relieved of their normal patrol work during their exhibition schedule.

The team undergoes special training for several weeks and continues practising between events to maintain the perfection necessary for the intricate maneuvers.

Under the direction of Assistant Commissioner J.S. Kay of the OPP traffic division, Toronto, the Golden Helmets have demonstrated their expert riding skill at numerous fairs and exhibitions across the province. The team has also participated in many parades: Canadian National Exhibition, Niagara Grape and Wine Festival (receiving top honours) and various annual agricultural fairs and Santa Claus parades. They have also appeared in the Grey Cup Parade.

The OPP motorcycle team was a leading participant in the 1977 Queen's Silver Jubilee celebrations, performing at Queen's Park on Dominion Day before Lieutenant Governor Pauline McGibbon.

During the 1979 tour, the precision team will appear at 12 events across Southern Ontario.

The motorcycles used in the precision ride are powerful 1200 c.c., 950 lbs., Harley-Davidson Police Specials. They are equipped with two-way radios, sirens, flashing and revolving red lights, and first aid kits. They are the same machines used by these officers on traffic patrol.

OPP motorcycles play an important role on Ontario's highways particularly in the south. Mobility is their biggest asset, bringing first aid and assistance through lines of waiting traffic to the scene of an accident.

The precision performance is just that. It should not be construed as trick or stunt riding. Each 30-minute performance is based on numerous intricate maneuvers, split-second timing and highly developed riding skill.

Some of the maneuvers are as follows: Salute Formation, Single Introduction, Review Drive Past, Criss Cross, Single and Double Weaves, Small and Large Figure Eights, Continuing Link, Thread the Needle, The Wheel, Reverse Circle, Triple Reverse Circle, Interchange and File, Finale Formation, and Final Salute - forming letters OPP.

The Golden Helmets will appear at these locations:

Quinte Exhibition and Raceway, Belleville - Sept. 11 at 7:15 p.m. and September 12 at 7:15 p.m.; Bancroft Centennial, Bancroft, Oct. 15 at an afternoon performance.

CONSUMER BEAT

Almost everyone dreams of starting a small business at one time or another. Being your own boss, planning your own hours, even your own salary - the rewards are obvious.

The pitfalls are perhaps not so plainly evident. The fact is, about 70 percent of all new businesses fail within the first five years. Most business experts agree that lack of prior planning is one of the main factors in this rather discouraging statistic.

Are you prepared?

Before you launch into a small business venture, be sure you have a clear idea of the way your business will operate, who you will sell to and where the markets are.

Determine the age, sex, income bracket and buying habits of your potential clientele through market research. Assess the competition. Is anyone else offering the product or service? Are you competitive? Can the market support another company?

Make lists of the type and amount of equipment you'll need. Determine the cost of any outside service you'll require. Will you need employees? Skilled or unskilled?

Your local employment Canada centre provides employment services for employers and workers. It also publishes information on labour supply and demand in all industries and occupations and provides technical and financial assistance to employers for training and upgrading employees.

Make sure you've covered as many details as possible. Will you need advertising? How much? Find out about present and future zoning regulations. Be sure to obtain approval for the use of your building from all government regulatory bodies including zoning and health officials and the fire marshal.

Contact your local municipality to find out if you require any licenses. Find a location near transportation facilities such as railway and air terminals if you will require this service. Make sure staff, markets and suppliers are within easy travelling distance.

Financial Planning

With few exceptions, you need money to make money. You'll need capital to cover the initial costs of setting up the business and daily operating expenses. You should also have some working capital left over so you can take advantage of bargain prices or survive temporary set-backs.

Initial expenses might include land, building, fixtures, machinery, supplies, vehicles and goods. Salaries, rent, taxes, advertising and maintaining inventory may also account for some of the daily operating costs.

Because you must know what these costs total to determine your financial needs, prepare a cash flow forecast for the first 12 months. Information about how to estimate your future cash flow is available from the small business division of the ministry of industry and tourism.

Consult the Experts

A bank manager, accountant or bookkeeper can assist you with this. In addition, an accountant can help explain various laws involved, including tax regulations, and help organize the financial side of the business.

Think about other outside experts who may make life easier in your new business. Consulting firms offer advice on a wide range of subjects, including marketing. If you are importing goods, you may require the services of a customs broker.

A lawyer will help you make many of the legal decisions involved in starting a small business. In many communities, lawyer referral services can put you in touch with the appropriate firm or individual.

Remember to comparison shop before you hire an expert. Ask friends and local business organizations to suggest reputable and reasonably-priced accountants and lawyers.

Be Informed

The ministry of consumer and commercial relations offers a free booklet titled "Starting a Small Business" through its Consumer Information Centre at 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6. The ministry can also direct you to a wide range of information sources for the small business planner. Arm yourself with as much information as possible before you start out. It may make the difference between a financial nightmare and a dream come true.

GARDENING

Indoor gardening

The growing season is just about over, but that doesn't mean that you have to forget about gardening until next spring.

The long winter is a good time to brush up on your indoor and outdoor gardening skills. A new series of gardening courses, sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, allows you to learn at home at your own pace.

The Creative Self-Learning packages are part of a new concept in home study. These packages provide the quality of on-campus lectures, complete with visual aids. Each course kit includes text material written by the course instructor, a taped lecture on a cassette, filmstrips and a hand viewer. At least four filmstrips, featuring 84 colour frames, are included in each kit.

After you purchase the kit, it is yours to keep. The materials are packaged in an attractive hard cover binder for easy shelf storage and reference.

Subjects available in this new series include: Indoor Plants, Deciduous Trees, Propagation of Tropical Plants, and Flower Arranging. The Flower Arranging course costs $24.50. Other courses cost $20 each. These courses are available through the Office of Independent Study, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario N1G 2W1.

"These kits make excellent gifts for birthdays, anniversaries, Christmas and other special occasions," says Wendy Elrick, of the Office of Independent Study. "They also make cheery get-well gifts." The Creative Self-Learning kits can also be adapted for horticultural lecture presentations.

WOODS, WATER AND WILDLIFE

BY RON REID

From the shadows of a warm August night, over nine hundred people gather quietly in an outdoor amphitheatre in Algonquin Park. People from all walks of life, of all ages, brought together in a quest for a unique adventure.

A few words of introduction from the senior park naturalists, and then back to their cars for a slow procession down the highway. At a predetermined spot, all lights are extinguished, the highway is closed, and the hundreds of participants quietly emerge. Anticipation hangs heavy in the silence.

Then, from one of the naturalists at the head of the line, a wavering, throaty howl echoes across the valley. Silence again. A second howl, and after a pause, a third. Finally, a response. From high on the wooded ridge silhouetted in the moonlight, the reverberating howl of a timber wolf creates a ripple of excitement down the assembled crowd. They have succeeded in their initiation; they now are among the privileged few to have felt the magic of a wolf howl in Algonquin.

Again the wolf responds, and then is joined by others, in an eerie chorus. Their cries are not mournful, but rather strong and confident, with the higher-pitched yapping of pups joining in occasionally. This is a family group, the basis of wolves' tight social structure, and at this time of year the family is gathered at a grassy meadow where the pups first learn their hunting skills.

The enormous popularity of Algonquin wolf howls are one indication that wolves are finally beginning to enjoy a well-deserved respite from notoriety. But while public opinion and government policy are increasingly recognizing timber wolves as an intelligent, interesting part of Ontario's wildlife, at least some long-held beliefs denigrating wolves as unwanted vermin persist.

The role of wolves in limiting deer populations has been studied extensively by the late Doug Pimlott, one of Canada's leading conservationists, and his colleagues. While wolves in Algonquin unquestionably rely on deer as a food source, their prey are primarily the older and younger deer, thereby helping to maintain a healthy herd. While deer populations have declined sharply, that decline is largely a result of natural changes in winter food supply, not hunting and killing by wolves.

Before the disruptive influence of logging, Algonquin had no deer, and present management is slowly returning towards that natural state. The adaptable wolves are maintaining their population by switching to a menu of beaver and moose.

Timber wolves have become endangered in many parts of their range because of human pressures. We haven't yet reached the point in Ontario, but eventually we too will have to face the crucial question: will man the hunter be unselfish enough to share a dwindling number of deer with natural predators such as the wolf?

RESEARCH

Rising fuel costs have become a sticky issue where the maple syrup industry is concerned. Operators of commercial oil-fired sap evaporators have experienced an increase of over 100 percent in fuel costs since 1974, and over the same period retail prices for maple syrup have risen by 50 percent. Now, a new method of syrup production, reverse osmosis, may be a partial alternative to the expensive fuel-fired evaporation process, helping to keep maple syrup within reach of the average consumer, says University of Guelph engineering professor Ernest Davison.

The principle of osmosis is simple. Some plastics (such as cellulose acetate) and various vegetable and animal membranes possess a unique property. They allow water to pass relatively freely through them while preventing the simultaneous passage of certain dissolved substances. Normally this water is drawn from a chemically less concentrated solution to a more highly concentrated one. The flow will continue until both solutions reach the same level of concentration. This process is the basic principle by which sap is transported in trees.

Reverse osmosis takes place when sufficient pressure is applied to the more highly concentrated solution so that the water flow not only ceases but begins to flow back in the other direction. When one applies this principle to maple sap concentration, it is possible, by pumping maple sap under pressure past a semi-permeable membrane, to remove the desired amount of water while leaving behind concentrated sugar solution. In this way reverse osmosis may be utilized to produce maple syrup.

By this new method, sufficient water can be removed to produce the minimum standard syrup - containing 44 percent water and 66 percent sugar solids by weight - without adversely affecting the colour or quality. Professor Davison recommends, however, that the final concentration stage of the syrup be accomplished by thermal evaporation, in order to achieve that distinctive, traditional maple syrup taste.

Other factors, including costs of pumping at higher energies and clogging of the membrane as the syrup gets thicker, also make a dual concentration system financially preferable to a single one.

Reverse osmosis systems are commercially available in Canada and the USA. It has been estimated that one of these systems capable of removing 80 percent of the water from maple sap would save 80 percent of the cost whereas one capable of removing 50 percent would save 50 percent over the thermal evaporation process.

The University of Guelph researcher points out that there are some potential drawbacks in using reverse osmosis in maple syrup production. The membrane may clog at high concentrations. When warm weather sets in yeast and bacteria counts in sap rise quickly, and this fouls both the membrane and the in-line filters. If the situation cannot be controlled by cold storage or ultraviolet sterilization then the operator must resort to frequent flushings of the system, thus causing shutdowns and, in effect, greater operating costs. On the other hand, when the system works well it can operate on a 24 hour basis with very little attention.

In 1977, maple syrup production in Canada was worth approximately $30,000,000 retail, most of it from Quebec, as compared to only $17,300,000 in the United States. Clearly the development of a process able to combat rising production costs and maintain such an important Canadian industry is good news. Already some reverse osmosis units are in use in the United States and a few in Canada. With time and added experience there is optimism that their performance will improve and costs will be lowered, making their role in the industry increasingly important as fuel prices continue to rise.

Solar cells

A new technique developed at the University of Guelph promises to reduce greatly the cost of manufacturing solar batteries, or photo voltaic cells as the scientists call them. The process could revolutionize the production of such cells and make them a cheap source of electrical power based on solar energy.

Prof. Ron Fawcett and Dr. Andrzej Baranski of the Department of Chemistry at the University of Guelph have shown that effective energy collecting devices can be produced using a film of cadmium sulphide produced by electrodeposition. This is a process similar to that used in depositing an intact metal film in processes such as chrome plating.

At the present time, to produce electrical current from solar energy, scientists use a cell containing single crystal silicon or else cadmium sulphide produced by the much more expensive process of vapour deposition.

The possibility of tapping the abundant and pollution-free energy of the sun has many attractions. To date, most efforts have involved heat collectors and the wider application of solar energy in the form of electrical output will open up many more uses.

The University of Guelph scientists expect a patent for the new process in the near future.

Queensboro Dam strengthened

The Queensborough dam is presently getting a badly needed facelift thanks to the present owner, Andre Philpot, of Marmora. The water level is very low at the present time because the three stop logs that were in the dam, have been removed while the repairs are being completed. More pictures and story on page 3.

Ball League

The Madoc Township Ball League, which has been meeting at the Madoc Township Public School from the third week in May until the last week in July, has again run a successful program with over 125 children participating. To end the season for these enterprising young athletes, an awards night was held at the public school on Tuesday evening, September 11th. The awards consisted of a crest in the shape of a baseball bat with the letters MTBL printed on it, along with free pop and chips to all of those children who participated throughout the year.

Although the majority of the children in the program were from Madoc Township, several children from both Madoc Village and Huntingdon Township did attend this year. The organizers were happy with this turn of events and hope to see this trend continue as the years go by. They are happy that the program has remained self-supporting with the help of the Cooper Winter Carnival, who donated some money to buy equipment last year. This year, a small membership fee was charged ($1 for first child and 50 cents for each additional child in a family) and the organizers expect this fee to be able to sustain them to the point that they will not need additional funding from anyone.

The purpose of the program was to "teach the kids how to play ball properly, we hope," said one of the organizers, and the program must be working because one of the teams from Madoc Township won the "B" championship trophy at the recent Kids' Weekend tournament. One of the problems that they have encountered is getting enough parents out to supervise and assist in the instruction of these children. "At the first of the year, we had quite a few parents coming out and helping, but as time went on, it got to the point where only about three adults were coming out regularly. We could sure use some help next year."

Madoc and District Historical Society

Two meetings, one on the 26th of September and the other on the 24th of October, have been set up to see if there is enough interest in Madoc and area to form our own Historical Society and, if the interest is there, the Historical Society could have far reaching effects and benefits for the area.

On Wednesday, September 26th, at the St. John's Anglican Parish Hall at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. Brenda Hudson, one of the people who has been working behind the scenes to bring the Historical Society to Madoc, will outline the directives she has received from the Ministry of Culture and Recreation for the formation of a society, its aims, assistance available, etc. Ideas will be exchanged, plans can be made and a committee formed. Mrs. Hudson will also give a brief description of her research into local history over the past year.

At the October 24th meeting in the Anglican Parish Hall at 7:00 p.m. Mr. Allan Barnes, from the Museums Branch of the Ministry of Culture and Recreation, will give a slide presentation on setting up a museum in our area. He will include suggestions for suitable buildings for a museum along with methods and designs in running it.

"The preservation of our heritage" was the main reason cited by Mrs. Hudson for trying to get a museum and Historical Society in Madoc. "The museum in Belleville has been very helpful to us in the past but it is just too far for most people to travel and if we had it right here in Madoc, we think more people would make use of it." Mrs. Hudson feels that Madoc is one of the prettiest villages in Ontario, due to the success of the gold mines that were once here. "It is unusual in that industry never developed here but, because of the gold mines, there is some very interesting architecture throughout the village."

Mrs. Hudson is confident that, if there is enough interest in the project, and she insists this is a key to its success or failure, the Historical Society and the museum could contribute greatly to the tourist attracting potential of the village.

Mrs. Hudson has a vested interest in history in this area. She had just completed writing a book on the history of the settlement in this area called "Fabric of a Dream." The book is presently being published by Mika Publications and is expected to be on the market by Christmas. She is also planning on producing a historical brochure and placemats which will contribute to the knowledge of our history, both for ourselves and those visiting the area. Her husband is a free lance artist and is also contributing to her projects.

She stresses that the Historical Society or the Museum have no chance of becoming a reality in this area if there is no support from the community. "Attendance at these two meetings is essential to our success and we urge anyone interested in the project to show up at the meetings."

Madoc has four robbery attempts on rainy Thursday night

The rain and gloom of last Thursday night appeared to be just the kind of night that thieves in the Madoc area were waiting for. During that night, four area businesses and schools were the victims of attempted robberies, although the take was hardly worth the effort and the fact that these people now face criminal charges. The amount stolen was very minimal with damage to the stores and schools' mounting into the thousands of dollars.

Madoc Cash and Carry and the Madoc High School were the victims of the most determined attacks but more damage was done than cash stolen. Sometime between midnight and 7:30 a.m. the suspects entered the rear door of the Cash and Carry building and attempted to open the safe in the store portion of the building. Sledge hammers and chisels from the store were used to try and force open the safe. The safe was never actually entered although $2,000. damage was done to the safe and a number of tools were also damaged. The safe was obviously the prime objective of the thieves as nothing else was stolen.

At Centre Hastings Secondary School, the thieves entered by a window and broke open a pen vending machine. What did they get? Some pens and a small amount of cash. From there, they attempted to open some pop machines etc., in the cafeteria but only succeeded in damaging the machines. Their take amounted to about $5.00.

The Madoc Public School was also entered by a window and the thieves entered a classroom by removing the vent. A small, unknown amount of cash was stolen from this room.

The Madoc Pinto Store was also entered with the thieves getting very little for their efforts. They entered through a window on the west side of the store leading to the basement. Approximately $20.00 in loose silver was stolen from the cash register. Fortunately for all concerned but the thieves, large amounts of cash are not kept in these stores or schools.

These attempted robberies are still under investigation and the Ontario Provincial Police would appreciate any information about these crimes. They are not certain whether they are connected to the same persons although it is entirely possible.

The Olde Bake Shop grand opening

The baked goods, and a smiling face to serve them, are waiting for you at the "Olde Bake Shoppe".

The Olde Bake Shop, at Kramp's Variety store, was officially opened on Friday, September 14th, and, if the opening was any indication, it could be a very popular new business in Madoc. It was started because of the demand in the area but is presently on an experimental basis. If the demand appears adequate, it could be turned into a complete bake shop by next spring.

At the present time, you cannot get all of your baked goods at this shop, but a very good variety will be available to buy and to see how people like the product. Shirley Monkman, the baker, will be producing such things as bread (white, brown and raisin loaf), buns (brown and white), date squares, tarts, bran muffins, date loaves, all kinds of pies and "sticky buns" (a cross between Chelsey and cinnamon buns that Daryl recommends). They are also thinking of supplying dough-nuts, but this will depend on the demand of their customers.

"Everything is made right on the premises and the quality is nothing but the best," said Daryl Kramp, the owner of the shop. "We want to put out quality products so we're not sparing any expense."

At the present time, his regular staff is handling the additional work but, as Daryl said, "If the response continues to be as good as it was this morning, we will be forced to consider hiring more people to handle the work. I am very pleased with the results, so far, and it looks like it may turn out to be a good thing for us."

Shirley Monkman prepares some bread at the bake shop that opened at Kramp's Variety store on Friday.

Senior Citizen's Club 473

The Sr. Citizens' Club 473 held their meeting on September 12, at 2 o'clock, in the church hall. The president Mrs. Alma Blackburn welcomed all present then opened the meeting with "O God Our Help in Ages Past", followed by "The Lord's Prayer". There were 59 present. The club welcomed a new member, Mrs. Irene Sleeper. A gift was presented to Dan Robinson, celebrating his birthday. The birthday song was sung for the September birthdays. Sorry some of our members are in the hospital, Mrs. Archie Adams and George Warbrick.

Mrs. Maude Deline gave an interesting report on the U.S.C.O. Convention at Victoria Hall, Kingston. The secretary, Miss Mary Taylor, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Irene Lake read the correspondence and Mrs. Keitha Moorcroft gave the treasurer's report. It was decided to have a tea and bake sale and bazaar on Halloween Day. The president gave a report on the zone meeting. A bus trip was discussed.

The program was led by Mrs. Irene Gordon who read a poem "September Birthdays". Mrs. Emma Henderson read "A Favourite Chair". Mrs. Jennie Broadworth read some jokes. Mrs. Ruby Robinson read "Let Your Good Works Shine". Mrs. Grace Robinson read "The Gift of His Love, the More We Give Away, The More We Receive". George Alore read "The Ten Commandments" for the senior citizens. The most that counts in life is what we do for others. Mrs. Goldie Holmes showed her handi-work on a couple of quilted blocks of the "Maple Wood, the Church with colourful trees" and one of colourful scenery. She then read a poem "What I saw from my window". Mrs. Irene Gordon read "Don't Count Your Birthdays By Years". Mrs. Nancy Gunyo won the door prize.

The meeting closed with singing "The More We Get Together" and "God Save the Queen". Lunch was served and a social half-hour was enjoyed by all.

Field Crop competition

The Madoc Agricultural Society, in conjunction with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, sponsored a field competition in silage corn. The competition was judged by Ken S. Thompson, of Roslen, and the score was as follows: Grant Ketcheson 94 pts.; Raeborn Robinson 92 pts.; Gerald Pack 89 pts.;

Edward Tobin 88 pts., Jerry Chapman 87 pts., Don McKinnon 86 pts., Allan Thompson 85 pts., Ross Moorcroft 83 pts., Jas A. Miller 83 pts., Jack Howard 83 pts., Sager Bros 83 pts.

The other competitors received a score ranging from 82 down to 57. The above named receive a cash award.

REPAIRING THE QUEENSBORO DAM

Work should add to the village's scenic beauty

Bob Paget and Hans Tronick brace the old concrete and rocks in preparation for pouring the cement on September 22nd. As you can see from the picture on the right, the water level is very low, but, it is still a great place for photographers to spend an afternoon.

The Village of Queensborough's major industry of a few years ago, the mill, was given a facelift several years ago in the form of a good coat of paint after Andre Philpot purchased the mill from Mr. John Thompson, who had operated the mill until it was no longer profitable to do so. The facelift is continuing this summer with the dam getting some much needed attention.

Bob Paget and Hans Tronick, two chimney sweeps from the Tweed area, are being paid by Mr. Philpot to restore the dam to some semblance of its former operating capacity and their work is now nearing completion. What does chimney sweeping have to do with building or strengthening a dam? Nothing, really, but both of these young men do bring some practical experience to the job, which they are working at between jobs as chimney sweeps. Bob worked at Stanley Structures last year and feels that he got enough practical experience to tackle a job like this. Hans, whose father is in the wrought iron business, is mainly there to assist Bob, but his knowledge of stress regarding iron and cement has proved valuable during the three or four weeks that they have been working on the dam.

Both men agreed that they had not been required to face any major problems in completing their task to this point. They had been given free electricity by Mr. Art Gough and had had no problems as far as leaving their tools and equipment on the site. The work had been hard and time consuming to say nothing of dangerous at times. While working on one side of the dam, some rocks had dislodged and fallen down, nearly striking Hans. A few minor problems had occurred but were eventually solved by the men, but they may need assistance in the near future. Pouring the cement is going to be the major problem and they are not sure just how this will be done. If cement trucks can get close enough to the site, they will try to do all of the pouring at once, but, if the trucks can't get close enough, they will be required to do the mixing and pouring by hand and this could prove very time consuming and difficult for just two people to do. They expect to be ready to pour the cement by Saturday, September 22nd, and if they have to pour by hand, Hans and Bob admit that they could use some help.

After completion of their work, the problems that have been encountered at the dam in previous years will still have to be watched carefully. The overall strength of the dam is still suspect and the amount of water being held back by the dam will have to be monitored carefully until they are certain that the dam can withstand the pressure. The major problem will then be inserting and removing the stop logs. New stop logs will be supplied to complement the three stop logs that are presently there, but a system of removing and adding these logs must be designed so that logs can be removed under pressure during the flooding period in the spring. If a working system of removing the logs is not designed and used, the whole dam could be washed out by the spring floods.

It is not expected that water will be held back to the maximum height of the dam but enough water should potentially be retained to restore the mill pond to its former glory as a swimming and fishing spot and add to the beauty of this scenic little village.

This type of work was relatively new for Bob and Hans and not without some danger. At one point, when they were working beneath a cement slab, some rocks dislodged and nearly landed on Hans.

Algonquin Arts Council new season

About this time last year, the Algonquin Arts Council announced the scheduled dates of three concerts it was bringing to Bancroft. This was quite an undertaking for this new group of individuals concerned with cultural enrichment in our community. Unsure of the response they would receive, the AAC booked Theatre Beyond Words, a professional mime troupe, the world renowned Canadian Brass and the Peterborough Symphony. The AAC was delighted with the enthusiastic crowds that attended the shows! So pleased, in fact, that they now announce the coming of

A $40,000 law suit in France hinged on the decision whether a small spot of ink was or was not a comma.

Concert Series II.

The first of five big shows for the 1979/80 season happens Saturday, October 27th when Sylvia Tyson brings her unique style of folk music to Bancroft.

The whole family will enjoy the Renaissance Christmas with the Huggett Family. This band of wandering minstrels performs songs, dance and music of the 15th to 17th centuries. Tuesday, December 11th the Huggetts, with medieval costumes and instruments will be here.

What can be described as a musical and visual spectacle takes place Saturday, February 16th. The Shevchenko Musical Ensemble is a group of 120 dynamic, colourful performers. There's a male chorus, a mandolin orchestra and a lively young group of folk dancers. This exciting, top quality programme should not be missed.

Twice during the summer, North Hastings residents have had the pleasure of being entertained by the Maynooth Singers. This unusual ensemble of local singers and actors impressed capacity crowds with a concert in July and the performance of "Jonah" in August. On Friday, April 11th this show features a variety of music and some theatre relating to spring.

This season winds up on Friday, May 16th with Canada's celebrated black light theatre group, the Famous People Players. Twelve young actors will scramble, leap and run about the stage dressed in black, propelling huge, colourful puppets as they have many times all over the world and on television. The whole family will thoroughly enjoy this concert.

For Concert Series II ticket prices and information, please write to June Colden, Algonquin Arts Council, P.O. Box 1360, Bancroft, Ontario K0L 1C0, or phone (613) 332-3537.

Eldorado UCW

By Minnie Moorcroft

On the evening of Sept. 5th, the president, Mary McCann, welcomed seven United Church women in the Sunday school room.

In the business period, discussions took place concerning the Rally Oct. 11th, catering for a wedding, fall teas, and sending a girl to Quin-mo-lac Camp.

The worship service was led by Minnie Moorcroft with meditation on "Things That Remain" in this time of many changes.

Alma Moorcroft showed slides of trips enjoyed by members and their families to Metro zoo, Ottawa in tulip time, Moosonee, and to the Jack Miner bird sanctuary. The showing ended with nearer home scenes of last autumn's gorgeous colours. Two male visitors arrived for the slides and lunch.

Dixie Lee outlet to open soon

Over the past few weeks, a new building has slowly been taking shape just south of the downtown core in Madoc. This building will soon become the newest Dixie Lee chicken and seafood outlet in Canada and Dixie Lee of Canada Limited are predicting that it will be in operation by the end of September or the beginning of October.

This fastfood outlet will feature an excellent line of chicken along with such seafood items as a full range of fish, scallops and a combination seafood platter. It will have an in store eating capacity of about forty people but will also cater to take out orders.

Dixie Lee of Canada is looking forward to another complementary store in the area to go along with their other fine stores across Canada. They have many outlets in small town Canada and expect this one to be just as successful as the rest. Our new store will be very similar to the Brighton store.

St. Peter's Women's Club meeting

The September meeting of St. Peter's Women's Club, Madoc held at the home of Mrs. Thelma McCoy, was opened by the president, Mrs. Jeanette Raynsford, by reading an article "A Lesson for Labour Day."

The devotional service was conducted by Mrs. Reta Pitts in the absence of the visual convener, Mrs. Mary Trotter. She read the hymn, "O Lord of Heaven and Earth and Sea" in keeping with the theme "God's Love for Man". Miss Lamoine West read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 145, verses 14-21. Mrs. Pitts read an article from the book "Steps to Christ," concluding with prayer.

The Secretary, Mrs. Getha Burns read the minutes of the June meeting, the roll call and several "Thank you" cards that had been received during the summer.

The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. Jean Scott, showed a substantial bank balance. A special vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Raynsford for her efficient organization of the Hagerman-Gaebel wedding.

There was a discussion regarding holding a supper in October rather than the usual bazaar and bake sale. Final plans are to be made at the next meeting.

The Club members are to visit the Madoc Manor during September in groups of four. The president asked for volunteers.

Mrs. Thelma McCoy had charge of the program. She read an article "A Back to School Psalm by a School Girl," and conducted an amusing game.

Lunch was served by the hostess Miss Shirley McCoy. Mrs. Laura Gaebel and Mrs. Madeleine McKinnon.

Crewel embroidery fall course

The Home Economics Board of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food will be sponsoring courses in crewel embroidery this fall.

The ministry will train leaders at two day sessions in late October. Leaders will learn crewel embroidery basics and other members of the group will learn from the leaders.

Instruction will be given on at least six stitches, design and colour choice which the ministry says, will help you work designs or design your own.

Further information and application forms can be obtained from Valerie Clark, Home Economist, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Stirling, before October 1.

Exhibition schedule gets as CHSS teams test

This week at CHSS was another week of practicing and assessing talent as the Centurion teams continue to prepare for the opening of their various schedules. Each and every coach was still in doubt as to how their teams would stack up once league play had begun although none of them expect their teams to be bombed by any of the other teams.

The junior and senior girls basketball coaches, Yvonne Mabo and Dave Sellers, were the first to admit that their teams will be unknown quantities until they see them in actual game situations and until they get a chance to assess the talent on the other teams. The one thing they are sure of is

Museum has new exhibit

"More than meets the eye"

Hastings County Museum will have a new exhibit - "More Than Meets The Eye," on Tuesday, September 18, through October 10.

The exhibit consists of photographs of minerals taken through a stereo-binocular microscope and accompanied by representative mineral specimens.

Photomicrographs reveal to us the brilliance and the remarkably complex shapes of tiny mineral specimens, some with crystals only a millimeter across, that we would be unable to appreciate with the naked eye. But photomicrographs are not only beautiful to look at, they also provide a valuable scientific record of shapes and surface details which are often most perfectly formed on very small crystals.

Visiting "More Than Meets The Eye" you will see the sharp, triangular faces of gold crystals from Romania, the hair-like needles of cuprite crystals from Arizona, and the most transparent, inverted pyramids of Weloganite crystals, a very rare mineral known only from the Francon Quarry in Montreal.

"More Than Meets The Eye", was developed by the Royal Ontario Museum in co-operation with Outreach Ontario, a programme of the Ministry of Culture and Recreation.

Augmenting this exhibition will be a display of gem and mineral samples loaned by the Quinte Gem and Mineral Club.

Oscar Wilde noted that "Men of thought should have nothing to do with action."

The museum is open 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, and on Holiday Mondays.

under way this week t their mettle

that the teams from last year got reputations as teams to beat and that will carry over this year.

Yvonne, when asked how her team would do, simply replied, "I don't know." She has her team basically picked although there are still some question marks. The members of the team have impressed her with their desire and team spirit and she says they are definitely serious about becoming good at the game. Joanne Airhart, Judy Welch, Karen Whiteman and Gloria McEwen supply a good nucleus of experience and leadership abilities from the defending C.O.S.S.A. Champions and she also feels that the six or eight new girls on the team have the potential to do well. "It comes right down to the experience and talent of the other teams in the league and how much they are trying to knock us off this year," she said. If our new girls continue to work hard and develop to their potential, we'll do alright, but I'll know better after we have played a few games in the league."

Dave Sellers is new to coaching girls' basketball but has had twenty years of experience as a player and coach of men's teams. "We will be competitive in this league but that is about all I can say until I see them matched against actual competition." The seniors will get a chance to see how they are going to stack up this week when they travel to Peterborough for an exhibition game against Thomas A. Stewart. "The kids in a school like ours face problems with practice times due to busing problems and, by the time you reach the senior level, the extra time spent at practices can make quite a difference when you are competing against Belleville teams who don't have that problem." He felt that he had promising talent on his team but he would have to wait and see how they handled their assignments in actual competition before he could assess how they would stack up against other teams in the league.

As we said before, the exhibition schedule starts this week, which means that several of the teams will have better ideas about their competitiveness after this week. The senior girls' basketball team plays in Peterborough, the junior and senior boys' football teams get their first taste of competition on Wednesday when they meet Campbellford while the senior boys volleyball team has an exhibition game on Thursday and then their Invitational Tournament on Saturday September 22nd.

Next week, we will have the results of these exhibition games and tournaments while the following week will see some of the results of actual league play starting to show up. The junior and senior football teams will really be tested during that week with each team scheduled to play two games. They meet Centennial on Monday and Napanee on Friday. The senior boys volleyball team meets ENSS on Wednesday and NDSS on Thursday while the juniors meet NDSS on Thursday. The girl's basketball teams meet North Hastings on Wednesday. As you can see, the week from the 24th of September to the 28th will be an important one for the Centurion teams and will certainly give us an idea of how the teams will stack up against their competition. Good luck, Centurions.

Note: Word had gotten out the Oldtimers Volleyball team is practicing in Marmora. Carman Donato looked pretty worried this week. "Those guys would have been tough without practicing. Wait until you see some of them in our tournament."

TEST FOR POTENTIAL SQUARE DANCERS

Before you go any further, here's a special "aptitude test" to check your square-dance-ability. Check "yes" or "no" to these questions. Three "yes" votes and the answer should be apparent - you will make a good square dancer

Do you tap your toe or finger or sway just a bit when you hear good rhythmic music? Yes ☐ No ☐

Do you enjoy being with other nice friendly people? Yes ☐ No ☐

Would you like a hobby that both husband & wife can enjoy TOGETHER? Yes ☐ No ☐

If you score heavily in the Yes column, then you'll LOVE square dancing!

Cooper news

by Judy Graham

Congratulations are extended to Fran and Don Dudgeon on the arrival of Lisa Marie on September 13th. Brian is thrilled with his new sister and Pauline and Jack Dudgeon are pleased with their granddaughter.

Miss Brenda Stire is boarding in Belleville and attending the Ontario Business College.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Ferguson spent three days, recently, in Toronto where Elton participated in a competition for employees of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications. Entrants had to take a written test as well as driving an obstacle course and doing a defects test. Representing District 10 - Bancroft, Elton competed with 18 other employees from all of Ontario. It is indeed an honour that Elton finished third in the competition and was awarded a cash prize and a bronze medallion by the Assistant to the Deputy Minister.

Callfas - Duff wed in Marmora

On August 11, 1979, Barbara A. Callfas, daughter of Catherine and the late Leonard Callfas of Marmora and Patrick K. Duff, son of Irene and Jack Duff of Belleville were united in holy matrimony by Rev. A. Perry.

The garden wedding took place in the front yard of the bride's parents' farm. The bride given in marriage by her brother, Douglas, wore a white floor length evening dress and carried a bouquet of peach coloured gladiolus interspersed with red roses.

Maid of honour, Jozefina Kapteyns, wore a floor length lime green dress and carried a bouquet of peach coloured gladioli interspersed with peach roses.

Four flower girls, Donnie Leonard, Debbie Stiles, Diane Stiles and Linda Stiles, friends of the bride and groom, carried baskets containing daisies, button mums, and baby's breath.

Debbie Stiles wore a blue floor length chiffon dress while Donnie Leonard wore a pink floor length chiffon dress, the design complementing each other.

Diane Stiles wore a mid-length yellow flowered dress trimmed with lace on the shoulder straps. Linda Stiles wore a mid-length dress with spaghetti ties and a short shoulder cape. The colour and pattern of the material of the dresses complemented each other.

The groom wore a three piece silver suit with boutonniere of a red rose and tinted pink stephanotis.

The best man, Barry Duff, the groom's brother wore a beige three piece suit with a boutonniere of stephanotis.

The dinner was held at St. Mark's Anglican Church in Bonarlaw and the reception was held at the Parkdale Community Centre in Belleville.

For the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. P. Duff Stayed at a cottage on Crowe Lake and toured the Marmora, Belleville and surrounding area visiting friends and relatives.

The couple will be living in Marmora until the spring when they will be moving to Edmonton, Alberta.

AGRICULTURE

OFA: farmers must protect rights

Unless farmers organize to protect their industry, they will lose their right to farm, Frank Wall, Executive Committee Member, Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA), told a meeting of area farmers today.

Wall, a Norfolk County fruit and vegetable producer, said the combination of federal and provincial legislation and local by-laws is making farming increasingly difficult across Ontario.

Part of the problem, said Wall, is due to the increasing number of urban people who have moved to the countryside. These people are demanding that local farmers change their operations so as not to inconvenience them. "Unfortunately," he said, "There are a growing number of short-sighted politicians who are listening to them."

He pointed to the case of a Huron area farmer. A small hamlet is being rezoned urban to allow more houses in the area. As a result, fifty acres of this farmer's land will fall under new regulation. If the farmer wishes to continue spreading manure on his fields he will be forced to install expensive storage facilities.

If these trends continue, Mr. Wall said, a farmer will have more need of a good lawyer than of a tractor or a barn.

GARDENING

Bringing houseplants indoors

When you bring houseplants indoors, make sure you're not bringing insects and plant diseases inside, advises Bob Fleming, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist.

"During the summer outdoors, houseplants are exposed to a variety of insects and diseases. Once inside, these problems can spread to other houseplants," he says.

Mildew is the most common disease encountered by plants outdoors. Plants infected with this disease have a white, powdery coating on the leaves. To remedy the problem, pick off and destroy the affected leaves, and spray the plant with a fungicide such as benlate or benomyl.

During the summer outdoors, houseplants are also attacked by a variety of insects. Most insects can be eliminated with diazinon, says Mr. Fleming.

To check for whiteflies, tap the plant gently. If these tiny pests are present, you will notice a white cloud of insects fluttering around the leaves.

Scale insects appear as varnish-like mounds on the leaves, petioles, or the soft part of the stem.

If you notice tiny, cotton-like balls in the axils of the leaves, your plant probably has mealybugs. These serious pests suck the sap from the plant and reduce plant vigor.

Mites are microscopic and difficult to diagnose. Moderately affected plants will have a generally unthrifty appearance. Severely affected plants will have damaged papery leaves.

Since some of these problems are difficult to identify, Mr. Fleming suggests spraying with recommended insecticides as a precautionary measure.

After moving plants indoors, isolate them from other houseplants for a week to 10 days.

Moore-Bertrim wedding

Trinity United Church, Madoc, was the setting for a lovely summer wedding on July 28, 1979 at 4 p.m., when Rev. G. Adams united in holy matrimony Sonia Lea Bertrim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Reid of Madoc, and Wayne Elgin Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeland of Colborne, Ontario.

The bride entered the church in a traditional white gown of polyester interlock jersey, with fitted bodice, rounded neckline and full skirt. The long full sleeves were fastened at the wrist and accented with a slit from shoulder to wrist. The full length train of polyester knit was attached to the back bodice. To complete her ensemble the bride wore a matching sheer picture hat, adorned with miniature flowers. Her bouquet was of Baby Blue Roses, white Mini Carnations, Mums and Baby's Breath.

Wendy Blanchard of Madoc, friend of the bride, was matron of honour. Her gown was of floor length baby blue Polyester interlock knit. She carried a bouquet of baby blue and white Carnations, Mums and Baby's Breath.

The little flower girl was Carrie Holden of Stirling, niece of the bride. Her floor length white gown was adorned with pink and blue ribbons and she carried a small white wicker basket of baby blue Mums, Carnations and white mini Carnations.

The groom and ringbearer, Garry Reid Jr. of Madoc brother of the bride, wore identical white tuxedos and boutonnieres of baby blue carnations.

The best man was Mike Comer of Colborne, Ont., friend of the groom.

The ushers were: Bruce Freeland, Colborne, brother of the groom and Elgin Holden, Stirling, brother-in-law of the bride. The bestman and ushers were in baby blue tuxedos with dark blue trim and a white carnation boutonniere.

For the Buffet Dinner, held at the home of the Bride's Parent's Mrs. Reid received her guests in a floor length, peach colour polyester gown with matching jacket and a corsage of pale yellow flowers. She was assisted by the mother of the groom in a soft, green, floor length gown, with a corsage of white flowers.

Following the dinner Lawrence Turcotte, D.J., provided music for a dance held in the Madoc Legion Hall.

The happy couple spent a honeymoon in Prince Edward Island and are now residing in Apt. no. 2, 130 Queen St., Cobourg, Ont.

Out-of town guests were present from: Saskatchewan, P.E.I., Port Colborne,

Lawn Bowling Club tournament

The Madoc Lawn Bowling Club held a very successful tournament at the Belleville Bowling Club on Saturday, September 8, 1979. We had twenty-two entries from Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Colborne and Madoc. The three game winners were Mr. Rodway, Mrs. Schilroth and Mr. Elliott and the two game winner was Mr. Moses, with the high one game winner going to Mr. Caverley.

It was a beautiful day and we would like to thank the Belleville members for their help in organizing this successful tournament.

A special thanks to the ladies of the Madoc club for the delicious dinner.

IN BRIEF:

MARMORA THE HERALD

Most of us prefer to hold on to what little we've got left of the warm weather and not think of snow until we have to. However, some people in town - principally Randy Vilneff, this year's Marmora Cup Canadian Long Distance Sled Dog Championship Race Chairman (whew!) - are already focused on mid-February. Vilneff has his hands full because, although the race looks like a sure success, Snofest '80, the events surrounding the race, need overhauling.

The recreation committee, responding to the village's request for more specific plans for Booster Park, has suggested four alternatives. All will require the removal of the trailers so the village will be asked Tuesday evening to vote for the removal - something it refused to do a week ago.

The Marmora Open was held this past week. The first tennis event in Marmora for quite a while, it drew eight men's doubles teams, three women's and a lot of enthusiasm. Darryl McInroy and Ralph Keynolds, Ann Philpot and Donna Bennett, all of Marmora are the reigning champs.

Marmora night school holds registration this Friday night and residents are being offered 27 courses - more than three times last year's selection. Since a course needs eight people to get underway, people are urged to come out and support the program.

Finally, Marmora has two new residents of special interest - John Miller is the new junior school principal and the Reverend Clyde Westhaver takes over duties as United Church Minister. They're interviewed in this week's issue.

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

The Norwood and District Chamber of Commerce held their September meeting last Monday evening. Top on the agenda for discussion was the Farmers' Market in Norwood, a new project for the Chamber. Although the revenue from the stalls did not meet the weekly expenses, the Chamber classed their project as being worthwhile. Gardeners will be asked next spring to plant more vegetables to be sold at next year's market.

A fashion show held last Wednesday evening in the town hall attracted some 180 people. The show was presented by the 40 Northumberland chapter IODE and costumes were from the Pink Lady Shoppe in Hastings. The lovely eleven girls who modelled were IODE members and family relatives.

October 6th marks the opening day of the Norwood Fair. The Saturday has been dedicated to the kids in honour of the International Year of the Child. A highlight of the day features a parade through the streets of Norwood ending up in the fairground. Special guests on Monday evening will be the Schryer Family, a musical group with triplets, each one playing the fiddle.

HASTINGS THE STAR

Hastings is still preparing for the arrival of two possible refugee families. Immigration officials have accepted the village as a sponsor provided the refugees are accepted and can be brought over. Unfortunately Hastings has not been provided with any additional information.

Asphodel Township council held a regular meeting in Westwood on September 10th. The township finds itself in the same position as the townships of Belmont and Methuen with regard to the new assessment equalization factors for 1980. The council will be sending the Minister of Revenue its resolution.

Roseneath will be celebrating its autumn fair in just a few short weeks. Highlights of the event include an appearance by the O.P.P. Golden Helmets along with a Woodsman Competition.

HAUELOCK THE CITIZEN

The old Havelock public school which has been converted into an apartment building has a new owner who intends to have units ready for occupancy by October 1st. The former schoolhouse was ready to receive tenants early this year but the then Toronto owners ran into money difficulties and the place was taken over by the mortgagees. Terry Rye, a former Westwood and Norwood man now living in Peterborough has purchased the building for Rycourt Holdings Inc. of which he is the president, and he is now working on finishing the units.

The IMC Corporation at Blue Mountain north of Havelock has announced a restructuring of its industrial minerals facility there. As part of this decision some changes in the responsibilities of the personnel have been made. The various appointments are listed in this week's Citizen.

Some of Havelock's residents have returned to the village after experiencing interesting summers in other places. One

Saturday evening about 10:15 p.m. Gordon R. Beckford of Rolphston, Ontario, was driving his 1979 GMC 4-wheel drive half-ton pickup on county road no. 3 towards the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beckford, R.R. 1, Havelock. About 5 miles north of Marmora he met an oncoming car. After it had passed, a such person is Mrs. Mary Mann who tells of conditions at Pickle Lake where she worked for the Ministry of Natural Resources cooking for 30 firefighters. She is also involved with a new mission being built in the area by the Pentecostal Church as an education centre for the Indians of the New Oseneburg Reserve. Other workers on the mission were Gordon and Jane Lewis and son Derek, formerly of Havelock but now of Peterborough, and Mrs. Mann's daughter Sandra and son Leslie.

We take a look this week at yet another new family in the area. Morley and Karin Barker took over Pine Ridge Restaurant south of Havelock last April and report a busy summer. Morley is a former Metropolitan Toronto Hockey Association coach and he hopes to get involved with Minor Hockey this winter if he can find enough free time.

MADOC THE REVIEW

Several breakins occurred on Thursday evening in Madoc and, although the thieves hit the Cash and Carry store, Pinto, the high school and the public school, they got very little money for their efforts. The damage mounted into the thousands of dollars and at last word, the investigation was continuing.

The Hastings-Peterborough Liberal Association held their annual meeting in Madoc this week and had some very interesting things to say about the present Ontario government and about the Liberal Party's chances of forming a minority government after the next election, which they predict will be in the spring. Ron Vastokas was appointed president of the association, much to the delight of the members. Julian Reed, the Ontario Liberal energy critic and Charles Bates, the executive director of the Ontario Liberal Party, attended the meeting.

Madoc continues to attract new businesses and organizations. The "Olde Bake Shop" held its grand opening on Friday at Kramp's Variety Store. Daryl Kramp, the owner of the store, was very happy with the turnout and felt that if this trend continued, he would soon be hiring some new employees to handle the work load.

In addition to the new bake shop, Dixie Lee of Canada Ltd. is hoping that their new quarter-horse belonging to Wilbur Havelock, started across the highway and was struck. The truck had been fitted with a heavy grill guard and a bumper which protected Mr. Beckford and his passenger, John Putnam, from injury but the horse was killed and the truck badly damaged in the front end.

fast food outlet will open in Madoc around the end of September or the beginning of October.

Several people in Madoc and the surrounding area are trying to start a Historical Society to "preserve our heritage." These people have planned two meetings for the 26th of September and the 24th of October, but they must get support from the area if they are to be successful.

The Madoc Fair takes place on Sept. 21st, 22 and the 23rd and promises entertainment and variety for each and every person who attends.

Wanted - eliminated. This culprit is responsible for the suffering of 1000s of people at this time of year when it flings a fine pollen into the air which travels for miles. Those allergic to the weed, and they are legion, experience hay fever and asthma when the pollen is inhaled. Known as ragweed, it is the worst offender of the fall air-borne pollen bearers. Sufferers would like it pulled out by the roots on sight.

CONSUMER BEAT

As energy costs continue to climb, more and more Canadians are looking for ways to stop their heating bills from doing the same thing. Aside from turning down the thermostat and making sure the furnace is properly maintained, one of the best solutions is insulation.

Studies have already demonstrated the energy-saving possibilities of insulation; what you save in fuel bills will depend, of course, on the type of house and existing insulation, among other factors.

Yet, in reinsulated homes, savings to consumers have been as high as 25 percent, sometimes more. In short, insulation quickly pays for itself through energy cost savings. After that, it's money in the bank.

So, when the threat of another cold winter arrives, do-it-yourselfers start sizing up the job while others begin searching for a qualified contractor. In either case, a little prior knowledge will ensure that the insulation materials used are as effective as possible.

Check the "R" Value
Thickness is not the only factor in determining the effectiveness of insulation. Materials that are good for insulating purposes are poor at conducting heat. To provide a standard of comparison for insulation materials, "R" value is used to measure resistance to heat transfer.

Tests are conducted on insulation materials to determine the degree to which they allow heat to pass through. The materials are then assigned an "R" number according to effectiveness. The higher the R-value per inch of insulation, the more effective the material is in resisting the escape of heat.

If your attic ceiling has no insulation, and you want an R-value of R-28, you need eight one-inch batts of insulation with an R-value of 3.5 per inch. If you buy two-inch batts stamped "R-7", the R-value per inch of that insulation is 3.5.

The building code branch of the ministry of consumer and commercial relations recommends that you upgrade ceiling insulation to R-28, walls to R-12 except solid masonry walls, the basement walls to R-8 if less than 50 percent of the wall is above the ground; if more than 50 percent is above ground, R-12 is recommended. Cathedral ceilings, floors over unheated

Types of Insulation

Insulation has come a long way since the days when newspaper, sawdust or woodshavings were used. You should be familiar with the most common types:

- loose fill insulation includes glass fibre, mineral fibre and vermiculite. Some of these, such as glass and mineral fibre, may be blown as well as poured. The R-value per inch varies from 2.1 to 3.6 depending on the type and insulation method.

- batt or blanket insulation is generally made from glass or mineral fibre. Batts are available in different widths and thicknesses. Batts with a moisture-resistant covering on one side to act as a vapor barrier are also manufactured. The R-value per inch varies from 2.9 to 4.0 according to the type. The total R-value of the batt depends on the thickness.

- rigid board insulation includes extruded polystyrene slabs. Although the R-value of these synthetic products is rated at 3.4 to 6.0 per inch, great care must be taken to ensure that they are properly installed. Otherwise they could create a severe fire hazard.

- Rigid board and foam insulation must not be left exposed. They must be covered with an interior wall or ceiling finish acceptable to the Ontario building code, such as gypsum board, gypsum lath, fibreboard, plywood, particleboard or wall tile.

- foamed insulation materials, urea-formaldehyde and polyurethane foam (flammable), are relatively new products that must be installed by professionals, since complex equipment is used. Improper installation could cause serious damage to your home. The R-value for foamed insulation ranges from 2.5 to 2.8 per inch. The foam is blown into existing cavities and hardens almost immediately. In solid masonry homes, existing cavities in the wall may be too small to effectively reinsulate through this method.

When choosing the type of insulation most suitable for your needs, consider water resistance, bacteria and vermin resistance, cost, ease of application, rigidity and flexibility.

Remember, there are 120 acceptable types of insulation; you should be able to find one that suits your specific needs.

Get the Facts

Of course, there's more to insulation than simply choosing the right material for the job. The ministry of consumer and commercial relations has published an information sheet entitled "Insulation: heat in your home, money in your pocket", available through its Consumer Information Centre at 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6.

Use this information and find out all you can before the job begins. Insulation has certainly proven effective. But whether you do it yourself or hire a contractor, investigate before you invest.

Hastings - Peterborough Liberals elect executive: gear up for Provincial election this spring

Julian Reed, the Ontario Liberal Energy Critic, who spoke to the annual meeting of the Hastings-Peterborough Liberal Association in Madoc, on September 12th, feels that the western world is very vulnerable as far as energy is concerned and, in Ontario's case, he laid the blame for this situation directly on the doorstep of Premier Bill Davis and his provincial government. "We have a 50 per cent surplus of electric power in Ontario today and the main reason for this is that the Ontario Conservatives have no real grasp of the priorities necessary to make us self sufficient," which Mr. Reed claims could be possible in 30 years.

Charles Bates, the executive director of the Ontario Liberal Party, also attended the meeting and warned the Hastings-Peterborough Liberals to expect a provincial election next spring. Mr. Bates was optimistic that the Liberals could form the next government and felt that the Hastings-Peterborough riding was an excellent example of how the Liberal fortunes had slowly been changing in Ontario over the past few years. He predicted a minority Liberal government after the next election.

According to Mr. Bates, the Liberal fortunes have been rising at the expense of the two other parties. "The N.D.P. party is missing the leadership of Stephen Lewis and therefore, they haven't been able to move the party at all." The Conservative party was faced with the retirement of 15 to 20 sitting members in the next election and, because the Liberals have been running second to the Conservatives in all of these ridings, he felt that the Liberals had the best chance in over 30 years of forming the government.

His optimism is based partly on what the Liberal party did in the last election and what they have done since that time. "Never before has a political party come up 20 percentage points in an election and now that we have some very bright and ambitious young people working for our party, we find ourselves in the position of gaining the confidence of the people for the first time." He added that the Hastings-Peterborough Liberals could and would win this riding. "In the past, we have brought it to a two party system and have started a minor revolution," which he felt would result in victory for the Liberals this time.

Dave Hobson, the Liberal candidate who has contested this riding unsuccessfully in the past, also felt that winning this riding was within their grasp and he intends to contest the nomination for the Liberals. "We were slightly over 1,800 votes away from the Conservatives in the last election which means that they got 48 per cent of the vote and we got 40 per cent. In that election, we in Hastings-Peterborough ran 3 per cent ahead of the provincial party in spite of Stuart Smith, who might have been a detriment to us but who now becomes a very positive aspect for the Liberals. We need a bit of a swing, and I think we will get it on the basis of our issues and policies. The federal election was very anti-Trudeau but I think that if we get our act together and make a determined effort, we can win this riding."

Mr. Reed, in his role as guest speaker at the meeting, stressed renewable resources while stating that the energy crunch would come... "at the furnaces and gas pumps." He felt that many of the so called experts were stressing methods of obtaining our energy elsewhere, while missing a very important part of our energy future, namely the conservation of the energy that we already have.

Mr. Reed felt that Ontario now had everything it needs to become energy self-sufficient and that they should be looking to renewable resources such as hydro, solar, wind and space technologies for power-harnessing and to the extraction of alcohol from wood as a gasoline alternative. "But, to make this work, the people of the province need the proper information on the topics and, to this point, they haven't been getting it. Our present government believes renewable resources will only contribute 2 per cent of the province's energy needs by the end of the century and, if they stay in power any longer, they're absolutely right. "It's an opportunity being missed by the assembly of the greatest talent in North America. We've got the skills and the resources to enter into this new age."

The reason for the meeting in Madoc was to elect the new officers for the association. Several local people were elected to the executive but the most pleasing of these to the party liberals was the election of Mr. Ron Vastokas, of Queensboro, as the president. Dave Hobson was delighted that Mr. Vastokas was elected president, feeling that he was well respected and that he couldn't help but be positive for the Liberals in Hastings-Peterborough. "He has a tremendous capacity to work and we will certainly make them (the Conservatives) work harder."

Mr. Vastokas pointed to several objectives of the Liberal party that he felt would help them win the election. At the top of the list was the strengthening of the organization, which would be done through a membership drive and a fund raising campaign. "We also need to make the electorate fully aware of the potential of the Liberal policies and we need a strong machine behind our candidate."

Also named to the executive were: Mike Quinn of Madoc, Executive Vice-President; Gary Jackson of Havelock as 1st Vice-President; Ian Connery of Madoc as 2nd Vice-President; Bev Reid of Thurlow as vice-president for women; Hugh McMurray of Bancroft as vice-president for youth; Doris Boylan of St. Ola as corresponding secretary; Isabel Stinson of Havelock as the treasurer and Anne Drac as membership secretary, which Mr. Vastokas felt was one of the best executives that they have ever had.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

BY BOB TROTTER

Food prices aren't high

Nobody is going to believe me but I'm going to say it anyway: Food is still a bargain in Canada.

Before every homemaker in the audience loads a shotgun, let me explain.

The Fraser Institute of Vancouver has published a book with enough statistics to boggle my unmathematical brain. It is an independent economic and social research educational institution with no special axe to grind.

The book, Tax Facts, has the figures to prove that food costs across Canada have not increased as much as other sectors of the economy. Which isn't to say that food prices have not increased, mind you. They have, but not as much as most people think.

It is in other areas that the tax-paying public is being milked. For instance, the consumer tax index tracks the tax bill faced by the average Canadian family from 1961 to 1978. The index includes collections at the federal, provincial and municipal level along with all the hidden taxes paid on so many products.

It includes income tax, property tax, oil and gas tax, liquor tax, sales tax, motor vehicle tax, amusement tax and all other taxes. This consumer-tax index, then increased 302 per cent between 1961 and 1978.

The cost of shelter increased 255 per cent since 1961. Clothing costs increased 200 per cent.

But food costs increased only 172 per cent.

Why is it that everybody screams so hard and long about the cost of food when everything else increased by a greater percentage? Because food is so visible. We all have to eat and food shopping is done so regularly that the increases are noted weekly.

Income and property taxes, for instance, don't get paid every week. The tax bite on income comes only once a year. The property tax bill comes only three or four times a year. We don't buy clothing every week, either.

What should be noted, too, by the harassed housewife is that what comes out of the supermarket is not all food. The grocery carts are filled with other items that cannot be included in the food bill such as cat food, dog food, soft drinks, toilet paper, facial tissue, hardware, glassware, cigarettes, soap, detergent, candy and anything else that the modern supermarket entices us to buy.

Supermarkets in Ontario, at least, are in one of the most competitive situations of any business. The big chains are fighting to maintain or increase their share of the market. A wise shopper can save money by checking the specials and stocking up on them.

The top men in these chains have been understandably reluctant to reveal too much about their profits at the provincial inquiry into discounts and allowances. It is a good guess, though, that many chains work on a net profit of about three per cent on some items. Which is not a ripoff.

Canadians spend less than 20 cents of their disposable income dollar on food, a record second only to that of the United States. In many parts of the world every moment and every resource is spent on trying to fill an empty stomach.

We are fortunate in this country. We worry about getting gasoline for a second car. Billions of people worry about filling an aching gut. They don't even have a first car to fill. In fact, they would be happy to live in our garages.

Food, then, is still a bargain. That consumer tax index is something else, though. I wish I could convince myself that our tax dollars are being spent wisely and well. Taxes have increased a whopping 302 per cent. Add to that the deficit just at the federal level and you wonder where this country is going.

Sir Sandford Fleming Natural Resources Symposium III

Some of Canada's most influential names in government, industry, the public service, and consumer interest areas, will meet at Sir Sandford Fleming College of Applied Arts and Technology Frost Campus in Lindsay Nov. 6-8 to discuss the impact technology is having on Canada's water resources.

The two-day meeting, called Symposium III - Water, is the third symposium on natural resources to be sponsored by the College since 1977.

Designed to encourage an interchange of ideas and information among the leaders of natural resources management fields, Symposium III will explore questions such as the effects of acid rain in our water resources, pollution in the Great Lakes, water quality measurement standards, municipal waste management, water policy in northern areas, the roles of the federal and provincial governments, and how the public should see its role in the water resources management debate.

Among this year's anticipated guests are the Honorable Harry Parrott, Minister of the Environment for the Province of Ontario, who will participate in a question and answer panel discussion; Liberal MPP and Environmental Critic Murray Gaunt; former federal Environment Minister Jack Davis, who will discuss the role of the federal government in water management; and Texas Gulf Engineering Manager Merle Marshall, looking at industrial demands and responsibilities.

Other expected guests are: Controversial author and senior biologist Jack Vallentyne of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters, who will discuss the "feedback society".

Environmentalist Patrick McTaggart-Cowan, who directed the clean-up operations following the Arrow oil tanker wreck at Chedabucto Bay, Nova Scotia, in 1971.

Wayne Bryant, Director of the Environmental Protection Services, North-West Territories, discussing municipal waste management and water policies in the North-West Territories.

Pollution Probe Researcher Director Ann Wordsworth on how the public should view its role in water management.

Norman Yan and Ken Nicholls of the Ontario Ministry of the Environment, who will detail two reports on acid rain.

Grant Anderson of Gartner-Lee Associates on municipal waste management and landfill.

Mike Whittle, Canada Centre for Inland Waters, on the forgotten pollutants in our water resources.

Joe Leach, Limnologist with the Fisheries Research Branch of the Ministry of Natural Resources on pollution in the Great Lakes, and its effect on water quality.

John McLeod of the University of British Columbia on the forest industry and the effect on water resources of the spruce budworm spraying program in New Brunswick.

Queen's University geographer Ed Ongley will give an overview of water in Canada.

Peter Carruthers, Ministry of Culture and Recreation, on the historical development of Central Ontario.

Representatives from Ontario Hydro and some of Canada's largest pulp and paper firms are also expected to present position papers at the Symposium.

questions from the floor will be invited.

"There's no doubt that water resources management is one of the major environmental issues facing us today," Frost Campus Instructor Steve Watts says. "The Symposium will give our students an opportunity to learn more about current issues concerning our water resources from leading authorities in the field."

The program begins with a reception at 7 p.m., Nov. 6. Sir Sandford President David Sutherland will officially open the Symposium with an address at 9 a.m., Nov. 7.

Registration fee for the two-day event is $90. The public will be invited to view the discussions through closed circuit television at the Frost Campus or on the Lindsay cable television station.

Polar Bear Park under review

Policy direction to be spelled out in a master plan for Polar Bear Provincial Park will be strongly influenced by public opinion gathered by Ministry of Natural Resources park planners.

The emphasis during future planning at Polar Bear Provincial Park will be to protect the park's significant natural and cultural resources.

Polar Bear Provincial Park, on the remote shores of Hudson and James Bay, was established in 1970 as Ontario's first wilderness park. Twenty-four thousand square kilometres in size, it is one of the world's largest.

The new park document, Polar Bear Provincial Park Public Participation-A Summary of Comments-is being offered to the public without charge. It also includes the ministry's response to the various suggestions and recommendations.

The summary of comments from Ontario residents is part of the park's overall master planning program. The response has persuaded the ministry to change some of the suggestions made in an earlier publication-Polar Bear Provincial Park Planning Proposal; the park master plan, to be released later next year, will incorporate many of the ideas and suggestions mentioned in the summary.

The summary was compiled from written submissions and verbal comments from the public at Moose Factory, Moosonee and Toronto information centres of the park. The comments were also made at ministry meetings with representatives of the Indian Bands at Attawapiskat, Fort Severn and Winisk who are most directly affected by the park.

The park provides habitat for polar bear, arctic fox and caribou. Snow geese, arctic loon and willow ptarmigan rarely nest anywhere else in the province.

Early Cree traditions are reflected in the park's cultural landscape and the explorer-fur trader era is signified by several historic areas within its boundaries.

Copies of the publication are available from the Ministry of Natural Resources, Northern Region, Box 3000, 140 Fourth Avenue, Cochrane, Ontario P0L 1C0 and the Parks and Recreational Areas Branch, Third Floor, Whitney Block, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1W3.

BY RON REID

As you whizz along 401 east of Oshawa you catch a glint of reflected sunlight from a marsh stretching down towards Lake Ontario. On country roads near Guelph, you pass through the shadowy arches of soft maple and admire the green profusion of the crowded ferns below. Amongst the flat cornfields near Lake St. Clair, you find tattered pockets of cattails.

All these are threatened wetlands - one of Ontario's most underrated resources. Since the time of first settlement, we have been draining, filling and dredging wetlands, with the result that 60-75 percent of southern Ontario's original wetland acreage has been lost. Their destruction continues, but the Federation of Ontario Naturalists is urging that we take a second look at their value.

A marsh could be described as an oasis of life. Wetlands are among the most productive ecosystems in the world. A freshwater swamp or marsh can produce an average of 2000 grams of growing plants per square meter each year. Compare that figure with lakes and streams at 500, and agricultural land at about 650.

That productivity shows itself in the number and diversity of wetland wildlife. Millions of mosquitoes, yes, but also millions of other predatory insects and birds that help keep the mosquito population in balance. All of Ontario's waterfowl rely on wetlands for their habitat, as do dozens of other species of birds. Frogs, toads, and other amphibians, all insect-eaters, also depend on wetlands. Most of southern Ontario's mammals, from muskrat to white-tail deer, use wetlands during at least part of the year.

No wonder a prominent Ontario biologist could proclaim: "Wildlife and wetlands in southern Ontario are almost synonymous. Without wetlands, the diversity and numbers of wildlife that we have today simply could not exist."

The water-holding capacity of wetlands is also important. Because their peaty soils act like a giant sponge, wetlands can store flood waters and gradually release them later in the season, thus reducing the damaging effects of floods and maintaining summer flows in streams. Some wetlands allow stored waters to percolate downwards into the ground water, assuring a steady supply to neighbouring wells.

The value of wetlands in protecting waters and wildlife is often overlooked because it is provided free of charge, and assigning a price tag is difficult. But some other functions have been evaluated on a dollar basis, and I'll explore those next week.

Chimney sweeping - an old tradition in a new era

As we near the end of September, we are beginning to see signs of the oncoming winter. The nights are getting very cold, the leaves on the trees are starting to turn colours and most people are beginning to think about getting out their winter clothing and getting the snowmobile in shape for another winter. Bill Willemssen, of the Windmill Restaurant, had two chimney sweeps cleaning his chimney.

To me, a young whipper snapper who has grown up in the age of electricity where you just have to turn up the thermostat to get heat, the sight of two men in tails and a top hat cleaning a chimney is a sight that amazes me. The proud profession of chimney sweeping has come to us from England and other European countries and is now reviving in Canada since the price of electricity and heating oils have risen to astronomical figures. More and more people are beginning to rely on wood as a means of keeping their winter heating bills down and thus the return of the chimney sweep.

These particular chimney sweeps were Bob Paget and Hans Tronick, who operate the Traditional Chimney Sweep business in and around the Madoc area. Hans lives just north of Madoc while Bob lives in Tweed. They serve an area of about a 30-40 mile radius of Madoc and include in their territory such places as Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Kaladar and of course, Madoc, Marmora and Tweed. They have been in the business since March of 1979 and entered the business when Bob's chimney needed cleaning and they couldn't find anyone to do the job. They ended up doing it themselves and, when they found that other people needed the same service, they decided to approach it as a business.

Hans Tronick looks on from the roof of the Windmill Restaurant as Bob Paget begins cleaning the chimney. Local

However, as they soon found out, the chimney sweep business is not just a matter of saying, "We're going to clean chimneys." This is a very specialized business and good equipment is essential. The brushes used to clean chimneys must meet very exacting standards and they were able to find what they needed from a company in Toronto who deal in equipment for oil burners, fire places and chimney supplies. The brushes are so important because they have to be pliable enough to brush the chimneys and not scrape them clean or else they will do more damage to the chimney than good. If they are too stiff, they could damage the lining of the chimney and, in Bob's words, "Then you've really got problems." They now have a range of 15-20 brushes and, if they go to a site and still don't have the proper brush, they will order it custom made.

After you have the brushes, another problem is how you get them in and out of the chimney. Some chimney sweeps use rods that you can attach together, while Hans and Bob use a cable that is stiff enough to push the brush through the chimney but that also turns the brush and does a better job of cleaning. They say the average chimney is about thirty feet tall and they now have enough extensions to do a fifty foot chimney.

To complete the equipment, you need a large, industrial vacuum cleaner, a ladder and several ropes and safety harnesses. Now, all you need is people with dirty chimneys and there are more and more of them each year.

This time of the year is their busiest because it is the best time to clean chimneys and is also the time when people are starting to use them and notice that they are not getting the heating efficiency that they got last year. "People really have to be re-educated about burning wood because many of them do not realize the danger involved in burning green wood." Dry hardwoods will not contribute to creosote buildup but green wood and softwoods will. To their surprise, the volunteer fire departments in the area have been very happy to see the business starting to flourish again. Bob and Hans advise that chimneys should at least be checked once a year and then cleaned if necessary. They also find that people with furnaces think their chimneys don't have to be cleaned but this is not so. They should be checked and cleaned periodically and especially if you have a combination furnace. They also advise chimney caps to keep birds and small animals from nesting in the chimneys.

Another hazard that Bob and Hans warn about are stove pipes. Many people have their chimneys cleaned and forget about the pipes. When pipes become old, they become susceptible to very small holes that can also be very dangerous, and if not caught early, they can grow into big holes. "The unfortunate thing about human nature is that something critical normally has to happen to people or friends to make them realize the danger."

What does it cost to have a chimney cleaned? The average two or three storey chimney would cost $40 providing it is not a problem chimney. By a problem chimney, they mean one that is not about to fall down or that has been neglected for so long that it will take a great deal of extra time to clean. Both men have been asked to clean chimneys that actually swayed when they got on top of them and they add that they will not clean a chimney if they think it is not safe. They will try to repair chimneys that are unsafe but they feel they are not doing their job if they clean a chimney that could fall at any time, especially if it falls when they are on it. When repairing a chimney, they are not paid by the hour, but give an estimated price of what the job will cost before the work is done.

They remind people that this is the time of year to do this chore but, if winter comes before people realize their chimney is dirty, the job can be done from the inside. If you would like to talk to Hans or Bob about checking or cleaning your chimney, you can contact them at 473-2244. Don't be one of those people who have to learn the hard way that chimneys do need cleaning and maintenance.

DID YOU KNOW? - That in England it was considered good luck to shake a chimney sweep's hand and, in fact, chimney sweeps were considered such good luck that they were often invited to attend weddings in their top hats and tails.

Senior volleyballers show their mettle, gain semis in own tournament

The senior boys volleyball team got their first taste of good, stiff competition over the weekend and, although they didn't win their own tournament, they proved that they will be tough in their league. The senior Centurions started out like they were going to sweep the tournament. They racked up six successive wins against Merivale of Ottawa, Donevan of Oshawa and Brighton before losing two tough games to Saunders of London and then dropping two more games to Fenelon Falls. That ended the scheduled tournament play and left the seniors in third place.

Before we go into the playoffs, let's go back and take a look at the other team from Centre Hastings that also played in the tournament, the CHSS Oldtimers. They also got off to a good start when they took two games from Crestwood of Peterborough and two games from Cloyne. They then came up against David and Mary Thompson of Scarborough and lost two lopsided games. Their next competition was Pickering, with the Oldtimers winning one of the two games. The Oldtimers then defeated Centennial twice to finish second in their pool with a 7-3 won-loss record. Saunders won pool "B" while David and Mary Thompson won pool "A", and got a by into the semi-finals.

In the quarter-finals, Crestwood was defeated by Pickering and in the other match, the CHSS seniors met the CHSS Oldtimers. This match drew a large crowd of spectators and, while not the best match of the day, it was at least the most entertaining, with the senior defeating the weary oldtimers in two games.

The semi-finals saw two of the best matches of the day, as David and Mary Thompson defeated Pickering in two straight games while Saunders was extended to three games by the CHSS Seniors. The Saunders-CHSS game was the best match of the tournament as both teams found it very difficult to establish superiority over the other. CHSS fought back from a 12-7 deficit to win the first game but were then defeated in the next two games. Each of the three games was close and very, very tough and you knew that each team was thinking of David and Mary Thompson sitting on the sideline resting while Saunders and CHSS fought out the third game.

In the finals, the battle between CHSS and Saunders may have taken too much out of Saunders, although it was generally conceded that David and Mary Thompson were going to be tough to beat. In the end, Thompson swept the first two games from Saunders to win the tournament.

Coach Berry wasn't happy that his team was defeated by Saunders but at least he knew that they can compete against the team and they will be tough in their league. When asked about his comments on the Saunders-CHSS game, coach Berry replied, "It's games like that that give me grey hair."

The senior boys volleyball team ran into some very stiff competition at their tournament on Saturday. The team was led by Tom Lawrence, both offensively and defensively and, while not able to get past the semi-finals, they did manage to defeat some good teams, including the CHSS Oldtimers. The match between the two CHSS teams was a real crowd pleaser but the younger seniors finally proved too much for the older and leg-weary Oldtimers.

David and Mary Thompson, of Scarborough, eventually emerged victorious at the tournament.

Centre Hastings Children's Services Committee will compile directory

The Centre Hastings Children's Services Committee decided at its meeting September 11, to compile a catalogue of services in the area.

This will consist of identifying available services in the social, sports, health and other fields, for the Marmora-Madoc-Tweed-Stirling area.

Anyone who can help should contact Audrey Devolin (473-4376) in the Madoc area, Principal Charles Mowat of the Marmora Senior School in the Marmora area. The Children's Services Committee is a regional group which reports to the Hastings-Prince Edward Children's Services Committee, whose job is to facilitate the transfer of the responsibility of meeting children's needs from provincial to county or regional levels. The committee is funded by the provincial government. Next Centre Hastings meeting is on Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. at the staff room of the Marmora Senior School.

Weekend weather a pleasant surprise to fair board

The Madoc Fair got an added boost this year when they got ideal fair weather for the three days that the fair was on. On Friday evening, the weatherman had them worrying when he forecasted possible showers for the evening and Saturday but, as anyone can tell you who attended the fair for the three days, the weather was just perfect!

And people took advantage of the nice weather to come out in what many people think might be record numbers. It started on Friday night when one of the largest crowds ever, came out to watch the horse draws. Francis Tobin, the secretary, was very pleased and surprised when the gate receipts came in. "When you get nice weather like this, the crowd itself is very deceiving. They will be spread out over many different locations and you have to walk around to realize just how many people are here."

On Saturday, the fairboard was again smiling in delight as they saw people begin to stream in early in the day and very soon have the grounds packed. All of the displays and different competitions were very successful and kept the crowds moving just to try and see them all.

On Sunday, the crowds did not appear to reach the numbers of the day before but the turnout was still large and again, very hard to judge. On this day, if you stood on the hill where the secretary's office is located, you could actually see large crowds at the many different competitions. It was hard to pick which area drew the largest crowd although the arena and the baby specifically, did draw many people. Twenty-six babies were entered in the contest, which saw Amy Marie Scrutton emerge as the champion girl baby and Adam Saptola got the trophy as the champion boy. The judges admitted that the contest was very difficult to judge because there were so many very healthy and attractive babies in the area. The show was a definite success and the organizers look forward to a whole new crop of babies next year.

In Vostok, Antarctica, the temperature fell to -127°F on August 24, 1960.

Adam Spatola - Champion Boy baby at the fair and the proud parents.

The sponsors in the Madoc area have not yet received the names of the Vietnamese family that they will be sponsoring, but they have been warned that it could be any time now and that they should be prepared to receive the family two weeks after they are given the names.

Mr. and Mrs. Veerman have been working on the apartment in their house, getting the plumbing and heating installed in the apartment plus various other fixtures and essentials for everyday living. They want to be prepared for the arrival of the family as much as possible so that they can give the family some privacy when they arrive. The Department of Immigration is presently searching the refugee camps for the family that will be coming to Madoc and they have advised the sponsors that they must be prepared for the family to arrive as early as 14 days after they receive the names.

Mrs. Veerman told the Review that she was expecting to receive the names sometime this week and, although they expect the apartment to be ready for them to move into when they arrive, there are some things that could be donated at this time. Clothing would not be appropriate because they don't know the sizes for the family yet, but rugs, carpets, towels, face cloths and most cooking utensils will be required by the family and could be donated now. Once the names and sizes of the family have been obtained, winter clothing will be urgently required as the Vietnamese are not used to coping with the cold weather that Canada is noted for. If you have any of these items that you no longer need and would like to give them to this family, you can do so by contacting Mrs. Veerman at 473-4507.

Mr. Veerman works on the interior of the apartment in preparation for the arrival of the Vietnamese family, which could be within the next two or three weeks.

Madoc W.I.

The September meeting was held on the 14th at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Gates. The dreary wet weather did not deter any of those interested from attending. There were 24 members and 7 guests, of whom 2 were "wee guests", Miss Erin Sexsmith and Master Brian Phillips. The roll call "Something New on the Market", was answered by all.

The minutes were approved as read, and the financial statement was given by Miss Ada Adams. Communications were read, with an invitation from Harts Riggs W.I. to attend a meeting at the Township School, September 18th. Five members from Madoc attended.

The Lakefield Area Convention is to be held Oct. 17th and 18th. A training school for crewel, headed by Valerie Clark, will be held in Madoc Oct. 23rd and 24th. There were no reports from the standing committees. A report on visits to the Madoc Manor and Retirement Home was given by Mrs. Viola Wannamaker. Last minute preparations for opening the W.I. booth at the fair were finalized, and a display of "Old-fashioned Toys" is to be presented for public viewing. Bills were paid, and a collection taken.

Today's guest speaker was Miss Charleen French, of Centre Hastings Retraining Center, and was introduced by Mrs. Mary Moorcroft. Her address was on Handicapped People, and Miss French brought along some very fine samples of their handicrafts. It was a very enjoyable program. Mrs. Alma Winslow thanked our guest and presented her with a token of appreciation.

The auction of produce followed, and believe me, we all look forward to it. Miss Ada Adams excels in her qualities as an auctioneer. Mrs. Keitha Parkes thanked our guest, hostess and co-hostesses, and everyone who helped in any way to make this meeting a success.

The meeting closed with "O Canada" and an enjoyable lunch was served by Mrs. Myrtle Gates and co-hostesses, Miss Loreen Connor and Mrs. Anna Carman. By Alma Winslow, P.R.

Bombay Bicycle Club meeting

The Hastings County Chapter of the "Bombay Bicycle Club" held its first meeting of the fall season in Madoc on Friday evening with all the members present. It was encouraging to see the members after the long and eventful summer. A heated discussion on bicycle parts, namely wobbly sprockets and inferior rubber goods brought a motion from the members that a letter of complaint be sent to the manufacturers. A further motion that no new applications for membership to the "Bombay Bicycle Club" be accepted until 1980, will be voted on at our next meeting. All members are encouraged to attend as we expect to have a mystery speaker.

Today's farmer is following in the great tradition of men who have worked the land in Canada for generations.

He believes that farming, in spite of its hardships and disappointments, is one of the most honest and honorable ways a man can spend his days on this earth.

He rejoices at the sight of his land greening in the spring.

He knows true happiness as he watches his crops ripen in the fields and sees his children grow tall in the sun.

And today's farmer still gets deep satisfaction from his friendships with his neighbours. Help is freely given and freely accepted.

They co-operate.

So it was natural that out of this tradition the Co-operative movement was born.

When farmers found they couldn't get the things they needed... from existing sources, they got together and formed their own organizations to purchase and distribute them... and to market what they produced.

Today's farmer feeds about 80 Canadians, instead of the 8 he fed 50 years ago, because of modern technology, improved farm management, new products and services... and personal initiative.

The Co-operative movement was born of the same initiative and foresight. Now, more than 65 years later, United Co-operatives of Ontario is still proud to be a continuing part of this development through facilities, services and a sense of caring that benefits the farmer... and ultimately the whole community.

Today's farmer feeds 80 Canadians

Juniors, Seniors rom

Several exhibition games were played by Centurion teams this week and, although it was thought that these games would give some indication of how good these teams would be, the coaches are still not convinced that this is so. The teams all won their games but the competition was not as good as the coaches had hoped for (or their teams were better than they expected), which has led most of the coaches to remark that they will have to wait and see what the competition within their respective leagues is going to be like.

The junior and senior football teams had a relatively easy time with the teams from Campbellford but both coaches, Bob Mounds and Barry Pyear, felt that their teams would be forced to play much better if they expected to win within their leagues.

The junior team looked like they had gotten themselves in trouble early in their game when Campbellford recovered a fumble on the Centurion eight yard line. However, the Centurion defense got tough and held Campbellford off the score board and, as soon as the offense got the ball again, they used an end sweep very effectively to go from their own fifteen yard line into Campbellford's end zone. By the end of the half, the Centurions were leading 12-0 and were basically controlling the game.

In the second half, they again came out and scored two touchdowns to take a 26-0 lead before Campbellford managed to score two touchdowns to end the game. Although the team appeared to be the masters of game, coach Pyear was not happy with their performance. "We didn't execute very well against that team and we will have to play much better than that in our own league. We scored a few touchdowns, but we gave up several other opportunities that may have made the difference in our league." Barry, however, was not displeased with everything he saw. He was impressed with the play of Brian Reid and Ted Bergeron and thought his defense showed promise. Overall, he thought the team as a whole could play with anybody as long as they didn't make mental errors. "We'll be competitive, but next week is going to be a big week for us." Both teams meet Centennial on Monday and Napanee on Friday, which is a tough way to start a season.

The seniors had opened a 28-0 halftime lead in their game but coach Bob Mound felt this team was not a true test. Wayne Willemsen and Paul Hyde were impressive in this half but both coaches agreed to a different format for the second half. Coach Mound wanted to test his defense and the Campbellford coach wanted to test his offense, which he didn't get a chance to do in the first half. So, rather than play the normal way, Campbellford's offense was allowed to stay on the field against the Centurion defense. Coach Mound saw

QUESTION:

My son who is 16 wants to get his driver's licence. Is it worthwhile for him to take the driver training at school or a similar course?

ANSWER:

It is an excellent training. The instructors are up to date on all driving regulations, whereas, the average driver including fathers, quite often are not. Furthermore, the discount on your son's insurance will more than make up the cost of the fee for instruction. The discount requirement is not less than 25 hours of classroom instruction and 6 hours behind the wheel.

Madoc couple wed 50 years

Mr. and Mrs. David Johns celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary surrounded by family and friends on two days, September 7th and 8th. The celebrations started on Saturday with dinner at the Madoc Hotel with old friends Mr. and Mrs. George Blencowe from Toronto. On Sunday dinner was held at the Shoreline Motel, followed by a reception from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. with friends from Madoc, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton, Havelock, Campbellford, Orangeville, Harriston, Burlington and Toronto.

A niece of the couple, Mrs. Joyce Gartshore of Bayside, provided a beautiful three-layered anniversary cake. Another niece Mrs. Dianne Brooks of Brighton supplied all the flowers.

The couple were the recipients of numerous cards, gifts and a plaque from Premier Wm. Davis. Mrs. Johns is the former Velma Robbins of Toronto, her husband was originally from Belleville.

The bride and groom of 50 years were married in the United Church parsonage on Gerrard St. East, in Toronto, Sept. 7, 1929, by Rev. C.W. Follett. Doris Robbins was maid of honour for her sister. The best man was Norman Hulme of Toronto, a friend of the groom.

Following the wedding the happy couple left for a honeymoon in a 1929 Model T Ford Coupe, for The Island of Dreams Lodge, Honey Harbour.

Madoc youth charged

A Madoc youth has been charged with three counts of break, enter and theft over the break-ins that occurred in Madoc on September 13th.

Scott Randall Baumhour, 16, of Livingstone Avenue, has been charged. A warrant for the arrest of a second person in connection with the incidents - robberies of the Pinto store, the Madoc Public School and Centre Hastings Secondary School - has also been issued.

No one has been charged in connection with the break-in to the Madoc Cash and Carry store that happened the same night.

Queensborough News

Congratulations to Dana Creaser and Heather Holmes, who were united in marriage at St. Andrew's United Church, Queensboro, on Saturday.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Creaser were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Thomson, Mrs. Jim Lindsay, Mr. Louis Maas, Miss Helen Lindsay and Mr. Dwight Creaser of Nanticoke, Ont., and Miss Elaine McLellan of Toronto. All attended the Creaser - Holmes wedding on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Martin, Robbie, Jeannie and Kenny, of Peterborough, spent the supper hour on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ramsay.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith of Deep River, Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Cowan, Aurora, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moorcroft, Whitby, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sykes, Belleville, Mrs. Ruth Evans, Ameliasburg and Mrs. Muriel Roushohn, Whitby. All attended the Creaser - Holmes wedding Saturday.

Mr. Herb Franklin, Rochester, N.Y., spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Franklin. They all spent the supper hour on Monday with Mrs. Betty LaPalm, Madoc.

Several ladies attended the Harts-Riggs Women's Institute meeting on Tuesday evening, in Madoc Township School.

Miss Mona Walker and Lawrence and Mr. Kelly Lucas, Belleville, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke.

Mr. Bill Franklin and Pat, Havelock, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Franklin on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Herrington, Toronto, visited the Franklins on Sunday.

St. Andrew's U.C.W., unit 2, met on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Johnny Fleming. U.C.W. unit 1 met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Holmes.

Queensborough W.I.

The Queensboro branch of the W.I. held their September meeting in the W.I. Hall on Wednesday evening, September 12.

Mrs. Arthur Holmes, president, was in charge of the meeting. The roll call was "How Can I Better My Education?" There were 12 members and 3 visitors present.

Mrs. Robert McNeil read a selection on the motto of education, "What children wrote about the greatest day in their lives."

Mrs. Ken Cassidy introduced our guest speaker, Mrs. Warren Hill, from Madoc, who is our provincial board member. Mrs. Hill gave an interesting talk on institute procedure from the branch through to A.C.W.W. Mrs. David Gordon thanked her and presented her with a gift.

Mrs. Harry Declair gave a reading, "Views of a ten-year-old girl on education."

The meeting was closed with the "Queen" and lunch was served and a social time enjoyed by all.

Legion News

Our fall season got off to a fine start on Friday, September 14th, and I want to thank the comrades that did attend. Our next general meeting will be Friday, October 12th at 8 p.m. Let's have a good turnout.

Due to our 1st vice president resigning, Comrade Tom Sandford conducted nomination for a 2nd vice president as our 2nd vice president moved up to 1st vice president and our new 2nd vice president is Comrade Oscar Baumhour. Our 1st vice president is Comrade Lew May and our new membership chairman is Bob Smith.

Our branch has donated $50 to the Field Disaster Relief Fund and also $30 to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

On Sunday, October 21st, our branch is host to a Zone F3 meeting and on October 25th a seminar in our branch.

On Sunday, September 16th, Comrades Harry Dennis, Tom Sandford and Harry McGuire were attending a seminar in Branch 99, Belleville, and we hope to have them give some worthwhile information.

As you know, comrades, Poppy Season is very near and Comrade George Hoover, as Poppy Chairman, is looking for volunteer help in this worthwhile cause. George and Harry Dennis have been working very hard to get this under way. That's all for now, comrades.

Your Secretary,
Harry McGuire.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth Anne Fluke

Elizabeth Anne Fluke died in Kingston General Hospital on September 14, 1979, after a three-month illness. She was 24 years of age.

Mrs. Fluke was born in Peterborough, the daughter of Bev and Marie Pollock of Havelock, on May 9, 1955. She was married to Allan Fluke and had lived in Marmora from 1971 to 1975; she moved to Thompson, Manitoba that year returning in 1978.

She is survived by her husband, and her children Douglas and Angela, of Marmora, her parents, and brothers, Carl, Randy and Dwayne all of Havelock and her sister, Judy (Mrs. Dave Parkinson) of Campbellford. She was predeceased by her uncle, Peter Cassalman.

Mrs. Fluke rested at the Howden Funeral Home in Marmora from Monday, September 15; funeral services were at the Marmora Pentecostal Church on Wednesday, September 17 with the Rev. James Stevenson presiding. Interment was in the Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Pallbearers were Bill Ellis of Bowmanville, Doug Falls of Peterborough, Rick Henderson of Havelock, Robert Ellis of Marmora, Robert Derry of Marmora and some pleasing aspects of his team's defensive play in that Campbellford did have one very good running back and his defense was able to contain him very well. There was no doubt that the team members felt they were going to be competitive but Centennial will either prove them right or justify coach Mound's reluctance to go out on a limb in some of his pre-season predictions. "I saw things in this game that I wasn't sure we had and I now think we will be competitive but this game wasn't indicative of the kind of opposition that we will meet in our league."

Doug Little of Young's Point. Attending from a distance were Ray and Dianne Cassalman of Chapleau and Herb and Kathy Cassalman of Fort Francis. Mrs. Barb Sanderson was the organist for the ceremony.

The senior girl's basketball team travelled to Peterborough for an exhibition game and coach Dave Sellers also came away with mixed emotions. The senior girls handled the Peterborough team very easily but he felt that they should have scored twice as many points as they did. "That team really wasn't good competition for us so I still don't know how this team will do against good competition." They get their first taste of regular season play against Bancroft on Wednesday.

IN BRIEF:

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

Rosanne Bloom, 17 years old, of Norwood, was crowned the 1979-80 Norwood Fair Queen during a ceremony in the Norwood Centennial Sports Complex on Saturday evening. Rosanne was sponsored by the Norwood Volunteer Fire Department. First and second runners-up were Karen Tyhuis and Bev Barr.

The Norwood District High School has a new vice principal this year, Mrs. Marlene Braund, of Peterborough. Mrs. Braund had taught at Crestwood Secondary School for 16 years prior to coming to Norwood in her new position.

Norwood Council held their meeting last Monday evening where Mr. Everett Toms, accompanied by Donald Clarke and Arthur King, presented a brief in opposition to the Peterborough County Board of Education's planned French immersion program. Mr. Toms received support from the council that evening. He now has the support of six village and municipal councils in the Peterborough County.

St. Paul's School in Norwood has a number of new staff members this year. Jerry Ballandies has come to the school as principal along with Mrs. Lorraine Stubbs of Douro (grades 3-4), Mrs. Jacqui Marsh of Peterborough (grades 5-6) and Mrs. Carol MacDonald of Hastings (special education and French teacher).

MADOC THE REVIEW

The Madoc Fair got ideal weather over the weekend and many people think this may have contributed to record crowds showing up over the three-day event. Friday night surprised the members of the fair board with a beautiful fall night and when the gate receipts came in, they couldn't help smiling. Their fair was off to a tremendous start and, as the weekend continued, it got better and better.

The weather on Saturday was again very good and that was part of the reason that people didn't really realize just how many people attended the fair. "On a nice day like that, the crowd doesn't congregate in one spot so, unless you are out and moving around, you get a deceptive opinion of how many people are attending," said Francis Tobin, the fair secretary. And there were lots of interesting displays and competitions taking place to keep the crowd circulating.

On Sunday, believe it or not, the weather was even nicer. The baby show was one of the major attractions and was the reason for the arena being packed for most of the afternoon.

People from the Immigration Department are presently in the refugee camps looking for the family that will be coming to Madoc. Preparations for their arrival are being completed with the Veermans working feverishly to install the plumbing and heating in their apartment. Rugs, carpets, face cloths, towels and everyday cooking utensils will soon be needed by this family and can be donated by giving Mrs. Veerman a call.

With winter setting in, Traditional Chimney Sweeps, Hans Tronick and Bob Paget, are being kept busy. This is the time of year when it is best to have your chimney cleaned and they advise that it should at least be checked to see if it does need cleaning. It could save a lot of heartache later on.

HASTINGS THE STAR

Former president of the Hastings Chamber of Commerce, Bob Crate, is hoping to start up a new Chamber this fall, but it may not come under that name. He is primarily interested in getting the local merchants of the village together to discuss ideas which may eventually lead to bringing more people to the area to shop. The Chamber died over the summer months due to lack of support from the merchants.

Hastings Home and School Association, which has now changed its name to the Community School Association, is planning on starting up a Block Parents program in the area. It would involve volunteer parents who would be able to provide assistance to children on the streets in case of any emergency. The Association will be attending the October 1st village council meeting to seek approval.

This week's Hastings Star contains a tribute to the late Everett Elmhurst who died on September 4th. Mr. Elmhurst had dedicated his life to the concerns of the local people and their habitat. The native Indians of the Rice Lake region were one among many of his dearest interests.

A break-in occurred at the Hastings post office sometime during the morning of Saturday, September 15th. Two broken windows were found along with some minor damages. As of yet, no charges have been laid.

MARMORA THE HERALD

The Marmora and District Business Association has asked the village council to look into replacing the bylaw officer with a policeman. Citing increased vandalism, rowdiness and public drinking, the business people asked for an investigation of the expense. They feel that a policeman would have more authority than a bylaw enforcement officer.

Council decided the first step was to look for increased protection from the Ontario Provincial Police and moved to set a meeting with them. They also agreed to look into the relative cost of hiring a policeman. Some members felt that a policeman would actually offer little improvement and would cost the taxpayers more.

Marmora has a new councillor as the result of the resignation of longtime Councillor Bert Gray: Jean Hanley, a village real estate agent and mother of five becomes the first woman councillor in the village's history. Mr. Gray has moved to Elliot Lake.

The Ontario Cyclocross Championships will be held in Marmora in mid-November. Council approved the route for the cross-country race at its meeting last Tuesday and organizers report that arrangements are going ahead.

The Crowe Valley SnoRiders, Marmora's snowmobile club, held a high profile over the past two years, including a key role in the sled dog race. Now the club may be disbanded because not enough members have turned out to early meetings.

HAELOCK THE CITIZEN

A new business dealing in fire extinguishers, smoke detectors and related goods opened in Havelock recently. William Terrell, a captain with the Toronto Fire Department, and his wife Lois are providing this important service to the area. They have set up shop in the former flower store on No. 7 highway.

Registration has been opened for power skating for the winter months, and registration for figure skating lessons will take place September 29th. Two instructors from Peterborough will be coming to the village to give these two courses. Organizers are hoping for a good turnout. Figure skating will be given on Fridays and power skating Saturday mornings.

"He shoots! He scores!" John Doc, of Marmora, playing in his first NHL game with the Toronto Maple Leafs, has just scored his first NHL goal in his first shift as a starter for the Leafs, and it appears that he will be a real plus to the Leafs this year while some members of the Leaf organization are already comparing him to Daryl Sittler in his years as a rookie."

Sound like every young hockey player's dream? It happens every year that a rookie to the league makes that Cinderella appearance on the roster of some National Hockey League team and completes a dream that he has lived with since he was five years old and playing on his first House League team. The big goal, on national television, for one of the old, established hockey teams. The big salaries, fame and fortune and a day in his honour in his home town. Rubbing shoulders with the Daryl Sittlers, the Bobby Clarkes, the Gilbert Perreaults, the Marcel Dionnes and of course, the Guy Lafleurs.

Yes, a dream. But not an impossible dream and although many of our small town hockey players will never make it to the NHL, much less play Junior "A", the chances had improved immensely over the past few years with the expansion of the NHL and the addition of the WHA. Now that the WHA and the NHL have merged, some semblance of stabilization was expected to return to professional hockey, although many of the people involved are not sure that will happen. The "big bucks" might still be there.

You are probably now saying, "Oh great, here goes one of those editors off on his own little crusade against minor hockey!" Not so. We in the area served by our chain of weekly papers may soon have the chance to see the above mentioned dream come true for some of our hockey players and other athletes who have received their basic skills in much the same way as Gordie Howe and Bobbie Hull. At the present time, this area has several young athletes who have taken that first step towards making that dream a reality and we would like to make the people of the area aware of their efforts and let those new five year olds know that their dream can also come true if they are willing to put the effort into it and get the proper support of their communities.

Hockey powers come and go (with the possible exception of the Montreal Canadiens) and over the years, each and every town has had their team made up of players that many have thought could go on to play in the big leagues. For some reason, be it lack of skill or just the fact that the scouts never bothered to come to our area, these players have failed to make their bid for fame and fortune.

Greg Terrion, Mark and Justin Han ley of Marmora, are presently making that bid and, if things continue to go well for them, they could very soon become household names for those of us who never had the ability to go as far as they have gone. Maybe they won't all take that final step into the pros, but if even one of them makes it, hockey in this area may finally get the added little boost that will see us get regular visits from professional scouts and that will give our young dreamers a real reason to continue those dreams and to work towards their goal.

Those of us at Cembal Publications want to at least make everyone aware of their efforts and we hope, as the year progresses, to keep you informed on their chances to make the NHL. At this point, we are focussing mainly on hockey, but we also know of some other athletes in the area who are making their bids through other sports. We intend to include them in this series of features that may run through the winter months.

The problem with running a series of features on these athletes is that they already have a great deal of pressure on them and we don't want to add to that problem. We want the people to know their names and be able to follow them and support them. If they don't make it, at least the people know that they gave it their best shot and came close to making it and that our hockey programs are producing competitive athletes worthy of that little extra time and effort.

The experience, for me, was a new one which raised many conflicting emotions. When I conducted these interviews with these veterans of the Junior "A" wars, their confidence and enthusiasm was transmitted to me. It was just prior to their leaving Marmora for their various teams (Brantford, Kingston and Sudbury) and because they were veterans, they all expected to make their teams. Two of them were going into their last years in Junior "A" and I failed to take note of the fact that they mentioned that they really never knew what could happen. An injury, a bad play, a fight lost to a rookie in camp, could all mean that they wouldn't get their chance to play this year and, for those two in their final year, it would mean a drastic change in their plans for the future, but not necessarily their withdrawal from hockey. They are pros, already, and they all had backup plans.

They were anxious, as I was and I'm sure their families and friends as well, to see them have that big year that would bring them to the attention of the scouts and ensure their entry into the NHL. I saw it as a chance to revive the sometimes lethargic programs in some of our towns as well as a chance for us to really identify with success.

I, like many other people, had always been amazed by the contracts that some of our professional athletes were demanding (and getting) and I always thought to myself, "What an ideal way to make $100,000 a year." I have now changed my way of thinking. It isn't as easy as it looks and, by the time they get to the position of earning those large salaries, they deserve every bit they can get. Their careers may only last a maximum of ten years, it may take them two or three of those years to establish themselves and start to make those large salaries and they may have already put in fifteen years of "on the job training" in the minors with absolutely no assurance that it would ever lead to anything. All in all, they might have a twenty-five year career that would end by the time they were thirty or thirty-five years old. Putting it that way, I could see why they wanted to make a big salary for the three or four years that they would be at their peak.

As time went by, I got the chance to see their dreams unfolding and also being crushed. They were times when you felt the jubilation that went with success and also when you felt that despair and dejection of a player who saw his dream slowly evaporate. The times of waiting by the telephone for that call that meant that second chance, and not getting it. The time of knowing that you're good enough to help a team, but afraid that politics and father time were working against you. The dream of a lifetime turning into a nightmare.

But these are other stories that we hope to bring to you in later issues. Many of you will already know some of these stories, whether happy or tragic, but they are the kind of stories that are not often found in small town newspapers and should be known by all. We hope you enjoy the series and we hope that they all end happily.

The first of the series will be the story of Greg Terrion, now playing for the Brantford Alexanders in his last year of Junior "A" eligibility. He has already been offered a contract with Edmonton, but turned it down because he hadn't had a good year, as far as his own personal goals were concerned due to injuries. He felt that this last year of Junior "A" could make a substantial difference in where he went in the draft and the salary he could expect. Watch for his story within the next two or three issues.

NOEL'S NOTES

by Noel Stockton

Some years ago, in a different part of Ontario, and in a fleeting moment of aberration I was instrumental in starting a boys' club.

The idea came to me initially owing to the unsanitary habits of a section of the youthful complement of the town, filling in its spare hours with acts of indescribable vandalism and other expressions of frustration and unexpended energy, which didn't go down too well with the local constabulary who had actually made one or two rather half-hearted efforts to subdue the chaos, but with a remarkable dearth of success. My first act was to approach the editor of the local newspaper with the intention of soliciting his aid in the project, a support which he immediately gave to me whole-heartedly, mainly because his large plate glass window had been kicked into a million pieces the previous week by a playful gang of hooligans, and he was optimistic that a boys' club would keep them otherwise occupied so that they wouldn't want to kick his whole bloody building down.

Now there were other people in the town interested in my scheme, one of whom was the proprietor of the local Funeral Home. He was a cheerful enough chap in his way, whenever he could find it, but sadly devoid of anything between the ears other than embalming fluid, and that doesn't do too much for the old thinking process. By some cruel mischance on the part of a frivolous Fate he was appointed Chairman of our committee.

We went through all kinds of gymnastics to obtain the equipment we needed for this club, including a boxing ring where the boys could legally knock the hell out of each other, a couple of electric drills so they could make holes in one another, a pastime that seemed to appeal to them greatly, and we even persuaded the local St. John's Ambulance Brigade to offer to come along and give lectures to the boys on first aid, how to apply tourniquets and things in case one of their members should happen to sever an artery while kicking in windows at the high school.

We even had a pool table donated by the local magistrate which turned out to be a bit of an embarrassment because what should have been a surface of nice, green baize, was in actual fact a sort of puce corduroy, and we discovered that a couple of the legs had been either lost or stolen, so the U-Haul we had acquired for the lift merely succeeded in saving the kind donor the trouble and expense of carting the thing to the dump.

But we fixed it up by placing a disused washing machine under one end of it and we covered the playing surface with a red and white chequered table cloth that we found in the nearby laundromat.

Well, the night came for the Big Opening of the Boys' Club! We had invited members of all the service clubs in the town, the Rotarians, the Lions, the Kiwanis and Kinsmen, even the YMCA and the Canadian Legion, as we were desperately in need of funds for this project, and after all they are the boys with the beans.

So here we are, all gathered together in the local town hall, with everybody seated, scrubbed and polished and straining at the leash to hear what we had to say about our enterprise.

Now the Chairman, the Funeral Home director with the embalming fluid where you and I usually house our brains, was to make the opening pitch to the assembled mob. I had coached him volubly ahead of time, and warned him repeatedly to be careful to mention the fact that we had obtained a boxing ring and a number of tools in good order for the boys' use, as well as a partly usable pool table, and that the St. John's Ambulance boys were going to give weekly diatribes on blood-letting and bandaging of severed arms and that they would also give instruction on the art of artificial respiration, because we were in a district full of lakes and rivers and things, and their newly acquired knowledge could be put to good use resuscitating their comrades after we'd chucked them all in the water.

So up stands the Chairman and "Ladies and Gentlemen", says he for starters and also for finishers.

He beams at the audience as though he's just successfully completed the Sermon on the Mount.

With a little prodding from me he eventually managed to tell them how we were about to teach the boys skills hitherto uncharted and how to play pool in the magistrate's table.

But at this point the Funeral Director dried up. He had forgotten his lines, and

Newsprint shortage

There is a newsprint shortage in Ontario but none of the area's community newspapers is likely to feel the pinch. Quinte Web Offset in Tweed which prints 14 of the area's community newspapers including the five papers published by Cembal Publications says that they will not be affected by the shortage. "Our situation is that we have enough newsprint to do this year," said Eldon Kemp of Quinte Wednesday. "I can get as much next year as I got this year, and I've made arrangements with other sources so that I can get more if I need it. Mr. Kemp also said that he felt the "shortage" was not because there was less newsprint on the market but rather because there was not enough to meet what he termed "extreme expansions". All mills are producing to capacity and there isn't enough being domestically produced to meet expected demands of places like Smith Falls where the business has been "greatly increased". "However we're just a tiny company, growing slowly. We don't feel too threatened about it just yet" Mr. Kemp said.

Meanwhile the rest of the province is not so fortunate. Victoria-Haliburton M.P.P. John Eakins has called for the major newsprint suppliers to divert another 1,500 tons of newsprint to the Ontario weekly newspapers from their U.S. destinations. one and a half days' production" and called the diversion "reasonable and necessary." "These are small, independent papers which could face serious financial problems if their supply of newsprint is cut off. They have little or no inventory at the moment, while the major U.S. buyers still have about 20 days inventory on hand, even with the inventory."

CONSUMER BEAT

Thousands of consumer complaints are lodged every year in Ontario, and consumers are certainly justified when products, services or policies have been misrepresented.

But is the customer always right? Definitely not. Consumers often make assumptions about products or services that simply aren't true. You can avoid misunderstandings -- and disappointments -- by taking a few simple precautions.

Know what you're getting into

Comparison shop. By looking at prices and guarantees, service agreements and other features in several stores, you can avoid the frustration of discovering you could have had a better deal elsewhere.

Buy from a reputable business. Check a company's reputation with the local Better Business Bureau. Ask friends and relatives where they shop for specific items.

Ask about the store's policy on refunds and exchanges. You may not be entitled to them.

Choose carefully and avoid impulse buying. Have a firm idea of what you are looking for before shopping.

Remember that all contracts are binding. If you change your mind about a purchase or find a better price elsewhere, you are still bound by the agreement.

Keep records of your transactions. This includes sales slips, cancelled cheques, copies of advertisements, contracts, bills and any other materials that document your case.

Make sure you understand all instructions and terms of the guarantee before buying. If the label on your new sweater says "Dry Clean Only", don't expect it to hold its shape after you wash it.

The customer is not always right

Don't believe extravagant claims. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Be particularly careful here, when buying by mail. If possible, don't pay for your order until the goods are delivered.

When dealing with door-to-door sellers, check their registration with the nearest consumer services bureau of the ministry of consumer and commercial relations.

Know how to complain

Even taking all of these precautions, you may still find yourself with a complaint. Before you approach the store, be sure your case is justified. Did you have unreasonable expectations about the product? Do you understand the store's refund policy?

Don't lose your temper. Explain your problem clearly and calmly to the sales clerk. If the clerk is unable to help you, see the manager. Be prepared to explain what you want done about your complaint.

If you are still not satisfied, send a registered letter to the person in charge, or hand-deliver it. Include your name, address and telephone number, the name and type of product purchased, the date of purchase and price paid. Also include an outline of the problem and your attempts to solve it, copies of receipts, work orders and any other documentation, and what you want the company to do about your problem.

If you have signed an agreement to make regular payments on your purchase, send a copy of your letter to the company or bank from which credit was obtained.

If you believe the product doesn't live up to sales claims, advertisements or other representations regarding its size, quality or style, you may be able to cancel the agreement within six months of signing the contract.

The Business Practices Act, administered by the ministry of consumer and commercial relations, protects you against false, misleading or deceptive representations. To cancel a contract, send a registered letter which states: "I exercise my right of rescission under section four of The Business Practices Act". Include your reasons for making the request.

When dealing with door-to-door sales people, additional protection applies. Under The Consumer Protection Act you may, within two working days, cancel a contract for fifty dollars or more signed in your home.

Understand your rights

The ministry of consumer and commercial relations can provide information on The Business Practices Act and The Consumer Protection Act through its

But you can avoid problems by investigating purchases carefully. Look before you buy. Make sure you have all the details. After all, most consumer complaints can be avoided entirely when you get all the facts before the deal is closed.

SOME HARD FACTS

ABOUT HOME OWNERSHIP

The economic climate has far-reaching effects on all areas of business, and home construction is subject to the ravages of inflated prices, increasing interest rates and higher wages. What this means to you is that it will cost you more to build a home tomorrow as compared to today. Still, real estate remains as one of the best investments available to you.

Recent developments indicate that mortgage interest rates are increasing. At the same time, the government plans to offer "mortgage interest and property tax deductions" to all people paying for a home. If you are renting your accommodation, you will not benefit from these deductions but you will feel the effect of higher interest rates in higher rent. That boils down to more benefits for the home owner.

Now more than ever, Rollins Lumber's Self-Help Home plan is the best way to become a home owner. It not only helps keep down the overall cash outlay, but it gives you the opportunity to start right away with no down payment, thus avoiding the price increases sure to come next year. The big money saver comes from using your own labor on the home's interior. This seems to be the way of the future as more and more people are doing it themselves to keep costs down. They are also finding the bonus of satisfaction that can only come from creating something real with their own two hands.

Putting off making your move any longer can only cost you money in material costs and interest charges. Be assured that you will never buy a home for less. Come to Rollins Lumber and talk house today. You could be in your home this year if you get started now.

Call George MILLS or DAVE MARVIN for the details

Sauna heaters are fize hazards, says CSA

Owners of some sauna heaters are being urged to stop using them because of a potential fire hazard according to the Canadian Standards Association (CSA).
CSA has investigated two recent reports of fires in Mississauga, Ontario apartment buildings. About 1100 of these heaters were manufactured by Sauna World Limited from 1972 to 1976. None of these saunas have been certified by CSA although they bear the CSA mark.
They were designed to be placed on non-combustible surfaces such as solid concrete floors, but, in the fire incidents, wood underneath ceramic tiles, was ignited.

The sauna heaters can be identified by the marking "ELECTRO" and "CHROMALOX SAUNA HEATER". Anyone who has a sauna with this marking is urged to stop using it immediately and contact the manufacturer.

Noel's Notes

Then he floundered again.
I whispered at him once more.
"Oh yes," he starts off again, "they're there he is, glaring at me with something akin to panic in his right eye, and I whisper to him under my breath about the St. John's Ambulance guys coming in once a week.

"Oh yes!" he starts out again with a sudden surge of power as though the Hydro's just been turned on again, "oh yes," says he, "St. John's Ambulance people have offered to teach the boys about first aid and that and they'll show them how to stop bleeding and all."

also going to teach them something else," he says with relish, as though he's about to open a new public convenience on Front Street, "ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION!" he tells them with a proud smile.

Take the positive approach to being a parent!

We've got a series of "Kids are people" booklets that can help you with the everyday problems of raising children.

Will I ever sleep again? ☐

A booklet dedicated to baby's sleep habits. How to deal with baby's night wakings, nightmares, etc. Remember, it's best to start bedtime routines early in baby's life. This folder is a good place to begin.

Playing and learning (toddlers and infants) ☐

Infants and toddlers love to explore. Play-and-learn games are key ingredients to a healthy, positive child-parent relationship: doing, touching, tasting, and dramatic play. Also, "nursery songs", "finger and toe games", "story telling" and "mayonnaise painting". Play-and-learn games help baby's general development!

Toilet training ☐

Some helpful do's, don'ts and things to remember when it's time to produce the potty. Toilet training need not be inconvenient, embarrassing, frustrating or disappointing. Here's an effective guide to build your confidence in coping with this complicated issue! Minimize the child's problems and maximize your confidence.

Freedom to grow ☐

Psychologists believe that children should try to learn new skills naturally. Kids want to do things for themselves but can be discouraged when over-protected. We all want our children to grow up to be responsible, independent adults. This helpful folder can serve as an excellent guide along the way.

Aggression is natural ☐

Children go through the same feelings of frustration and anger as you do. And sometimes it's hard to get a handle on the hostility your child is experiencing. With a little self-control, love and the advice contained in this folder, you can make your child's aggressive tendencies a positive form of self-expression.

Jealousy ☐

It's practically impossible to prevent your older child from growing suspicious when a strange new baby arrives in the home. Help your child overcome these feelings by knowing about them before they happen. "What to do when baby arrives?", "special treats", and "shared caring" are just a few of the sensible suggestions this pamphlet offers. Prepare your child before the second baby comes along.

Discipline ☐

Discipline is confusing to many. Some feel it is wrong to be angry with a child. Discipline, however, is necessary to a healthy parent-child relationship. Ideally, discipline helps a child become self-confident and, more importantly, self-disciplined. Although there are no pat answers, this folder offers some reasonable suggestions, when your child becomes unreasonable.

Children are people. ☐

The importance of praise and encouragement, consistency in discipline, and the gift of love are discussed. The "child as a person" theory is examined with special emphasis on the early development of a positive parent-child relationship.

The beautiful floral tributes, sympathy cards, donations to the Water Mattress Fund at St. Joseph's Hospital and other charitable organizations, memorial service by officers and members of the Order of the Eastern Star conducted by Warkworth Chapter No. 279, and calls at the funeral home, were a wonderful tribute to mother and grandma and such a comfort to all of us. Many thanks to everyone, who faithfully sent so many lovely get well cards to mother and grandma, while she was in hospital and at home, during her illnesses of the past four and a half months, as well as remembering her with flowers, gifts, visits and telephone enquiries - she was so appreciative of everything that everyone did for her. Thank you to the Doctors of the Burnham Medical Services, Dr. Arthur Turner, Dr. Peter Tovish and the staff of 3-Medical, St. Joseph's Hospital. Thank you to Rev. John Neilson, Rev. Harold Wilson and Rev. David McBride for their tender words of comfort at the funeral and graveside service. Thank you to the neighbours and friends who sent food to our homes, and to the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hastings, for their gratifying dinner, for our many relatives and friends after the funeral. We extend our deep appreciation to Wayne and Kathy Milroy of the Milroy Funeral Home, Norwood. It is difficult to part with someone so very dear to all of us, but God eases our sorrow through the love of so many. May God bless you all. - Ken, Mona, Elaine, Denise and Shariene Humphries; Shirley Humphries; Grant and Pauline O'Dell. 5 I WISH to convey my appreciation to all my friends &amp; neighbours for their kind deeds and wishes during my recent bereavement. ## WOODS, WATER & WILDLIFE

BY RON REID

On a recent hike up a densely-wooded hillside, my wife and I were stopped by a curious buzzing sound above our heads. We quickly found the source - not a cluster of angry bumblebees as I first suspected, but rather a bevy of at least four ruby-throated hummingbirds darting among the leaves of a small birch tree.

The sight of these upright little birds, hardly larger than good-sized insects, is commonplace in colourful flower gardens, but what were they doing here in the midst of miles of forest? Our question was soon answered, as the hummingbirds swooped down to neatly-spaced rows of quarter-inch holes along the tree's trunk, feeding on the sap oozing from these fresh wounds.

The holes were obviously the work of a woodpecker, and their regular spacing and neat configuration revealed the identity of their creator - the yellow-bellied sapsucker. Sure enough, a moment later the crimson cap and bib of the sapsucker appeared from behind the trunk, contrasting with the overall black and white coloration of the bird.

As we watched, a pair of yellow-rump warblers joined the collection from higher in the tree, foraging on the small flying insects attracted by the sap. Some authorities believe that the hummingbirds also depend on these insects, which often float within the sap itself, and that the nourishment derived from the sap's sugar is a secondary objective.

Be that as it may, sweet nectars from blossoms and saps are a powerful lure for these sprightly little birds, and their dancing flight is fascinating to watch. Slow motion photography has revealed a wingbeat of 55 strokes a second while hovering, and up to 75 strokes per second while flying forward. This incredible wingbeat, combined with an upright flying position, allows hummingbirds to hover motionless, fly backwards, or speed forward at close to 60 miles per hour.

Each year, these tiny birds make the hazardous journey to the tropics for the winter, flying resolutely during the day quite close to the ground. Many cross the Gulf of Mexico on their return, with their spring migration timed precisely to coincide with the opening of their favourite blossoms. In Ontario, they can often be seen darting among the fragrant boughs of apple trees and lilac bushes.

Undoubtedly the hummingbird's friendly thievery from sapsuckers' feeding holes is a major factor in allowing them to penetrate wooded areas, where showy blossoms are scarce. Some forest managers regard the sapsucker as a pest, for its persistent drilling can damage a tree's form. But for other birds with a taste for sap or for insects, a sapsucker's workings are a goldmine of opportunity.

Business Management Seminar

IF YOU

- Operate your own business
- Manage someone else's business
- Expect to start a business

THEN: You are invited to attend a Small Business Seminar at The Canadian Legion Campbellford on Wed. October 3, 1979 9:00 AM-4:30 PM registration 8:30 AM

THE DAY'S AGENDA

Using the case study method you will analyse the problems of a small business—"The Corner Store"—facing expiry of its lease. The choices are either, pay more rent, construct another building, move to another location, or buy the building presently occupied. You will be exposed to the impact of these decisions on your financial statements. There will be brief presentations by speakers as well as group workshops. There will be a review of financial statements.

REGISTRATION:

If you are interested, please complete the registration coupon below, and mail it before Oct. 1, 1979 along with your cheque for $30.00 per person. This amount covers registration fees and luncheon. For further information, please contact Mgmt. Services at tel.: 576-6800
